COMMITTEE GIVES VICTORY TO TAFT IN CAMPAIGN PLAN

Refuses to Authorize Primaries for Selection of Delegates to National Convention.

THREATEN INDIANA FIGHT

New Chosen Leader of Body Which Will Arrange for Party Conclave in Chicago.

ROOSEVELT BOOM MAY BE VOLCANO

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The national Republican committee at its meeting today bore resemblance to a sleeping political volcano.

On the surface there was peace and quietude. President Taft and his forces seemed to be in complete control. But beneath the veneer of apparent harmony there were mutterings and rumblings which evidenced a condition of dangerous activity not at all pleasing to the ardent supporters of the president.

The members of the committee are on their way home tonight carrying to every [illegible] no message of encouragement for the Taft backers. They have been impressed with the general view that Mr. Taft's reelection will depend altogether upon the candidate of the Democracy. And practically all are imbued with the belief that if Theodore Roosevelt should be the nominee the chances of Republican victory would be immeasurably brighter.

Action Taken by Committee.

The action taken by the committee today, in brief, may be stated as follows:

Chicago was selected as the meeting place of the convention.

June 18 was fixed as the date for the convention to assemble.

The committee refused to authorize presidential primaries, but reaffirmed the old convention system for states in which there are no such primary laws.

A committee on arrangements was appointed, with Harry S. New of Indiana as chairman, but made up so as to recognize new as well as old elements of the regular party.

The progressives received no recognition from the committee.

There were three important developments of the meeting, the first the question which has arisen as to the availability of President Taft; the second the attempt, partially successful, of the old guard to regain control of the party machinery; and the third, the stand of the committee with respect to presidential primaries.

Old Guard Seeks Concessions?

So far as President Taft and Mr. Roosevelt are concerned, there is no question as to the strong undercurrent which has been sweeping for the latter. In part this may have been due to the desire of the old guard represented by Senator Crane of Massachusetts, Mr. Brooker of Connecticut, former Gov. Murphy of New Jersey, and Committeeman Ward of New York to force the president to grant them the concessions they sought.

In part it may have been inspired by the desire of the old guard to get from the president all they can during the months intervening before the convention assembles.

It was good tactics for these men to spread the talk for Col. Roosevelt. But, on the other hand, there was an undeniable sentiment for the Rough Rider, not, as has been explained, because of any liking for him, but in consequence of the opinions expressed by so many of the committeemen that he has a far better chance of winning in the election than has the president.

Dispute Over Indiana's Stand.

Tonight Chairman E. F. Lee of the Indiana Republican committee gave out a statement saying that representatives from the precinct committeemen show there is "pronounced dissatisfaction with Mr. Taft as our leader." Mr. New denies that this is true, and asserts the president will carry the state.

Chairman Brown of the Ohio state committee asserted that in spite of the refusal of the national committee to authorize presidential primaries he proposes to continue his fight within the state to assure the Republican voters an opportunity to express their preference. Brown is confident Roosevelt will be the choice.

But there was no demonstration for Roosevelt today, as the friends of Mr. Taft had apprehended yesterday, and they were so confident of their ability to command the situation that they did not even think it necessary to close the doors of the committee to the public. But there was equally no demonstration for Mr. Taft, a surprising fact, in view of the candidacy of the president for renomination.

Taft Is Not Disturbed.

The failure of the committee to indulge in any outburst of enthusiasm for the chief executive is not disturbing the latter nor his supporters. They feel they have gone through a serious situation and are congratulating themselves on the absence of friction and the results actually accomplished.

The old guard is feeling good, too. It developed tonight that this section of the committee had planned to make Mr. New the successor of Postmaster General Hitchcock as chairman of the committee. They failed, and Mr. Hitchcock's choice, former Gov. John F. Hill of Maine, was ratified.

But, with the assistance of the president, the old guard won in getting Mr. New named chairman of the committee on arrange-

DOG STOPS CHURCH ROBBERY.

Barks Rouse Priest—Thief Taken as He Prepares to Steal Gold Crucifixes from Altar.

A dog saved the altar of St. Michael's church, Eugenie street and Cleveland avenue, from violation early yesterday morning at the hands of Richard Deans, 22 years old, whose hunger had risen out of all proportion to his respect for Christianity. Deans was inside the church and had broken open several alms boxes when the barks of a dog awoke the Rev. Father Nicholas Klein, asleep in the parish house adjoining the church. He called the police. They found Deans hidden under a pew.

"Some men told me there were thousands of dollars' worth of valuables on the altar," he said. "I was hungry and I was getting ready to steal them when the police grabbed me."

He was locked up at the Hudson avenue station on a charge of burglary. Little of value, the priests say, is left on the altar at night.

GIRLS USE SHEET ROPE TO ESCAPE

CUT BARS WITH A FILE.

On a ladder of knotted sheets, five girls made an attempt to escape Sunday night from the House of the Good Shepherd, at Grace street and Racine avenue. The ladder broke when they were half way down, dropping two forty feet. One was seriously injured about the spine; the other received a broken arm and leg. A third escaped. The injured ones and two others were recaptured.

The House of the Good Shepherd is an institution for unfortunate girls. The majority of its prisoners have been sent there by the Juvenile court. Only a private record of the inmates' last names is maintained. The other records furnish the information that the leader of the five was a woman named Adeline, 22 years old. The rest were 18 and under. Adeline was the one who escaped. The police are looking for her.

File Bars of Windows.

The escape had been planned for some time. The girls procured a file and weakened the window bars of their dormitories on the second floor. It took hours of hard, patient work—how long, the sisters do not know. Sunday night was chosen for the final attempt, as the period when the sisters would be most engrossed with their religious duties.

During the early part of the evening the girls tied their bed sheets into a rope, calculated to reach from the second story window to the ground. This they hid under their mattresses until the final inspection for the night had been made. During the inspection they shammed sleep. When it was over they arose, dressed, and tied the end of the rope to the single window bar they had left solid. Then they broke out the others one by one.

Injured When Rope Breaks.

Adeline was the first to descend. She reached the ground safely. Phillisten, 15 years old, followed. When she was half way down, Collette, also 15 years old, heard some one enter the dormitory. She believed it was a sister. Without waiting for Phillisten to reach the ground she crawled through the broken bars and added her own weight to that already on the rope.

It broke. Phillisten, having the shortest distance to fall, escaped with a wrenched spine. The other girl dropped at least forty feet and sustained a broken arm and leg. She also was severely bruised.

Leola, 17 years old, and Noata, 18, who were still in the dormitory, gave the alarm. In the meantime, Adeline escaped. Collette and Phillisten were taken back into the house. The bars have been resealed.

MASTER DEAD, DOG STARVES.

After Being Locked in House by Police for Five Days Animal Is Rescued.

The recovery yesterday of a lost key saved Spider, a Spitz dog, from sacrificing himself to his allegiance to Charles Halpin, his dead master. Halpin died five days ago in a rooming house at 1007 South Wabash avenue, owned by C. F. Tabet.

Spider refused to follow his master's body from the room. The police locked the door and took the key. Spider starved, thirsted, and howled until yesterday, when the key, after much searching, was located at the South Clark street station.

Tabet had refused to break open the door. The dog was left in his care, pending a possible request for it by some relative of the dead man.

It was the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and it carried Christmas remembrances from more than 100,000 American residents.

RIOT BREAKS UP A PEACE MEETING IN CARNEGIE HALL

Germans and Irishmen Howl as Ironmaster and Big Men Sit on Stage.

ALL OVER ARBITRATION

Unintroduced Speaker Fights Treaties—Then "Out-Patient-Bedlamism" Begins.

RABBI WISE VAINLY URGES QUIET

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—An organized demonstration by disaffected Irishmen and Germans stopped the massmeeting held in Carnegie hall tonight under the auspices of the citizens' national committee in support of the ratification of the general arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France.

The manifestants all but routed Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, who made a vain attempt to restore order, and finally shut down the meeting, with Andrew Carnegie and Frederic R. Coudert yet to be heard from on the subject of the treaties.

Among the other men on the platform were Chauncey M. Depew, Elbert H. Gary, Maj. Gen. Frederick D. Grant, the Rt. Rev. David H. Greer, J. Franklin Fort, John Hays Hammond, the Rev. Dr. John H. Jowett, Henry W. Taft, and Jacob H. Schiff.

Wild Night in Carnegie Hall.

It was the wildest night Carnegie hall has known in a long time, and the man whose name the hall bears, sitting in the front row hearing the peace policies of which he has been so ardent an advocate, was hooted by a gallery full of rioters, with more or less assistance from other parts of the house.

The meeting trailed half its length in the most orderly and prosaic manner imaginable. Ex-Ambassador Joseph H. Choate made his speech as chairman of the meeting to a perfectly respectful and quiet audience. "Marse" Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal delivered a rather extended address under equally encouraging conditions.

Starts with Butler Speech.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university then took the floor, and after a short preliminary talk on the purposes of the treaties, offered a resolution, or, as he termed it, a "declaration," that the massmeeting was in accord with the object of the treaties and urged the senate to approve them.

As Dr. Butler called for the vote a man who had been sitting in the second row on the platform, a little to the left of Dr. Butler and Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Choate, got up. Dr. Butler was still talking, but the man who had risen to interrupt didn't wait for formalities. Shouting as loud as his lungs would permit, he launched into a motion that sounded about like this:

"I propose as an amendment that this meeting urge upon the senate of the United States the adoption of the majority report of the foreign relations committee, opposing the ratification of the treaties on the ground that they are breeders of war and not makers of peace."

Loud Rooting in Gallery.

The man who had these things to say handed out his card later, a card bearing the name of Alphonse G. Koelble, counselor at law, 45 Cedar street, New York. Koelble raised his hand as he finished, and as if that were the signal they had been waiting for a gallery full of rooters broke loose. They shouted and clapped and whistled and howled and stamped and shouted and clapped and so on some more and kept it up.

The shouting and the tumult would let down and then would start up again with renewed energy. It was centered in the gallery, with a big heavyset man in the middle of the front row acting as general in command.

Down in the front of the ground floor, to the left of the stage, was a man of considerable age, who appeared to be signaling to the various brigade commanders throughout the house.

There had been about a dozen policemen in the hall when the thing started. In a short space of time Capt. Day arrived with a dozen or more men, and scattered them through the house.

Meanwhile President Butler made several ineffectual efforts to speak. Mr. Choate joined him in the attempt to stem the tide.

Then Rabbi Wise took a hand. As he got up John T. Bristol, a member of the committee, forced his way to the edge of the platform and called in a loud voice for a rising vote on the original resolution. There were calls for the amendment and a renewed "booing," but Mr. Bristol had seized upon the first lull in the storm and succeeded in getting his words to the audience.

Audience Hisses the Rioters.

He put the motion and the lower floor and the boxes, with those on the platform and many in the lower galleries, stood together. There was no doubt that all of the meeting except the well organized rioters favored the resolution.

The resolution once passed by the rising vote, the crowd, which had come to vote for arbitration treaties and not to take part in a riot, faced the gallery, hissing the rioters. Policemen walked down the aisles and now and then one of the rioters was pointed out to him by indignant men and women.

Rabbi Wise was doing his level best, but it appeared that every attempt he made to get the audience under control was an unfortunate one. He was met with continual cries of "Shut up!" and "Throw him out!" from the galleries. But he continued his efforts to speak while the police kept on grabbing disturbers.

In a little while, the object of the meeting having been attained in voting the resolution, its organizers dismissed it.

CRUSHED BY AUTO; LEFT IN GUTTER

FOUND BY PLAYMATES.

Mob Stones Another Motor Car Driver Whose Car Kills Boy; Rescued by Policemen from Crowd.

Little Phil List of 5510 Madison avenue spent last night, and probably will spend many nights to come, lying on a bed in his parents' three room home with a broken leg in splints, and supported by pillows.

Besides the broken leg, Phil's scalp is partly torn away and he has internal injuries. An automobile did it.

Phil and a half-dozen other children from the Pullman flat building, which is just across the street from the List house, were playing in Madison avenue on Monday afternoon.

Automobile Hits Him.

An electric automobile driven by a man turned the corner at Fifty-fifth street and came speeding south on Madison avenue. All the other children got away. Phil, being the youngest, couldn't quite make the curb. The automobile caught him. His leg was crushed.

The autoist was scared. He stopped his machine, picked the screaming boy up in his arms, and put him inside the car. Then he got in himself and started off.

This is the evidence of the children who had been playing with the little boy. It is the belief of the people in the neighborhood that the unknown automobilist carried the injured child nearly two blocks south in his car, and, becoming still more alarmed when the little fellow fainted, slowed down his car, lifted him out, and put him in the gutter at the side of the street. It is the report at any rate that the child was struck while near Fifty-fifth street, carried away, and found later at Fifty-seventh street, lying on the pavement.

When the children saw little Phil picked up and carried off they ran upstairs to his mother with the information that her son had been kidnaped by a man in an automobile.

Hunt for "Kidnaped" Boy.

Mrs. List was frantic. That started a hunt for the "kidnaped" boy.

No one saw the injured child lying inconspicuously in the street, but after nearly an hour Philip came to his senses again and began to moan. Three boys, Fred Shepard, 1534 East Sixty-second street; Tom Roberts, 5812 Rosalie court; and Nat Ruff, 1516 East Sixty-first street, heard the sounds.

"We thought at first it was a dog which had been hurt," they explained yesterday. "It sounded like a lost dog."

While the boys were extracting Philip from the mud and were making the slow discovery that he was not a dog at all, but a boy, they were joined by a woman said to be a teacher at the University School of Education. She picked the child up, mud and all, and carried him to the office of Dr. L. D. Gorgas, 5720 Madison avenue.

Mother Hears of Accident.

Half an hour later Mrs. List still was looking for her child. Then a woman who had seen the child in Dr. Gorgas' office noticed her making inquiries on Fifty-fifth street.

"Are you looking for a lost boy?" she asked. "They found one half dead in the road at Fifty-seventh street."

After that Mrs. List took her child home. Dr. Roger T. Farley, for whom Mrs. List scrubs, set the child's limb.

"I think the boy will live," that physician said last evening. "He'll get over the broken leg and the scalp wound, although the shock and subsequent exposure have had a bad effect; but he has internal injuries the extent of which I haven't been able to learn."

Mrs. List said she wouldn't let her boy go to a hospital unless it was absolutely necessary to save his life.

"No one can take better care of him than I will," she vouchsafed.

The child's father is a blacksmith, has been out of work for eight weeks, and the family has a hard time getting enough to eat.

Boy Killed; Autoist Mobbed.

A crowd of angry Italians yesterday mobbed August Feldt of 2204 Prairie avenue, driver of a heavy auto truck, and Arthur Kundy and C. E. Barber, who were riding with him, after the machine had run over and killed John Andromico, 11 years old.

The accident occurred in front of the boy's residence, at 1110 West Polk street. The boy was in the street when the truck appeared suddenly and he was crushed under the wheels.

Feldt and his companions carried the body to a drug store. A crowd began to gather and began stoning the three men. Policemen Rourke and Egan drove off the mob before Feldt or his companions had been hurt. Feldt was taken to the station, where he was released on his own recognizance.

"SMART" BARBER FINED $10 FOR "FOOLING" A FARMER.

Piles Up Bill of $3.35 on Man Who Wanted a Hair Cut and Shave, but "Rube" Comes Back with Officer.

Charles Berryman, a barber employed in a shop owned by William O'Brien at 78 East Twelfth street, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Sheridan E. Fry yesterday for trying to be clever at the expense of J. P. Nalley, a farmer of Clarence, Ia., who had come here with his wife to visit the stock show and who had dropped into O'Brien's place to get a shave and a hair cut.

When Nalley had come out from under the spell of Berryman's deft hands the latter told him this was his bill:

Hair cut	$0.35	Head massage	$0.35
Shave	.15	Face massage	.35
Shampoo	.75	Shoes shined	.10
Hair singed	.25	Bottle of hair tonic	1.00

Nalley testified that he told Berryman he had only $3 with him, but that the barber returned 5 cents of that for car fare, so he could go to his hotel and get the balance.

"He said I looked like an honest feller. He was sure I would come back," said the farmer. "I came back all right, but I had a policeman with me. I didn't want to get all those things I got, but that barber feller he just kept right on a-goin'."

Judge Fry ordered Berryman to return the dollar paid by Nalley for the bottle of hair tonic.

GEORGE CROWNED EMPEROR OF INDIA; DELHI IS CAPITAL

GOVERNORSHIP FOR BENGAL

Large Grants and Concessions Mark Event of Splendor Seen by Multitude.

CHANGES SENSATION IN BRITAIN

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

DELHI, Dec. 12.—George V., king of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, today crowned himself emperor of India.

The king at the same ceremony announced that the capital of India would be transferred from Calcutta to Delhi.

The transfer of the seat of government was coupled with the announcement of the creation of a governorship for Bengal. The move is calculated to allay the hostile feelings that the partition of the government into two lieutenant governorships has fostered. The recent revolutionary discontent largely originated in Calcutta, and the task of administration on this account was made more difficult.

Big Concessions Mark Event.

Large grants and concessions marked the occasion. The viceroy, standing in front of the throne, announced them. They include:

The sum of $2,500,000 to promote popular education.

The remitment of debts due to poverty.

The release of prisoners.

Grants to pay men and noncommissioned officers.

Provisions that in the future native men and officers shall be eligible for the Victoria cross.

The coronation durbar was the most stirring and brilliant spectacle in the history of Hindustan.

In perfect weather George V. in person proclaimed his coronation in the east amid surroundings of dazzling splendor. The people's amphitheater early was filled almost to suffocation.

Officials Wondrously Bejeweled.

The smaller reserved stand was a glittering mass of princes, nobles, and men high in the official life of the country, in costumes of silk and velvet, and cloth of gold, all wondrously bejeweled.

The strains of the national anthem, played by massed bands, announced the arrival of the king-emperor and queen-empress.

By command of the king-emperor Sir Henry McMahon, master of ceremonies, opened the durbar. The king's speech followed, after which there was the picturesque ceremony of doing homage to India's ruler. The emperor's proclamation was read in English and Urdu, and at the conclusion the national anthem again was played, bringing the multitude to its feet shouting:

"God save the king!"

The great feudatory princes and rulers of India, with the leading British officials, occupied seats of honor near the pavilion located in the center. Screened from the gaze of the curious by a lattice framework, a number of Maharanis and other Indian women of high rank occupied two sections of the front galleries.

Soldiers Play Large Part.

The soldiers played a large part in the Durbar, and a guard of honor composed of 100 picked men was drawn up before the central pavilion. Troops of every arm surrounded the arena in a compact mass and lines of soldiers extended along the route of the royal approach.

Cheers heralded the arrival of a little band of veterans, the survivors of the armies which had made the present durbar possible. The old fighters, in their weather beaten uniforms, strove to keep up a show of military formation as they marched to the privileged place allotted them, but generally it was impossible, and many of them limped to their seats.

Almost immediately the vice regal procession came into view. Escorted by a brilliantly uniformed native bodyguard, the viceroy and Lady Hardinge sat in their state carriage drawn by blooded horses with outriders uniformed in scarlet and gold.

Monarchs in Rich Garb.

Then the booming of an imperial salute announced the approach of the emperor and empress. The royal carriage drawn by four magnificent horses was almost hidden from view by the gayly caparisoned escort.

The emperor wore a robe of imperial purple, a surcoat of purple with white satin breeches, and silk stockings. He was decked with the collars of the orders of the Garter and the Star of India, and also with the Star of the latter order. The imperial crown consisted of a band of diamonds studded with large emeralds and sapphires with rubies in the center, and a cap of purple velvet turned up with ermine.

The queen-empress' dress was of white satin embroidered with a design of roses, thistles, and shamrocks, with a border of lotus flowers. The star of India embroidered the front of her dress. Her majesty's imperial robe was of purple velvet, trimmed with ermine, and with a border of gold braid. She wore the orders of the Garter and the Star of India. Her ornaments were a diamond and emerald necklace and brooches.

Uniformed Lines File Past.

Carriage after carriage with members of the suite followed the imperial pair. The combined processions proceeded slowly to the great central tent, where their majesties stood to receive the homage and congratulations of the governors, ruling princes, and other representatives of British India.

When this gorgeously uniformed line had filed past the imperial and vice regal parties appeared before the vast assemblage in the Durbar amphitheater. When they took their seats on the crimson dais the strains of the national anthem were heard and the people rose as one person and stood in profound silence.

It was a striking group around the four thrones of the emperor, the empress, the viceroy, and the vicerine, at the back of which the imperial and vice regal staffs and the imperial cadet corps, composed entirely of youthful princes and scions of princely families, formed in rank.

First Formal Act of Ceremony.

The first formal act of the ceremony was performed by the foreign secretary, who advanced to the dais and asked permission of the emperor to open the durbar. At his signal a long roll from the drums and a thrilling call from the bugles were sounded followed by a triumphant peal of music from the bands. Then a note from the heralds' silver trumpets rang over the plain.

At that moment appeared the striking figure of the imperial herald mounted on a jet black charger and blazing in his brilliant uniform of gold and purple. Behind him were a drummer and sixteen trumpeters, eight British and eight natives. Halting for an instant, they sounded another blast, and then rode slowly toward the dais, where they gave a third call before saluting.

Cheer by 100,000 Persons.

The emperor then commanded the herald to read his proclamation announcing the coronation. The herald wheeled his charger around and read aloud so that all could hear that George had been crowned king-emperor. At that moment the royal standard was unfurled from the tall flagstaff in the center of the arena. The national anthem was played, and as the last notes died away 101 guns boomed the tidings of the proclamation.

Then along the never ending line of infantry rattled out a continuous firing of blank cartridges.

The herald retired to the entrance of the arena, sounded a further flourish, and the emperor arose from his throne and bowed to all sides. As he sat down the herald called for three cheers for the emperor, and a mighty roar burst from over 100,000 throats. Natives vied with the British in their acclamations, and the cheers within the arena were continued by the troops outside until they extended to the horizon.

Soldiers Get Half Month's Pay.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Lord Hardinge announced that half a month's pay would be granted to the non-commissioned officers and men, as well as the reservists of the British army in India. Half a month's pay was also granted to subordinate civil servants.

The greatest of durbars ever held in India then came to an end with the national anthem and a final burst from the silver trumpets.

Stirs Britain and India.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Dec 12.—The political announcements made at Delhi today during the coronation of King George as emperor of India have caused a sensation in Great Britain and India.

The transfer of the capital from Calcutta to Delhi is universally approved by all classes in India except at Calcutta and Bengal, where it is feared it will lead to trouble. The readjustment of Bengal causes many misgivings.

The Marquis of Lansdowne and Lord Curzon, both of whom have been governors general of India, expressed in the house of lords tonight their amazement at the startling and tremendous change which the former described as an abrupt reversal of the policy of Lord Curzon while he was viceroy.

Both of these speakers withheld detailed criticism on the change pending the return of King George to England, but demanded, as did A. Bonar Law, Unionist leader in the house of commons, the eventual discussion to the fullest extent of the new order of things.

Transfer to Cost $20,000,000.

It is notorious that Lord Curzon's well meant policy of dividing Bengal and of having two lieutenant governors, while it pleased the Mohammedans, exasperated the Hindoos and is responsible for the widespread bitterness and agitation which has prevailed.

The new arrangement is a modification of the partition, one leading feature being the reunion of the Bengali speaking divisions. All the changes were taken on the advice of the government of India, whose explanatory statement is now published.

The government estimates the cost of transferring the capital at $20,000,000 and suggests the possibility of a 3½ per cent loan to cover the expense.

WATCH FOR HIM, THE IMPOSTOR.

Collects Money in the Name of "The Tribune"—If You Meet Him Call a Policeman.

A colored man, who claimed he was representing THE TRIBUNE, collected money from north side residents yesterday under the pretense that it was to be used in giving "the annual Christmas dinner for newsboys." He said the dinner was to be given in the "Newsboys' clubrooms." THE TRIBUNE has no one collecting funds for a newsboys' dinner and the man was an impostor. Inquiry about the man came to THE TRIBUNE last night from a woman, who gave him a dollar. She said he had exhibited a list of other alleged contributors. The collector is described as a well dressed colored man about 25 years old, wearing a brown suit and a cap. If he calls on you please call a policeman and notify THE TRIBUNE.

ADE TALKS TO MANUFACTURERS

Says Humorist Has Only to Tell the Truth—"That's Why There Are So Few."

The Illinois Manufacturers' association held its fourteenth annual meeting and dinner at the Congress hotel last night. Charles Piez, new president of the association, talked of employers' liability insurance. Frederick W. Taylor of Boston told the theory of "scientific management" which he originated. George Ade said all that was necessary for a humorist was to tell the truth. He thought that was why there were so few humorists.

PORTEOUS WILL CONTEST SUIT.

Argues That if He, a Marksman, Shot at Wife, He Must Have Hit Her.

John M. Duffy, attorney for George M. Porteous in a divorce suit brought by Mabel Trego Montgomery Porteous, declares his client will deny he shot at his wife in an effort to kill her.

"An answer to Mrs. Porteous' bill has been filed," he asserted, "setting forth that Porteous did not shoot at her. It is ridiculous to suppose that he, an expert pistol shot, would not have hit her if he fired from fifteen feet, as has been charged."

GUNPOWDER THROWN IN BOILER

Can Placed Among Refuse Explodes in Apartment Building on the South Side.

A small can believed to have contained gunpowder was thrown with refuse into the firebox of a boiler in a flat building at 4330 Lake avenue last night and caused an explosion. Dr. J. Binkley, who owns and lives in the building, notified the police. The janitor found a similar can after the explosion and turned it over to the police. There has been no labor trouble at the building.

Jobless Men Lined Up for Free Coffee on West Side.

JOBLESS LINE UP FOR COFFEE

PREDICTS A HARD WINTER.

Philanthropist Says Work Now Is at a Premium.

The lunch wagon of Malcolm McDowell, who is secretary of the Central Trust company during business hours, came out from its summer quarters last night. It lumbered over to the old stand on Jefferson street near Madison street. The event was unannounced. Yet shortly there were 200 of the homeless and jobless swarmed about it. Each received a tin cup full of coffee, steaming hot, and a roll.

At 9:25 the wagon left the little restaurant on Madison street just around the corner from Jefferson street. A growing crowd of interested men had watched its loading. When it moved they formed a procession behind it. Before the wagon turned the corner fifty men were in line.

When the wagon halted half way between Washington and Madison streets there were nearly a hundred there. Most of them have been "carrying the banner." Where they came from nobody seemed to know, but they were there, all keenly hungry.

Down-and-Out Quotes Poetry.

Half the men in line were without overcoats. The night was not especially cold, but the shuffling line shivered. Occasionally one would look ahead and speculate how long it would be before he "got his." A few wore linen collars.

After visiting the wagon the men gathered in groups. As they sipped their "Java" and munched their "punk" they talked. Almost invariably the topic was a job. One fellow said he was an accountant. Retrenchment threw him among the unemployed. Another, in rags, quoted Shakspeare. He threw a "slug" of coffee into his mouth and said: "The quality of mercy is not strained."

The men who make up the coffee line are "down," but McDowell insists that they are not "out." They are willing to work. Most of them are looking forward to the ice harvest. It will furnish them with a few dollars each, which, by the judicious expenditure that hard luck teaches, will carry them through the winter.

Sees Hard Year for Unemployed.

This is going to be a busy year for the coffee wagon, McDowell thinks. "Political activity has disquieted business conditions and the big corporations are reducing their working forces," he said. "There are 234 men in the municipal lodging house tonight.

"That is a hundred more than normal. The municipal lodging house is an industrial barometer. It is the last place, despite the fact that lodging is free, where the men will go. As long as they have a dime to purchase a 'flop' elsewhere they'll do it. They are asked many questions at the municipal hotel, and they don't like it.

Lodging Houses All Filled.

"All other cheap lodging houses are overflowing.

"Hundreds of men will be refused work because they are not properly dressed to stand the cold. Last year a friend gave me $100 to use the best I saw it. I bought caps, mittens, and socks. Ice companies will only employ those who are warmly clad."

FOREMAN FAILS TO STOP FINE

Former Alderman Accused of Bullying Policeman in Auto Case.

FOSTER PUT IN QUEER LIGHT.

Park Chief Said to Have Suspended Man Who Made Arrets.

Milton J. Foreman, former alderman, was fined $10 and costs—$15 in all—in the Thirty-fifth street Municipal court yesterday on a charge of resisting an officer.

He was arrested Nov. 22 when he objected to the arrest of his chauffeur for speeding. He did not appear in court yesterday, but Judge Newcomer declared his bond forfeited and had the trial proceed.

At the trial it developed that the South Park police have been given a tacit warning not to arrest politicians. Under the questioning of Judge Newcomer, Policeman Fred Cook of the south park force, who arrested Foreman, admitted he had been suspended three days and reprimanded for making the arrest in the Foreman case and that this penalty had been imposed without any hearing and before any evidence in connection with the arrest had been submitted to the Municipal court.

Planned to Dismiss Case.

It further was disclosed that the law department of the south park board had made arrangements with the city prosecutor's office to have the suit against Foreman dismissed, but that some one neglected to instruct the assistant at the Thirty-fifth street court to that effect.

Foreman and his chauffeur, Henry Haven, were stopped while speeding twenty-five miles an hour in Michigan avenue, at Thirty-third street. Both cases were continued the day following the arrest, and on Dec. 5 Haven was fined $5 and costs and Foreman's case was continued.

"Is Mr. Foreman here?" asked Judge Newcomer, when the case was called.

"He is not," answered Policeman Cook, "and I want to have the case nonsuited."

"You can't enter a nonsuit, officer," said the judge. "That is up to the prosecutor. Do you wish to dismiss the case, Mr. Prosecutor?"

"I have no reason to nonsuit it," said Assistant City Prosecutor Bernard J. Matz.

Orders Foreman's Bond Forfeited.

"I then declared his bond, a $25 cash bond, forfeited and we will hear the evidence," said the judge.

"Tell your story," said Mr. Matz to Policeman Cook.

Cook gave the facts of the arrest and added:

"Foreman said to his chauffeur, 'What is that man stopping you for?' 'For speeding,' answered the chauffeur. 'Get his number,' ordered Foreman. Then he said to me, 'I will get you for this. I will fix you for this.' And I took him in, too, and booked him at the Stanton avenue station for resisting an officer. Again at the station he said, 'I will fix you for this. I will get you for this.'"

"Did he 'get' you?" asked Prosecutor Matz.

"I was suspended for three days since that time," answered Cook.

"Was anything said to you?" asked Matz.

"The general superintendent of the south parks, Frank Foster, asked me to drop the case and Capt. Thomas Richards of the south park police told me to nonsuit it," replied Cook.

"Do you mean to say that you were suspended three days without a word of evidence being heard in court?" asked Matz.

"Yes, sir," replied Cook.

"Do you realise that you are making some rather remarkable statements?" asked Judge Newcomer.

"It is the truth," replied Cook.

The fine of $15 was then imposed.

Robert Redfield, attorney for the south park board, said later that he called at the office of the city prosecutor yesterday morning after having talked with Foster and that he had been assured that the case against Foreman would be nonsuited.

"Col. Foreman will make a motion before the court tomorrow morning that the fine be dismissed and the case tried on its merits," said Attorney Redfield last night.

TAILORS PLAN NEW WAYS TO MAKE "BEATS" PAY UP.

May Form City Association and Credit Bureau to Keep Track of "Forgetful" Patrons.

"Nobody pays the tailor except the Chinaman, and he doesn't wear American clothes."

This was the line that brought laughs and accompanying affirmative nods last night at a dinner of the Chicago Society of Merchant Tailors in the Great Northern hotel. John H. Craddock, manager of the credit department of the Continental and Commercial National bank, the speaker, was invited by the tailors to make suggestions in their new campaign to make customers pay tailor bills.

Henceforth the clothesmakers are going to make the first day of every month a day for remembering the tailor as well as the flat owner, the butcher, and the grocer. President Joseph Back urged an organization among the merchant tailors, with a credit bureau which will keep track of the patrons of the tailor shops who fail to pay their bills.

MORE POLICEMEN TRAVEL BEAT.

Many Plain Clothes Men Ordered on Regular Duty—McWeeny Seeks to Check Crime.

As a result of an order issued by Chief of Police John McWeeny scores of plain clothes policemen who have been enjoying the benefits of detective duty last night were instructed to don uniforms again and travel beat. The order is to be permanent and is part of the police plan to suppress the present wave of crime.

CITY LAWYER NO. 2 INVOLVED

Ulysses Schwartz Reprimanded by Judge Newcomer.

HE HAS PRIVATE PRACTICE.

Court Hears He Has Obstructed Service of Official Warrant.

Another attorney in the city law department found himself in an embarrassing position yesterday, when it was disclosed that he was engaging in private practice of criminal law.

"Are you here in a public or private capacity?" asked Judge Newcomer of Ulysses Schwartz during a case at the Thirty-fifth street court.

"A private capacity, your honor," was the answer.

"Don't you think you occupy rather a peculiar position here?" asked the court.

Mr. Schwartz's answer was in the negative, but it did not satisfy Judge Newcomer.

The assistant city prosecutor was representing Mrs. Annie Morris, 3436 South Park avenue. She had caused the arrest of Mrs. Annie Tuller, 3615 Prairie avenue, on a charge of stealing a diamond pin left in a waist sent her with a bundle of washing. Four witnesses testified they had seen Mrs. Tuller wearing the pin. She was held to the grand jury in $1,000 bonds.

"What has become of the search warrant I issued at Mrs. Morris' request for the search of the premises where Mrs. Tuller lived?" asked the court when the finding had been made.

"I have it in my possession," said Detective William Mutter of the Stanton avenue station.

"Why haven't you served it?"

"I was instructed by the desk sergeant not to serve it. He said he had received a telephone message from the city prosecutor's office from a man named Schwartz not to serve the warrant."

"I did not order this warrant to be held," asserted the lawyer. "I merely asked that it be withheld with the judge's approval."

"Officer, I'll give you three hours to serve the warrant," said the judge to Mutter.

HUNT INSANE MEN IN WRECKED MINE

TELLS OF LONG HORROR.

Victim of Disaster Writes Last Letter to Wife, but Lives to Read It.

Briceville, Tenn., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Two madmen whose reason left them after long enduring the horrors of their imprisonment in the Cross Mountain mine since the explosion on Saturday are still roaming in the workings, eluding their rescuers.

In the dark hours of despair yesterday, when, after many hours behind the barricade, the five men who were later saved from a living tomb decided to venture forth into the main hallway and strike for liberty, Milton Henderson wrote a farewell letter to his young wife. He wrote it in the dark, against the grimy wall of the entry.

Farewell Letter to Wife.

Last night he read his farewell letter himself in the presence of his wife and relatives:

> Dear Little Wife: You have been a good little wife to me, but if I don't get to see you any more on this earth, as I told you some time ago, I want to be buried on Pleasant hill. Now, sweetheart, do as I tell you.
>
> You know that half the cow is yours, and the furniture—I don't know about. If I don't get out of this, you get your papa to help you pay for it.
>
> Baby, we have to fan with coats to live. [By this Henderson meant the frantic efforts made by the survivors to ward off the heat.] If I don't get to lay my eyes on you on this earth, hope we will meet each other in heaven. I feel that I soon will be gone. Thank God we are as one. Yet I do believe, by the help of Jesus, we will be delivered from this place.
>
> MILTON HENDERSON.

Tells Story of Struggle.

Today Milton Henderson told the story of the sixty-one and a half hours in the mine.

"We were all working together in old man Irish's entry when all at once we were thrown off our feet by an explosion," he said. "There was a flash of flame; we picked ourselves up and saw that none of us was badly hurt.

"Monday morning we decided to see how things looked on the other side of the barricade. We stuck our heads through a hole. We found the air was all right. We walked and walked. We were beginning to lose courage and some of us were lagging behind. Dad was weak. And then all at once we ran plump into the rescuers."

RIBE FOR THE TRIB

INCLUDE STADIUM IN SHORE PLAN

Architect's Scheme Covers the Site Between Jackson Boulevard and Hubbard Place.

START WORK IN 2 MONTHS

Commissioner Payne Expects Museum and I. C. Station in Three Years.

A stadium for both land and water events, of unrivaled size and great beauty, is a feature of the general scheme of reclaiming and beautifying the lake front.

Tentative plans for this structure already have been prepared by Olmsted Brothers of Boston and now await only the approval of the South park commissioners. This stadium will have a seating capacity of more than 100,000, with a pit on land sufficiently large for the most elaborate athletic events, army tournaments, or other outdoor gatherings. Over the arena spectators will have an open view of the lake. This arrangement will permit the use of the stadium for naval displays, boat races, and other water events.

Plans for the Stadium.

The stadium would be located east of the Illinois Central railroad's right of way between Jackson boulevard and Hubbard place. A colonnade towering 100 feet above Michigan avenue is proposed to flank the west side of the big field. The field will extend without interruption to the shore on the east. Huge columns between seventy-five and 100 feet in height will be one of the striking features.

The main entrance to the park will be over drives extended from Van Buren and Harrison streets through the colonnade, connecting with the other park roadways. In front of the colonnade, lying between it and the stadium seats, a garden is planned. The colonnade probably will be of concrete construction.

To the north and south of the stadium field, which will be four blocks in length, there will be wide expanses of lawn, which can be used if needed. President John Barton Payne of the park commission said yesterday that consideration of these plans will be taken up at once.

May Start in Two Months.

The most important phase disclosed during the day in connection with the development of the big lake scheme was the attitude assumed by every one connected with the undertaking. All urged immediate action. Mr. Payne predicted that work will be started within two months, and he said he expected substantial progress to be made in three years.

Within that time the Field Columbian museum will be completed and probably the new station of the Illinois Central railroad will be nearly as far advanced.

The contract for the construction of the museum already has been awarded to the Thompson-Starrett company at the approximate price of $4,500,000. This cost includes the building complete, with the exception of certain furniture which, it is estimated, will cost $200,000 additional.

Museum Contracts Let.

The contract provides that the construction shall begin April 1 next, and shall be completed Jan. 1, 1915. Contracts for the steel already have been let. Contracts for the [illegible]00,000 brick and 20,000 tons of tile and terra cotta will be let within the next few weeks.

The location of the museum practically has the approval of Montgomery Ward, who for years has been called the watch dog of the lake front.

Charles Thorne, nephew of Mr. Ward, expressed his personal approval of the site.

"This site is not in what is considered Grant park," he said, "and I think it is a fine location—much better than the one previously selected. The museum will be easily accessible, and will fit in with the Chicago plan."

Markham Talks of Station.

President Markham of the Illinois Central was asked when he proposed to begin construction of the new station.

"I cannot fix any date nor can I give an estimate of the cost," he replied. "But it will be a worthy neighbor of the museum in appearance. The plans have not been prepared. We are ready to rush work on them, however, as soon as the government agencies take the necessary action.

"We have acquired all the property we need, with the exception possibly of two or three small lots. It is a big proposition and we want to rearrange our tracks and construct buildings which will do for a long time, even with changes in conditions."

That was as close as Mr. Markham would talk for publication concerning the electrification of the Illinois Central terminals. Privately, however, he is said to have given assurances that the new station and the rearrangement of the tracks will provide for the use of electricity.

Payne Outlines First Steps.

President Payne of the park commission outlined the steps which will be taken at once.

"The title to the submerged land lies in the state," he said. "By an act of the legislature we can obtain that title by a decree of the Circuit court. The petition will be filed as soon as the lawyers can prepare it, perhaps in ten days. The Illinois Central will then give us deeds to the property they have agreed to transfer.

"By the time that this is out of the way the city council probably will have disposed of the vacations and dedications asked. I think sixty days will be sufficient for this work. Then we will start the widening of Twelfth street."

Mayor Harrison is enthusiastic over the lake front plans, and his attitude insures his aid in getting quick action.

"This project can be completed in five years if the work is started at once. If the breakwater is built immediately the city, with the excavation from the subway and street sweepings, could make a boulevard connecting Grant with Jackson park in five years," he said.

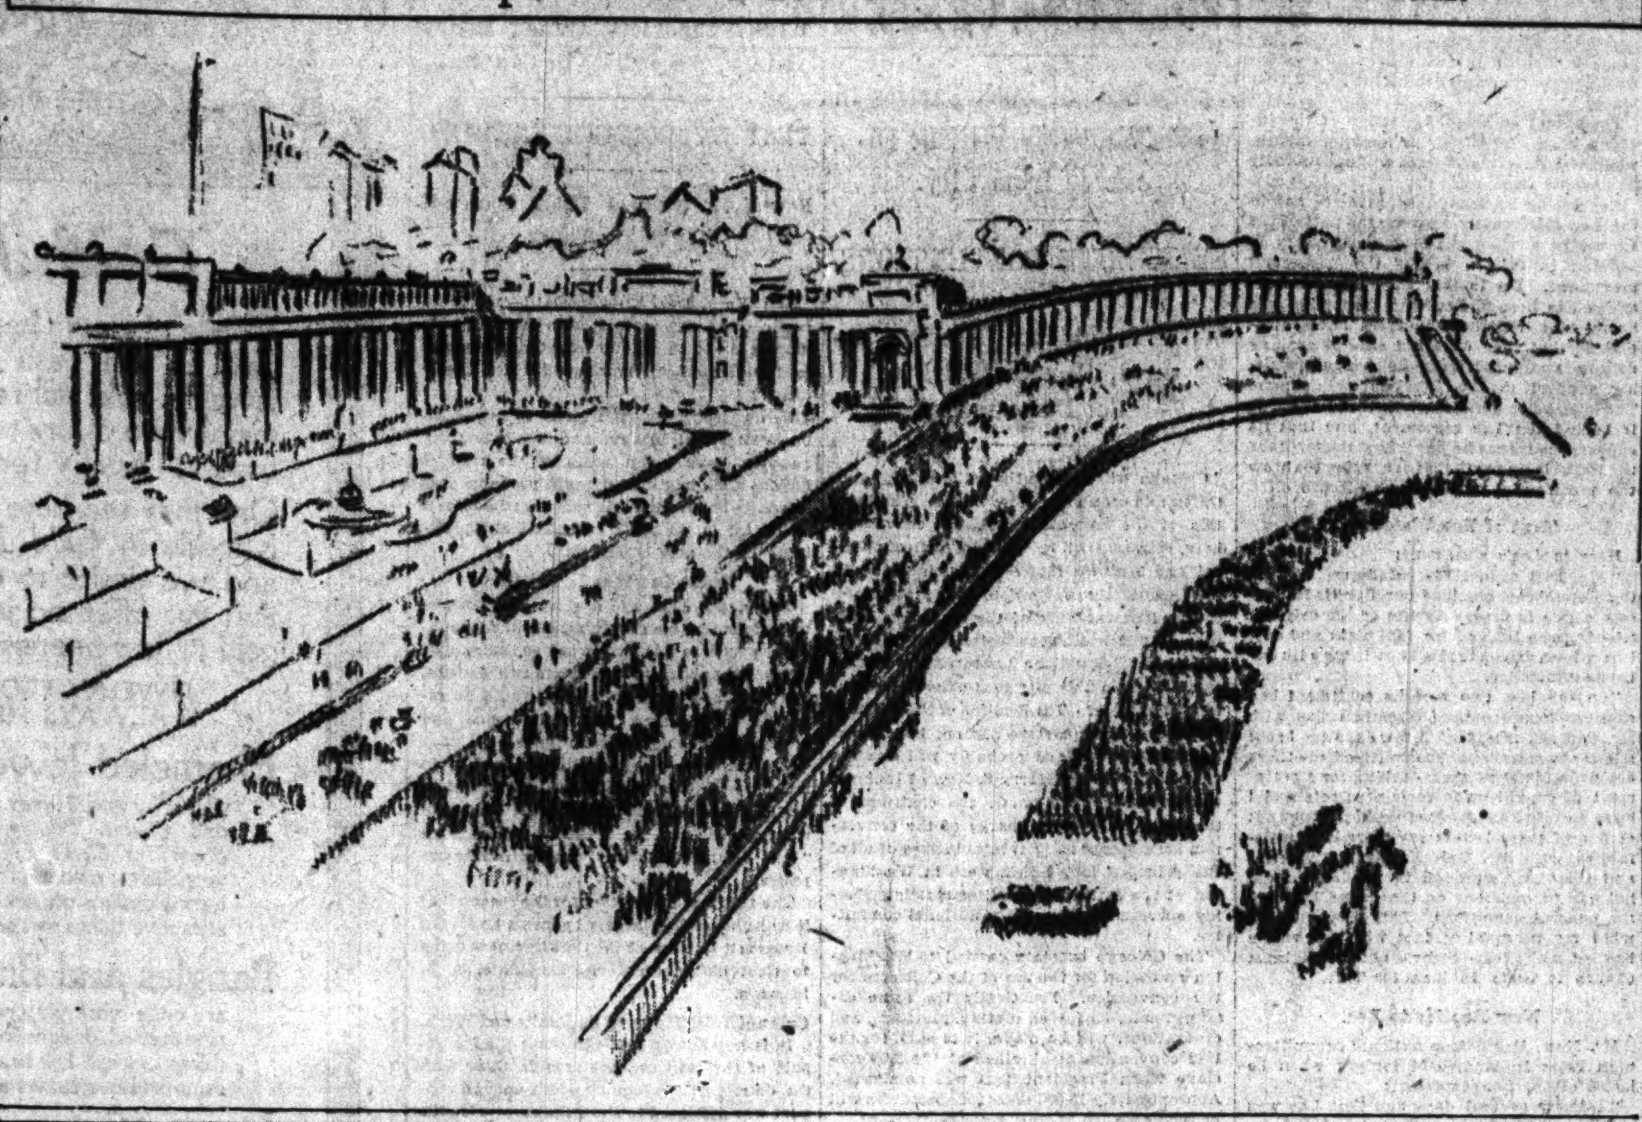
Redfield Says "No Delay."

"The proceedings in chancery to confirm the contract will be expedited," said Robert Redfield, attorney for the south park board, who drew up the contract. "The contract will be set out, the proposed boundary line shown, and the court will be asked to confirm it. If any taxpayer believes that the contract is not for the public interest he will have a hearing.

"It will be shown in behalf of the commissioners that the contract is advantageous, giving the rights which are necessary for the construction of an outer belt driveway for a very moderate return. The conduct of these proceedings should not require more than a few months, so that it is probably a matter of the near future when the agreement now entered into will be confirmed by court decree."

Alderman Littler of the council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges, to which the requests of the south park commission were referred, promised action within a few days.

Stadium Proposed as Part of the Lake Shore Plan.



PROJECT BOOSTS LAND VALUE

$20,000 a Foot Said to Have Been Refused for 12th St. Site.

KEEP SILENT ON OPTIONS.

Some Asserted to Have Been Closed as Late as Monday.

Land values along lower Michigan avenue, and to a less extent in what is known as the new south business district, are jumping under the impulse of the great project destined to result from the Illinois Central-park board agreement.

Owners and prospective purchasers, however, are in a state of bewilderment to a greater or less extent regarding the probable effect of the many plans. It is generally admitted it is the most important project affecting values that Michigan avenue ever has known, but just to what extent values are to advance on a legitimate basis is a matter which owners and prospective investors have not had time to decide.

There is no doubt, however, that a state of excitement prevails, speculation to a large extent, especially in the vicinity of Twelfth street, extending north along much of the Grant park frontage and south to Fifteenth street, and even further.

If the stories current of offers actually made and selling prices asked by owners are half true, values along some parts of the street have more than doubled as compared with those of a month or more ago.

Refuse $20,000 a Front Foot.

One report is that Charles H. Ruddock of New York and Alonzo W. Rhodes of Los Angeles, owners of the property at the northwest corner of the avenue and Twelfth street, refused $20,000 a front foot for the 100x177 feet, or $2,000,000, for what they purchased in 1906 for $200,000.

The figures recently fixed by the board of review are $335,142 for the land, and, with the four and five story buildings, $406,847. This is only about $4,000 a foot, undoubtedly less than it was worth previous to the present excitement, but $20,000 a foot is more than double its former value.

This offer is said to have been made a week or two ago by a large investor, who had learned what was in the wind. A few others are also said to have received inside information, and some of these are declared to have been busy taking options on such property as they were able to secure at desirable terms. Several of these options and contracts are asserted to have been closed late Monday afternoon, but the extent of these operations will only be known when the deeds are passed and recorded.

Another Value Boost Heard.

Another large owner on the avenue, not far from Twelfth street, who purchased that two years ago for about $4,000 a foot, is said to have refused to consider a long term lease on the basis of 4 per cent on $10,000 a foot, declaring his property to be worth $20,000 a foot.

A large estate owning property further north, which cost a few years ago a little over $3,000 a foot, is said to have refused to consider anything under $15,000 on a long term lease.

On a small holding of twenty foot frontage at 1515, which he purchased about ten days ago for $23,000 Clarence C. Duplaine made $3,000 in a sale to Byron L. Smith, who owns the twenty-four feet adjoining.

Details of what is actually going on along the street are difficult to ascertain from the brokers interested for the reason that they are trying to get more property.

It is thought Wabash avenue and State street values will also be materially strengthened both because of the Illinois Central and park board plans.

CALLS DENEEN "WORLD'S HEAD"

Man Who Tries Since April, 1910, to Become Citizen Fails to Qualify.

At regular intervals since April, 1910, Tony Lefrono, 151 Kensington avenue, has been trying to become an American citizen. He could never solve the mysteries of the United States government, so the day on which his final naturalization papers would have been issued has been postponed from time to time.

Yesterday he went into Judge Landis' court for another trial. His knowledge was as limited as ever. He knew nothing about congress, president, mayor, or governor.

"Who is Charles S. Deneen?" he finally was asked.

"He's the head man of the whole world," Tony replied.

Tony will have six months more to study our system of government.

Fugitive Found in Court as Bailiff Seizes Bondsman.

Henry Proest, who formerly conducted a saloon at 1024 California avenue, was before Judge Landis yesterday, telling how he wouldn't be able to make good on a bond he had signed for John J. Hughes, who, after having been indicted for a postoffice robbery, disappeared.

"It's like this, your honor," explained Proest glibly; "after I scheduled that house on the bond I sold it. I was paid $3,500 in cash. I took $1,400 of the money and bet it on baseball games. The teams I bet on didn't win. Then, to drown my sorrow, I went to a saloon and had a number of drinks. I don't remember what happened after that, but when I woke up the $2,100 I had in my pocket was gone."

Confronted by Document.

"That's an interesting story, Proest," said the court, "but what have you got to say about this document?" Thereupon the court displayed papers showing Proest hadn't sold his house at all, but had merely mortgaged it to a brewing concern. Proest didn't have much to say at first. Then he blurted out this:

"Well, judge, I guess I'll have to admit I lied to you about selling the house."

"How about losing that $1,400 on the ball games?"

"No, that wasn't true, either."

"And what about the $2,100 you lost in the saloon?"

"Yes, I was lying there, too."

Given Sixty Day Sentence.

"In other words," said Judge Landis, whose judicial calm had been considerably ruffled by Proest's effrontery, "you deliberately perjured yourself to mislead this court. You have been guilty of the most flagrant contempt. I sentence you to sixty days in the house of correction."

An officer was leading Proest away to jail when one of the bailiffs noticed a man in the back of the courtroom hurrying for the door.

"Stop that man," he exclaimed.

A dozen persons precipitated themselves upon the disturber immediately.

"I know you, John Hughes," said the bailiff; "you're the fellow who jumped his bond in this case. You can't fool me. I know you."

Hughes admitted his identity.

"I couldn't stay away," he said, explaining his presence in the courtroom. "I wanted to see how Proest would put it over."

BOYCOTTS SHOW; ARRESTED.

Rival Proprietor in Sign Urges Union Men Not to Patronize Neighbor.

A sign on a wagon which was stopped in front of a 5 cent theater at 1238 Milwaukee avenue owned by A. W. Ross last night urging union men not to patronize that place resulted in the arrest of H. Lawrence, 2547 Racine avenue, owner of a rival show at Milwaukee and Ashland avenues.

LOAN SHARK ROILS LANDIS

Withholds Sentence on Bank Clerks Who Stole to Repay.

LAWYER GOT 100 PER CENT.

Court Calls Him; Says, "Show Cause Why I Shouldn't Disbar You."

Two men faced the federal penitentiary yesterday because of the gripping hold which a "loan shark" had secured on one of them. But Judge Landis, in the United States District court, before whom they were brought to be sentenced, postponed that action. Instead of sending them to prison he ordered J. Carr Carroll, an attorney, who admitted he loaned money at the rate of 100 per cent a year, to show cause why he should not be disbarred from practicing in the federal courts.

"Burglary is a legitimate business compared with that of a loan shark," Judge Landis told Carroll.

Rudolph Kullas and Raymond O'Neil, former employés of the Continental and Commercial National bank, pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to defraud the bank through overdrafts. A shortage had been found in their accounts.

Stole to Repay Loan.

In explaining his reasons for taking the funds which did not belong to him Kullas said he was compelled to do it in an effort to pay back money he had borrowed from Carroll.

Judge Landis halted the proceedings and sent for Carroll. He appeared in court at the afternoon session and admitted he had loaned Kullas money for three years at the rate of 100 per cent a year.

"This man stands in the shadow of the penitentiary," declared Judge Landis, pointing to Kullas, "for embezzling from his employer and the most likely explanation is that he was paying 100 per cent a year, which, of course, is the logical result from such infamous transactions.

"A member of the bar of this court actually takes 100 per cent a year from the wages of a man situated in the way this man was. It was blood money.

"Is it your business now to loan money at that awful rate of interest," the judge inquired.

"Yes," replied Carroll.

"You appear before me on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. At that time you show cause why you should not be disbarred from practicing in this court."

Criticises Bank Salaries.

Then Judge Landis turned to O'Neill.

"By the way, what does the bank pay you fellows?"

"Sixty dollars a month."

"Good Lord! We pay our messengers more than that. What do you think ought to be done to these fellows?"

The judge's words were directed toward Assistant United States Attorney Childs, prosecutor.

"I don't think we ought to do anything," said Mr. Childs.

Judge Landis continued the case against Kullas and O'Neil for sixty days and released them on bonds, which they signed themselves.

GIRL ATTACKED; MAN CAUGHT

Farmers Scour Country; Find Victim in Swamp.

CAPTURED NEAR HAMMOND.

Young Woman Identifies Assailant; Disfigured for Life.

Hammond, Ind., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The discovery of pretty 16 year old Anna Krause, daughter of John Krause, a carpenter contractor of Highlands, Ind., floundering waist deep in a swamp between Hammond and Gary and bleeding from a dozen deep wounds in her face caused a man hunt this afternoon which resulted in the capture of Steve Miller, a foreign laborer. The girl was taken to St. Margaret's hospital. Two hours later Miller was brought to the hospital to confront her. The victim's eyes were so badly swollen that surgical retractors had to be used to enable her to see the man before her.

"That's the brute; that's him," said the girl without a moment's hesitation, although entirely unprepared for Miller's presence.

Man Refuses to Confess.

Asked to confess in the presence of his accuser, Miller sullenly and in broken English denied knowing her. He was taken back to the Hammond police station to await a preliminary hearing tomorrow morning on the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill.

Miller is 35 years old and unmarried. He has worked near Hessville, Ind., for several months. When captured this afternoon the lapels of his coat were wet in spots. These were said to be blood stains.

It is thought that the victim of the attack will recover, but she will be disfigured for life. She said her assailant attacked her with a sharp pointed stick.

"Lynching Bee" Threatened.

Only the closest guard over Miller by the Hammond police and Sheriff Thomas Grant saved him from violence from a posse which was following him when he was captured by Policeman Nicholas Einsele.

News of the attack was carried on a motorcycle by Robert Law, a Hammond policeman, and a hundred farmers armed with shotguns, revolvers, and rifles, and augmented by police squads from Hammond and East Chicago, began a "drive" and closed in on Miller from all sides.

THREE BOYS IN BLOCK MISSING.

Youngsters Fail to Return Home After School—Now Sought by Police.

Three schoolboys, living in the same block, who failed to return to their homes yesterday at the close of school, are now being sought for by the police. They are: Walter Ogborn, 16 years old, 3832 Elmwood avenue; Michael Meskill, 18 years old, 3846 Elmwood avenue; Philip Riley, 15 years old, 3846 Elmwood avenue.

DIVES 19 FLOORS IN MASONIC TEMPLE

Maniac Disrobes, Says He Is 'Going Swimming,' Plunges 225 Feet to His Death.

FALLING BODY HITS MAN.

Harry Evans, with Crushed Chest, Internal Injuries, and Torn Knee, May Die.

James G. Greek, a machinist, disrobed in the corridor on the nineteenth floor of the Masonic temple yesterday noon and climbed over the five foot railing to a girder which spans the top of the court. On hand and knees he worked his way to the center of the beam. He stood up and, raising his hands like a diver, leaped.

He dropped 225 feet. The descending body, having acquired almost irresistible momentum, struck Harry Evans, 6406 Vernon avenue, who was buying a smoke at the cigar case on the main floor. Almost simultaneously it hit the counter with a crash that emptied offices of startled workers and brought them fearfully to the railing which guards the open court on the many floors.

Greek, who came from El Paso, Tex., and has been rooming at the residence of William Cormack at 4258 Carroll avenue, died instantly.

Evans Near Death.

Evans was hurried to the Practitioners' hospital. After a consultation at night physicians said he had one chance in a hundred to survive. The bones of his chest were crushed in, causing internal injuries which probably will prove fatal. The ligaments of his left knee were also torn by the strain of the impact.

The injured man is 23 years old. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Evans. His father is a lake captain, and the son worked in his employ.

Greek's death is the most horrible of the eight which has resulted in Chicago by leaping from high buildings. Four of these deaths have occurred in the Masonic temple, two of them this year.

Fifteenth Story Suicides' Favorite.

They are:

George A. Wright, 4243 Whipple street; leaped from fifteenth story on July 8 last.

Anna Normoyle, 4534 Forrestville avenue; jumped from fifteenth story on July 17, 1907.

Albert C. Greenleaf, former business man of Columbus, O.; jumped from sixteenth story on Jan. 15, 1898.

The Chamber of Commerce building also has claimed four victims of the "leap lust." Of the eight who have died thus, Greek leaped from the highest point.

Porter Sees Maniac.

The suicide occurred about 12:30 o'clock. Greek first was noticed by Sebastian Tolmairie, 3616 Dearborn street, a porter on the nineteenth floor. Looking across the court, Tolmairie saw the naked maniac clambering over the railing. At first he didn't realize what the man was doing. Then he saw him climb out on the girder. Tolmairie called to him. His shouts brought the man to the attention of Mildred Alexander, 2300 Indiana avenue, a manicurist, and R. D. Russell, 3351 Fullerton avenue, who sells tickets for the observatory.

J. J. Sullivan, 3324 Archer avenue, who operates the elevator in the north shaft, saw Greek climbing over the cross beam. He left his car and walked to the railing. The three others shouted to him. He paid no attention to them.

Tries to Divert Maniac's Attention.

"Wait a minute, old man," Sullivan called to the crazed man. "Let's go get a drink."

Greek stopped crawling. Turning his head around, he said:

"I'm going swimming. Go away and leave me alone."

Then he continued to the middle of the beam, critically surveying the void below, as if looking for a better position. As he rose to his feet the watchers saw there was a half burned, unlit cigaret in his lips. Greek raised his arms over his head after the fashion of a diver. He poised himself, then he shot downward, head foremost.

Above the cigar stand in the rotunda is a canopy. Greek's right arm struck this. The limb was severed at the elbow and it fell about fifteen feet away. Evans was knocked flat. The body of the suicide rested on the right side of the demolished counter. It was horribly maimed, only the head escaping disfiguration.

Greek left El Paso in June. He had been working as a machinist in the Northwestern railroad shops. A check for $63.90 was found in his pocket. He carried a card of the International Association of Machinists and was a Mason.

News of the injury of Evans revived the activity of city officials in advocating an ordinance to compel the installation of screens in open courts of skyscrapers to prevent injury of persons by falling bodies.

COMMITTEE GIVES VICTORY TO TAFT

Refuses to Authorize Primary Plan for Election of Delegates.

THREATEN INDIANA ROW.

New Chosen Leader of Body to Arrange for Big Conclave in Chicago.

ments. They were forced to compromise with respect to the membership of the committee. They succeeded in bringing about the selection of Committeemen Murphy of New Jersey and Mulvane of Kansas, but were forced to assent to the appointment of Rosewater of Nebraska, Williams of Oregon, and Duncan of North Carolina. The president dictated the selection of Vorys of Ohio, who thus will hold the balance of power, provided the other men line up against each other. In addition, ex-Gov. Hill and Secretary Hayward were named as ex-officio members of the committee.

Committee of Great Importance.

This committee is important in its relation to the convention. It will select the temporary officers of the convention and arrange for the temporary organization and seating of the delegations. In case Mr. Hill should be forced to relinquish the the chairmanship —he is in delicate health—Mr. New will be the acting chairman.

The southern committeemen were violently opposed to New because of his attitude in the convention of 1908 in advocating a reduction of southern representation. It was due to their insistence that the membership of the committee was increased from five to seven and that Mr. Duncan was named as one of the members.

One feature of this phase of the committee's proceedings which did not escape those on the inside was the control of the southern committeemen enjoyed by Postmaster General Hitchcock. This cabinet officer took a determined stand against New as his successor, but finally agreed to his selection as chairman of the committee on arrangements. It is said that he and the president had rather a warm discussion in connection with this matter.

Hilles to Manage Campaign?

Secretary Hilles, who acted as the president's interpreter, backed up the president and undoubtedly won respect by the way in which he dealt with a difficult situation. The effect of his activity has been to revive reports that he will be named at once as the president's campaign manager. Every committeeman who is at heart friendly to the president is urging the president to organize, and it is possible that Mr. Hilles may devote himself entirely during the next few months to the work of arranging for the president's renomination.

The presidential primary question is the only one that aroused any contest to speak of in the meeting today. The action taken is supposed to have been in keeping with Mr. Taft's own views. The fight to leave it optional with the state committees as to whether delegates to the national convention should be chosen by the primary or the old convention method was led by Senator Borah of Idaho.

Mr. Borah has been credited with strong leanings toward the nomination of Roosevelt, and his opposition today was the only occurrence that would be stretched into a demonstration in favor of the colonel. Mr. Borah was a member of the subcommittee appointed to prepare the call for the national convention. Other members of the subcommittee were Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Victor Rosewater of Nebraska, William L. Ward of New York, and John G. Capers of South Carolina.

Borah Is Only Objector.

The majority report, signed by all the members of the subcommittee except Senator Borah, leaves it discretionary with the state committees in states which have presidential primary laws whether the delegates to the national convention shall be selected by the primary system or by the old convention system.

There are only six states at present having such primary laws. They are New Jersey, Nebraska, Oregon, Wisconsin, and North and South Dakota, although California probably will have such a law in time to elect delegates.

Senator Borah's minority report provided for making it optional with the Republican organizations in all the states, whether they had presidential primary laws or not, as to whether delegates should be elected by the primary or convention method.

Mr. Borah's proposition of leaving the matter to the state committees obtained only seven votes. Those voting in favor of it were T. Coleman Du Pont of Delaware, Victor Rosewater of Nebraska, Ralph E. Williams of Oregon, Thomas Thorson of South Dakota, Alfred T. Rodgers of Wisconsin, Charles Cavender of Colorado, and Mr. Borah.

There were forty-four votes in favor of the majority proposition.

Mr. Vorys, national committeeman from Ohio, is supposed to have expressed the president's views when he told the committee today:

"There is no way in which the national committee could provide for a primary for delegates at large or direct nomination of the president in Ohio except by authorizing a primary to be conducted in addition to the legal primary, under control of the party committee and without the safeguards of the law.

"I do not believe this is desired. If the general assembly in Ohio should be called in extra session and provide a law for electing delegates at large such law can be followed. If the state committee wants to have a popularity contest for moral effect and instruction to the Ohio delegation they can provide for such a party primary. There is nothing in the national committee call to prevent it."

Brown to Continue Fight.

Chairman Brown of the Ohio state committee does not propose to abandon the fight for presidential primaries in the Buckeye state.

"Ohio Republicans who are interested chiefly in party success at the polls—who are more concerned about elections than about nominations—will regret that the national committee has seen fit to deny to state committees the option to provide for the selection of delegates at large by primaries," he said. "Undoubtedly forty-two out of the total of forty-eight national delegates will be elected at district primaries under the law of Ohio as it now stands.

"If the six delegates at large could also be elected by direct vote—and I believe that a method of so doing, properly safeguarded, could be worked out—the state convention to nominate a state ticket could be held after the national convention, and, in any event, the presidential issue could be eliminated from the deliberation of the state convention, with obvious advantage to party nominees upon the state ticket."

Many Contests in Sight.

There is no way, of course, of enforcing state primary laws upon a national convention, and in the event of a state committee determining to have delegates elected by convention in a state where such a primary law is in force, it would undoubtedly result in two delegations going to the national convention and the seating of the delegation chosen according to the method authorized by the state Republican organization. A large number of contests is expected in any event.

The La Follette people are raising a hue and cry over this feature of the call. In a statement issued tonight they say:

"The Republican national committee not only refused to permit state committees to hold presidential primaries if they so wished, but went out of its way to affront the states which have made provisions for such primaries. The call not only requires the authority of the state committee to make valid the election of delegates in the states which by law have provided for presidential primaries, but permits the state committee to order the selection of delegates contrary to law, in defiance of the wishes of the people of those states, by caucus and convention. This applies not only to the states in which there is legal provision for presidential primaries but to states like Ohio and Pennsylvania, where the law requires that district delegates shall be elected directly by the voters of the party. At the first opportunity the people will rebuke this insolent contempt for the laws of the states and for the popular demand for direct nominations."

Accuse Brown and Lee.

Friends of the president point out that Brown is disgruntled over failure to receive patronage recognition in Ohio. So far as Chairman Lee of Indiana is concerned, it is said he is opposed to Mr. Taft because he failed in his candidacy for a federal office. Lee is the first lieutenant in Indiana of ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge, since Beveridge's retirement from the senate. President Taft has ignored him in the matter of party appointments in Indiana, and the Taft people are looking to the Fairbanks-Hemenway crowd to handle the situation in that state.

There will be a reorganization of the Indiana state committee in about a month, when the Beveridge forces will undoubtedly be deposed from control.

Republican national leaders discerned in the Lee statement a move on the part of the Beveridge wing of the Republican party in Indiana to fall in behind the Roosevelt movement. Up to this time Senator Beveridge has been flirting with the La Follette boom. La Follette managers have complained that they were not able to get any definite statement from Beveridge promising support to the Wisconsin statesman. The impression here tonight is that Beveridge is behind the Lee statement, and that its appearance means he has joined the forces of the Republican party that are trying to throw the presidential nomination to Roosevelt.

Text of Lee Statement.

Here is Lee's statement:

"Mr. Taft cannot carry Indiana. If he is the Republican nominee our fight is lost before a gun is fired. As one of his original friends, who labored for him night and day, I have been driven to this knowledge with extreme reluctance.

"In the last two months sentiment has changed to pronounced dissatisfaction with Mr. Taft as our leader. A few days ago I sent a letter to our precinct committeemen—there are over 23,000 of them—asking for a statement of conditions in their precincts and I have received hundreds of replies. Four out of five of these letters say there is dissatisfaction with Mr. Taft among the voters—and this, too, although in my letter I did not ask for opinions on that point, but only for general conditions. This proves to me what my personal contact with our voters has led me to fear—there is not the slightest chance to carry Indiana for Taft."

New Replies to Lee.

Mr. New, Republican national committeeman from Indiana, said tonight when he heard of the Lee statement:

"I knew several days ago that Lee was coming to Washington to make this statement. I told the president on Saturday that he was going to make the statement. I could without much trouble guess what is behind the statement and fix the date on which he experienced a change of sentiment.

"I disagree absolutely with Mr. Lee's prognostications in rgard to the effect of President Taft's renomination. I believe Mr. Taft is the strongest man the party can nominate, and I do not believe the Republicans of Indiana will be affected by Mr. Lee's pessimistic views."

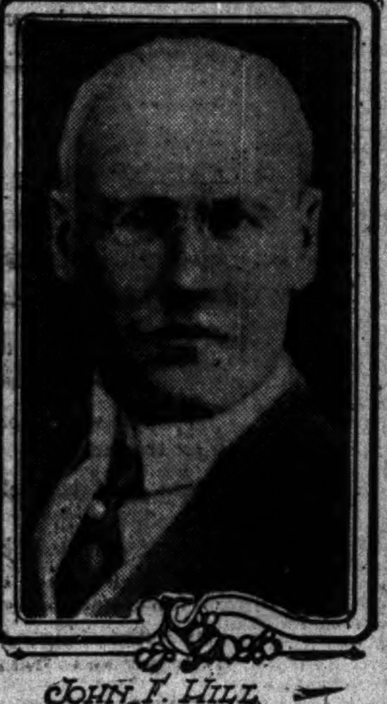
Upham May Be Treasurer.

The officers of the committee who will manage the campaign will not be elected until after the convention. Of importance equaling the chairmanship is the office of the treasurer, for which place Fred W. Upham of Chicago is one of the leading possibilities. Mr. Upham served as assistant treasurer with headquarters at Chicago during the last campaign, and his efforts brought in a large proportion of the fund used by the organization. He is recognized as a first class hand in garnering the wherewithal to finance a great undertaking like a national campaign, and many members of the committee believe that he deserves promotion to the treasurership.

If Mr. Upham should be elected treasurer he will resign his commission on the Cook county board of review, as it would arouse much adverse criticism were a powerful taxing official with a voice in the levying of assessments on great corporations appointed to pass the plate for the Republican party. In fact, Mr. Upham has announced a desire to retire from the reviewing body and he stated today that he would resign immediately if County Judge Owens would agree to appoint a Republican as his successor.

According to the understanding of the situation here Upham and his friends want Judge Owens to appoint Frank A. Vogler.

Chosen Chairman by Republicans.



JOHN F. HILL

John F. Hill, former governor of Maine, was elected chairman of the Republican national committee at the meeting in Washington yesterday.

CHICAGO WILL BE POLITICAL CENTER

Campaigns of Both Parties in 1912 Probably Will Be Directed from City.

SEEK BOTH CONVENTIONS.

With Republican Meeting Assured, Boosters Work to Get Democratic.

Chicago will become the political capital of the nation soon after New Year's. The location of the Republican national convention here, coupled with redoubled efforts of political and business interests combined to win the Democratic convention, gave strong indication that the bulk of the campaign business of 1912 will be conducted from Chicago.

National Republican headquarters will be established in this city soon after the beginning of the year. The location of the national committee headquarters has not been determined, however, and probably will await a visit next week by Harry S. New of Indiana, who yesterday was made the chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the convention arrangements. Representatives of all of the principal loop hotels were in Washington at the national committee meeting offering accommodations to the national committee.

The Chicago boosters carried to Washington an option for the use of the Coliseum for the convention. Practically the same arrangements, so far as seating, platform, and decorations, will be made, it is said, for the 1912 convention as obtained at the 1908 conclave when President Taft was nominated. Approximately 15,000 seats for spectators will be available.

Plan for Democrat Meeting.

The campaign for the Democratic national convention started in earnest yesterday afternoon at a meeting at the Iroquois club of the committee of five which was named by Mayor Harrison. Announcement was made that the committee would be increased to twenty-five and that permanent organization would be perfected on Friday night at a meeting to be held at Vogelsang's restaurant.

The original committee, of which John W. Eckhart is the temporary chairman and Charles J. Vopicka temporary secretary, was augmented yesterday to include Sheriff Michael Zimmer, County Treasurer William L. O'Connell, James F. Bowers, Charles H. Wacker, James Simpson, Charles A. Stevens, John C. Vaughan, Simon Fish, and J. S. Ager. Further additions to the committee will be announced during the week.

Chairman Eckhart said there would be no difficulty in raising a fund to defray the necessary expenses of the convention, and such a proposition, it is believed, will be submitted to the Democratic national committee when it convenes in Washington on Jan. 8.

Interest in Primary Plan.

Political interest locally was centered largely in the action of the national committee as to a preferential presidential primary. The consensus of opinion was that there will be no further action taken by the Illinois Republican state committee providing for such a primary. It is understood that Chairman West will call a meeting of the state committee within the next few weeks to issue the formal call for the state convention which is to elect the delegates at large, which undoubtedly will be the date prescribed by the direct primary law for the state convention following the April primaries.

COLONEL GAINS IN STREET?

Wins Supporters Among Money Kings, According to Canvass.

TEST BY FORMER ENEMIES.

New York Bankers Think Roosevelt May Be Possibility.

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—"Is there any contingency under which Wall street's support could be obtained for Col. Roosevelt as the Republican nominee for the presidency?"

This question was put today to men high in Wall street affairs, and while varying answers were given more of the men of finance than might be thought probable professed to believe there is sufficient Roosevelt sentiment in the street to make him a possibility in the next campaign.

Quiet Canvass Is Taken.

Only a few days ago a quiet canvass was undertaken by men prominent in the Republican party to see just what sentiment for Roosevelt existed in the downtown district, and just how his nomination would be regarded by the men whose influence had always been sought at such times.

The canvass was informal and had to do mainly with the effort to see how Roosevelt would stand in comparison with Taft, and what the big men really thought of him as a "last resort candidate" in the next campaign.

The test was interesting for the reason that it was undertaken largely by men who fought Roosevelt bitterly at the time he was seeking to elect his gubernatorial candidate, H. L. Stimson.

Colonel Will Have to Be Reckoned With.

It is not known just what was the full result of the canvass, but men familiar with the details of the inquiry admit enough support was disclosed to show the ex-president's name will have to be reckoned with from now on in a way hardly thought possible a year ago.

One man, long a powerful factor in the the street and a member of some of its most important directorates, said:

"I believe Roosevelt's nomination to be easily possible. Wall street sentiment is much more favorable toward him as his recent utterances have been distinctly conservative and of a nature to win support."

"Sovereign Silk" Neckwear 50 Cents

"IMITATION IS THE SINCEREST FORM OF FLATTERY"

This silk was originated by CAPPER & CAPPER, and extensively advertised under the name—"SOVEREIGN SILK"—as an unusual scarf for ONE DOLLAR.

Our advertising caused a frantic effort upon the part of department store buyers to have the silk copied, if it were possible for them to do so, with the result that an inferior article, but looking very much like this, was produced, and is now about to be shown in department stores for FIFTY CENTS.

The scarf in question contains less silk than does ours, nevertheless we appreciate the fact that the public, not knowing the difference, might confuse our scarf with the neckwear that is being shown elsewhere, and for that reason we have decided to reduce the price of the balance of this neckwear on hand to the department store price—namely: FIFTY CENTS. We therefore give you the genuine "SOVEREIGN SILK" at the price of the make-believe.

The method of the average department store buyer is to trail in the wake of the exclusive dealer, imitating where they can and profiting by any expense or effort in the initial production of an article, and, by reducing the cost here and there, create the impression that they are selling the same article at a lesser price.

TRIMS FIVE OFF PACKERS' PANEL

Federal Prosecutor Sheean Will Examine Others This Morning.

HAVE TO USE CHALLENGES

Keen Questions Rouse Talesmen; New Venire of Fifty Arrives Today.

Within less than two hours after the packers' counsel tendered a jury panel back to the government yesterday Federal Prosecutor Sheean eliminated five of the jurors which had been acceptable to the defense.

When court adjourned only seven prospective jurors remained in the box. The first venire of eighty-seven was exhausted before noon, and an early ending of the afternoon session was necessary.

Members of the new venire of fifty will be in court at 10 o'clock this morning when the government will continue "weeding" out and substituting new men.

Indications are that not more than two or three of the jurors approved by the packers will be passed by the government.

Object to Charles R. Horrie.

Objection was made by the government to Charles R. Horrie, a butcher and grocer at Randolph market in North State street, who testified he did not think a combination existed among the packers. He has bought provisions of the indicted packers for fifteen years and admitted his relations with the companies have been pleasant.

W. R. Barbour, another man proposed by the defense, was eliminated by challenge chiefly because he had sold hay to the Evanston house of Armours and admitted a friendly feeling.

K. R. Miller, consulting engineer, 1282 East Fifty-sixth, developed an opinion, and the government challenged him for cause. Miller also wanted to be in Washington to try patent cases.

J. M. Blair, a dairyman of Malta, was excused by the court when he pleaded that owing to having lost one arm he had difficulty in taking care of himself without wifely aid.

Albert H. Smith, seed merchant, 5302 Michigan avenue, originally selected by the government, and approved by the packers, was challenged by the prosecution without any explanation coming to the surface.

But four of the eight new men tendered by the defense remained in the box when Sheean rested at the end of the day's session.

Tailor, Clerk, and Baker Left.

Howard O. Bates, boss tailor, La Grange.

William J. Thomas, clerk and former jailer, Ottawa.

Jacob Gleim, baker, Ottawa.

J. W. Heermans, consulting engineer, Evanston.

Bates admitted having been a member of a Chicago tailors' association. He may be opposed by the government as too near an "organization" man, and because he knows Edward Tilden, one of the defendants.

Heermans admitted he had sold elevators to Armour and Swift, and his friendly relations with the indicted men may make him undesirable, from the prosecution viewpoint.

Neither Thomas nor Gleim are sure of being accepted by the government, so it is probable the entire defense slate will be wiped out.

Three Government Men Left.

Three men originally tendered by the government still remain in the jury box. They are:

[illegible], farmer, Naperville.

[illegible] I. Bucklin, farmer, Dundee.

J. E. Edwards, "independent" telephone inspector, Streator.

[illegible] is said to be in line for a government challenge.

Attorney Sheean made Somarindyck run a gantlet of questions before challenging him. The Aurora man was subjected to the educational test.

"Hasn't the government taken some sort of action in New Mexico which you didn't like and——" began Sheean in a lowered tone.

"O I know what you're driving at," interrupted Somarindyck in an irritated manner, "but you're on the wrong track."

His challenge followed.

Forced to Challenge Horrie.

Horrie, the market man, was put through a severe cross examination before being challenged peremptorily.

"How much of your stock comes from the packers?" he was asked.

"Twenty-five per cent, and 90 per cent of that from the defendants."

"Yet you tell me that despite your opinion that no combination exists, and despite your pleasant relations with the packers, you can sit as an impartial juror?"

"My oath would compel me to do that," replied Horrie.

Sheean sought to get Horrie excused on cause, but Judge Carpenter held that the venireman had pledged himself to lay aside his opinion and make a fair juror. A peremptory was thereupon used.

Chaperon Missing; So She Marries.

MRS. ARTHUR GUNTHER.

WED 6 MONTHS; TELL 'FOLKS'

Girl, First Time Free from Chaperon, Marries.

'TWAS A WEEK-END PARTY.

They Return, Live at Their Homes and Keep Secret Until Yesterday.

One month after her graduation from Mt. Carmel school, Miss Lauretta Kilgallen, a daughter of Charles Kilgallen, 1228 Melrose street, took advantage of the first house party at which she was not chaperoned by her mother to marry Arthur Gunther, a Chicago salesman.

It was six months, though, before the young couple summoned up courage to break the news to Miss Kilgallen's parents. Consequently, the formal announcement of the marriage did not come until yesterday.

Miss Kilgallen—or, rather Mrs. Gunther—is 19 years old. She and Mr. Gunther's sister were schoolmates. In this manner began the acquaintance which ended in marriage. So carefully had Miss Kilgallen been chaperoned that a week end party at The Dells, Wis., in the latter part of last June, was the first time she had been permitted to leave the city without her mother.

There were three week ends at The Dells. Miss Kilgallen got married on the first, June 24. Only one or two of her intimate girl friends knew of it, and they kept the secret. When the young couple returned to Chicago they took up their residences at their respective homes, as before.

Mr. Kilgallen is connected with the fire department. The bridegroom is 28 years old. The young couple will live on the north side.

ONE REJOICES; LOCATES GEM: OTHER MOURNS FOR BRACELET.

Mrs. W. W. Kimball Will Get Lost Pendant Today—Mrs. G. J. Sawyer Misses Valuable Jewel.

One Chicago woman rejoiced last night over the prospective return of a valuable piece of jewelry which she had lost. Another mourned the loss of a diamond bracelet, which either became unfastened or was stolen from her arm.

Mrs. W. W. Kimball located a diamond pendant she lost on Dec. 6 at the opera. The finder, on reading yesterday of the society woman's loss, telephoned the Kimball residence at 1801 Prairie avenue and said the pendant had been found in the Auditorium lobby. Mrs. Kimball would not give the name of the finder.

Mrs. George J. Sayer, 1085 Bryn Mawr avenue, lost the bracelet, set with eleven diamonds, and valued at $1,000. She thinks it may have been taken from her wrist while she waited for some friends in the Congress hotel last Saturday night by a woman who jostled her.

JEWISH PROTEST AIDED IN HOUSE

Committee on Foreign Affairs Reports in Favor of Ending Treaty.

PLEA FOR EARLY ACTION.

President Asked to Give Notice of Abrogation to Russian Government.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—The house committee on foreign affairs today unanimously agreed upon the Sulzer resolution directing the immediate abrogation of the 1832 treaty between the United States and Russia because of the discrimination by Russia against American Jewish citizens in the recognition of passports.

Urges Immediate Action.

The Sulzer bill states that in the judgment of congress the treaty should be terminated at the earliest possible moment.

It directs the president to give the usual notice to Russia that the treaty will cease to be in force upon expiration of a year after such notification.

COMMENT BY JEWISH COURIER.

In an editorial commenting upon the action of the committee at Washington the Daily Jewish Courier of Chicago says this morning:

"The unanimous decision of the house committee on foreign relations in recommending the Sulzer resolution, breaking the treaty of 1832 with Russia, will help to solve this important problem sooner than was expected. The Jewish people in the United States have always maintained that this was not a Jewish question. We rightfully thought—and with us the best thinking men of all nationalities in the entire land—that Russia had no right to discriminate against American citizens simply because they were Jews. We, however, appreciate that were it not for the powerful support given this movement by the great English newspapers of the land, congress would not have acted so quickly as it has done today.

"Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, Judge Julian W. Mack, and Mr. Julius Rosenwald. To them the Jewish people owe a deep gratitude which will never be forgotten."

BACK TO FURS! COLD WAVE DUE.

It's Sweeping Over the West and Will Send Mercury Down Today and Tomorrow.

Back to overcoats and furs! A cold wave is sweeping through the west and northwest and is scheduled to strike Chicago in a few days. According to the government forecast the temperature will go down today and still farther down tomorrow, though its downward journey will be checked somewhat by a light southerly wind today, but tomorrow, according to the present indications, it will drop below the freezing point. Devils Lake yesterday reported a temperature of 6 degrees above zero. This was the coldest point in the country. The weather bureau forecast for Chicago and vicinity is generally fair today and tomorrow, in spite of the approaching cold weather.

PERCY LASHES W. R. HEARST

Southern Senator Calls Him "Muckraker Without Peer."

VARDAMAN ALSO ATTACKED.

Mississippian Says Charges Concerning Election Failed.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—Senator Leroy Percy of Mississippi in the senate today denounced an article relating to his election, published recently in the Cosmopolitan magazine.

Percy bitterly attacked William R. Hearst, who, he said, owns the magazine and inspired the article.

The senator also attacked ex-Gov. Vardaman, who was nominated by the Mississippi Democratic primary to succeed Percy.

Senator Percy said he would not ask for an investigation of his election, but challenged his prospective successor to make such a demand.

Goes After Both of Them.

In lashing Vardaman, Senator Percy declared the former governor is now defendant in a suit filed by the attorney general of Mississippi charging embezzlement of trust funds. He referred to unconventional remarks about President Taft and former President Roosevelt accredited to the former governor.

Mr. Hearst was characterized as "a statesman without a record, a mendacious muckraker without a peer," whose "bitter, malignant, and incendiary utterances caused him to be held by the country morally responsible for the shots fired into the body of William McKinley."

Vardaman Replies to Percy.

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—When asked for a statement tonight regarding United States Senator Percy's speech delivered in the senate today ex-Gov. Vardaman said in part:

"I have only read short extracts from his speech. It is both stupid and mendacious. His reference to the suit instituted against me under the direction of Gov. Noel is vicious and false.

If You Aren't "Spending Much This Year"

STOP just a moment—in the midst of your Christmas shopping perplexities—and realize that the easiest way to buy most of your gifts is to go to the nearest bookstore.

Do you want more definite suggestions? Here they are.

Ask your bookseller to show you "My Lady of Doubt," if you prefer a slashing, exciting romance. It is a novel of the Civil War by Randall Parrish, who does that kind of a story better than any other American writer. There are beautiful pictures in color by Alonzo Kimball.

Quite another kind is Cyrus Townsend Brady's new book—"As the Sparks Fly Upward." Just glance at a page or two and at the frontispiece. A modern Adam and Eve in an island paradise provide a story that anyone will find altogether fascinating.

Then there is a little story named "The Fourth Physician" that has an uncommon amount of what is called the "Christmas spirit." Margaret E. Sangster says that "the idea of brotherhood so clearly brought out in the story should appeal to every heart, and the thought of the Fourth Physician performing the miracle of healing carries us straight to the Man of Galilee." Inexpensive, too, just one dollar, and very attractively made.

Among all the new books the best "fifty cents' worth" is Mrs. McCarter's "Peace of the Solomon Valley." A slim little volume in an attractive box, it tells a delightful and altogether modern love story with a very light touch. You couldn't do better than get half a dozen of these because everyone will like it.

Every bookseller has all these books. Give him the titles and the names of the friends you want to send them to and most of the so-called "Christmas problem" is solved.

SEEK NEW CLEWS IN KAUFMAN CASE

Police Go Over Armed Bandits' Poolroom Trail on Night of Murder.

SUICIDE NOT FUGITIVE.

Chauffeur Who Confessed Denies Dead Man Was One of Robber Gang in Auto.

Although Inspector Hunt and Capt. Halpin announced Sunday night the Kaufman murder mystery was no more, the three men said to have been the principals in the holdup and shooting of the woman are still uncaught. The police have obtained no definite clews of their whereabouts. They are seeking new clews.

It was thought for a while yesterday that one of the murderers had been caught—not alive, but dead. The dead body of a young man was found in a corn field near Lombard, Ill., on Monday. The man had swallowed carbolic acid. His appearance tallied closely with that of one of the automobile bandits who killed Mrs. Kaufman on the night of Dec. 2. The Chicago police thought the suspect known as " Fred —— " had sought death by self destruction to escape the punishment awaiting him if he is ever caught and convicted.

Chauffeur Sees Suicide.

William Rollin Channell, who confessed he drove the automobile of the bandits, was taken to Wheaton in the afternoon by Detectives Monahan and O'Keefe. The boy took one look at the suicide, shook his head, then said he had never seen the man before.

Sheriff Kuhn of Dupage county exhibited the laundry tag cut from the stockings of the dead man. They bore in script the name, "McKay." This, and the fact that the man's brown clothes were bought at the Cash Buyers' union, First National Coöperative society, Chicago, were the only marks of identification.

Adds Items to Confession.

At night Channell added a few items to his confession. He also threw a little light on his private life, and that of his parents, who, he said, had not been living together for about five months.

Channell said his father was William C. Channell, a dentist, 4712 South Ashland avenue, and that his mother was residing at Forty-eighth street and Cottage Grove avenue. He said he has been residing at the home of Mrs. Martha Louison at 5014 Cottage Grove avenue since Sept. 15. Before that he said he resided with his mother at 3033 South Park avenue. He is a graduate of the Douglas school.

Channell said he had been employed as a statement clerk and bookkeeper in the Continental Commercial bank for two years, and left his position there about five months ago. He said he had not been employed since.

Police on Rabinau's Trail.

The police have trailed the movements of Rabinau the night of the murder. They have discovered that at 7:30 o'clock he entered the Integrity club pool room at 482 East Thirty-first street, and gave to William Smith, colored porter, a small thirty-two caliber blue steel revolver to keep for him while he was in the place.

At about 10:30 he asked the porter for the revolver and went away. At 12:30 o'clock, about an hour after the tragedy, he came into the saloon of William Sullivan, 476 East Thirty-first street, and gave Harry Cotten, a young man at the cigar counter, the same revolver and a larger one, nickel plated and pearl handled. He stayed in the saloon until it closed, bought several drinks for two companions, said to have been Stacey and Fred, whose last name is not known. When he left he called for the weapons.

At night Detectives Egan and O'Connor were sent to Lafayette, Ind., where a suspect is being held.

BIG PENSION BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Sherwood Measure May Add $75,000,000 to U. S. Annual Expenditures.

REPUBLICANS SAVE IT.

All but Seven Support Proposal; Eighty-five Democrats Vote "No."

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The Democratic house of representatives tonight passed the Sherwood service pension bill by vote of 229 to 92.

The bill, if it becomes a law, will add upward of $40,000,000 to the government annual expenditures. Secretary of the Interior Fisher has estimated that it will add $75,000,000 to the pension roll if the 400,000 veterans eligible take advantage of the increase.

But for the support of Republicans the measure, which proposes to grant pensions ranging from $15 to $30 a month to all veterans of the civil and Mexican wars who served over ninety days, would have been defeated.

Details of Bill's Provisions.

The bill would establish the following basis of pensions:

For service for ninety days to six months, $15 a month; from six to nine months, $20 a month; from nine months to one year, $25 a month; more than one year, $30 a month.

Two important changes were made in the bill during an all day battle. A joint amendment by Representatives Rauch of Indiana and Cox of Ohio struck out the provision denying entrance to federal soldiers' homes to veterans receiving more than $25 a month pension, and refusing to state homes federal aid for the support of such pensioners. The restriction against the payment of any pension to a veteran whose incomes exceeds $1,000 a year was voted out on the motion of Representative Rucker of Colorado.

Seven Republicans Vote "No."

Only seven Republicans—Messrs. Payne of New York, McCall, Gillett, and Gardner of Massachusetts, Utter of Rhode Island, McCreary of Pennsylvania, and Kent of California—answered "No."

The Illinois and Indiana delegations were solid for the bill, except for the defection of Representative Lynden Evans of Chicago, who answered "No." Representatives Sabath and Rainey were absent and paired.

Champ Clark headed the entire Missouri delegation in espousing the bill, while Oscar W. Underwood and other Democratic leaders, including Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee opposed it.

Eighty Democrats Against Bill.

The vote shows 128 Republicans, 99 Democrats, 1 Socialist, and 1 independent voting affirmatively, and 85 Democrats in the negative.

After the Sulloway substitute had been offered by Representative Fuller of Illinois and defeated by a vote of 94 to 159, the Republicans supported the Sherwood measure and saved it from defeat.

HOLD FIRST ARIZONA ELECTION.

Returns Come in So Slowly That It Is Impossible to Tell Who Has Been Elected.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 12.—Returns from today's election—the first in this new state—are coming in so slowly that there is little prospect that even an approximate idea of results will be obtained before tomorrow. Under the enabling act the returns are sent direct to a commission instead of being canvassed by the county board of supervisors.

The entire vote is believed to have approximated 26,000—about the same as that of 1908. Seventy-five per cent of the ballots were "scratched." In Phoenix 531 straight Republican ballots were cast and 507 straight Democratic.

The total vote in the principal cities was as follows:

Phoenix	2,235	Bisbee	1,058
Tucson	1,729	Prescott	594

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—There was a surprise awaiting Gov. McCreary today after he had taken the oath of office. In the new capitol he was holding a reception, shaking hands with old friends and strangers alike, with a string of officers keeping the crowd moving. One man seemed anxious to reach the executive, and when he did so he held his hand long and with apparent fondness.

The governor was mystified. He thought the face familiar, but could not recall the name.

Makes Visit as Surprise.

"Well, who is this?" demanded the governor.

"Why, dad, I came down from Chicago to see you inaugurated," replied Robert McCreary of Chicago, who had come to Frankfort to surprise his father.

There was a hint of tears in the aged statesman's voice as he said: "Well, well." That was all he could say, though in the past he never has been known to fail at speech making.

Officer Pushes Son Away.

At this juncture one of the officers pushed the son away, telling him to move on and not to block the procession.

"Why this is my son, Robert," said the governor and the line was held while father and son talked a moment and then the son moved on.

After the reception they met again for a long talk. It was the first time the governor had seen his son in several years.

PLANS WIDE HUNT IN DYNAMITE CASE

Federal Jury Seeks Names of All Persons Who Knew About Shipments.

CALLS MANY WITNESSES.

Headquarters of Union Closed Soon After the Books Are Given Up.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 12.—The federal officials are trying to learn the names of all persons besides John J. and James B. McNamara who handled or had knowledge of the interstate shipment of the ton or more of dynamite and nitroglycerin used in blowing up iron and steel structures in the five years.

Clerks who wrote letters, baggagemen, shippers, and all those who are supposed to have had even the remotest knowledge of the movement of the explosives or where and how it was stored are among the several hundred witnesses who have been summoned to testify before the grand jury.

Points Sought in Inquiry.

The points upon which enlightenment is sought are: Who wrote the correspondence relative to the purchase and shipment of the explosives? Who paid the bills and kept the accounting of expense? By what means were the explosives transported?

To all appearances the headquarters of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers were closed today. The closing of the place followed closely upon the announcement that books and letters at the headquarters had been obtained without resistance by detectives acting for the National Erectors' association.

Many Talk in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 12.—The federal grand jury today continued to hear evidence concerning the alleged conspiracy to transport dynamite unlawfully. A score of witnesses were examined, most of whom were said to have established the identity of " J. B. Bryce " as James B. McNamara.

Much interest was manifested today in the appearance of [illegible] E. Munsey of Salt Lake City, business agent of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. His wife also was under subpœna, and both arrived early today.

WOMAN'S STORY INVOLVES POLICE

Lizzie Fernecke, Former Wife of Resort Owner, Says She Paid Them $25 a Week.

HELD UP BY GRAFTERS.

Asserts Provisions Were Sent to Officer's Home; Prosecute Loop Saloon Men.

Policemen—more than a score of them—ranging in rank from patrolman "on beat" to commanding officers, are involved in graft charges by a story of tribute that a woman has told to representatives of the city civil service commission.

Lizzie Behrent, former wife of "Pete" Fernecke, proprietor of the Village Inn, a disreputable place at 63 West Erie street, is the woman who has confessed to the commission.

She says she has paid as high as $25 a week to be permitted to operate a place in Chicago avenue, while $2 "touches" by policemen occurred almost daily for many months. Dozens of policemen of the Chicago avenue district, as well as men from the detective bureau, took meals at the Fernecke place free of charge, according to the woman's story.

One commanding officer, now removed from the Chicago avenue police station, forced her and her husband to send provisions to his residence at intervals—all free of cost, she says. Cigars and drinks were served to the police on request, she asserts, and no mention of payment ever was made for the articles.

Furnished Policemen's Houses.

Bric-a-brac and the household supply of liquor for policemen's residences and Christmas and birthday presents for their families formed a part of the "regular" tribute which she and her husband gave up to the police, she says.

It was said yesterday that the woman in her story implicated a number of policemen not heretofore mentioned in the evidence gathered by the investigating body. It is likely to result in further charges if her statements can be corroborated.

"Pete and Lizzie were held up at every turn," a man who knows the woman's story said during the day. "They paid right and left for police protection and then the 'coppers' persecuted them every time there was a complaint made against the place. The woman says the inspector sent men to guard the doors of the place several times to prevent persons from going in. She had to slip the guards a couple of dollars apiece to make them blind when patrons approached.

"Plain clothes men did most of the collecting and said the money was for the bosses at Chicago avenue station. They were out for themselves, too, and brought their guests to the place at all hours and on all occasions and never thought of paying for their entertainment."

Place Often Under Fire.

The Village Inn several times has come under the eyes of the commission investigators since the inquiry started. It was a subject of interrogation when the north side police officials, Inspector Revere, Capt. Baer, and Lieut. Hanley, were examined by Attorney W. W. Wheelock before the trio were suspended on charges. They were queried about a "fake" raid on the place when drinks were being served there after hours. The place was full of guests, Fernecke was "tipped off" before the detectives arrived, and the guests were escorted to the basement, where they stayed until the "raid" was over, it is said. No arrests were made, and no search of the basement was made.

The woman's story contains nothing of recent events at the Chicago avenue station, for she and her husband separated several months ago. While the pair were running the place their liquor license was taken away because of the character of the house they operated. They were arrested several times on charges of selling liquor after hours and without a license, but their police connections always saved them from serious trouble.

Inspectors Prosecute Saloon Men.

Inspectors Hunt and O'Brien during the day started trouble for a number of saloonkeepers as a result of their campaign to clean up the loop and south side districts. Inspector Hunt started criminal actions against numerous loop saloon men to compel them to obey the saloon closing ordinance which requires the opening of swinging doors and the removal of all obstructions to make a clear view of the interior after closing hours. Informations against the men were filed with City Prosecutor James McInerney.

Inspector O'Brien caused Municipal Judge Walker to issue summons for three saloon men to answer charges of keeping their places open after 1 o'clock a. m. The defendant saloonkeepers must appear in court on Dec. 19. They are R. H. Payne and J. Bolley, who conduct a saloon at 218 South State street, and John McMullen, 1167 South Wabash avenue.

Put Off Revere Hearing.

Trial of the cases of Inspecter Revere, Capt. Baer, and Lieut. Hanley, set for this morning before the civil service commission, was continued to tomorrow morning at the request of John J. Coburn, attorney for the inspector. Mr. Coburn stated he was in another trial and could not possibly represent his client at the hearing as set. President Campbell intimated no more delay would be granted. Capt. Baer and Lieut. Hanley were ready for trial.

The trio are charged with inefficiency and neglect of duty in connection with the regulation of the north side vice district.

The cases against Inspector Wheeler, Capt. Harding, Lieut. Enright, Lieut. Keleher, and Lieut. Prim, south side officers suspended on similar charges, will be called tomorrow morning and a date set for their trial. Attorney P. H. O'Donnell will represent Prim.

The Good Fellow

12 Days B. C. (Before Christmas).

ONE REASON.

Dear Good Fellow: After finding life a bit uninteresting, I have come to the conclusion it may be my own selfishness that causes it, so if you think of two little youngsters I can cheer up on Christmas, I'll do my best to be a Good Fellow to them. I'm afraid, though, that I'm a little out of practice. FRANK F.

Lots of people are, Frank. If they weren't there wouldn't be any need for a Good Fellow club. The great comfort lies in the fact that Good Fellowship, like skating and swimming, is an accomplishment which no one can completely forget. If you ever have been a Good Fellow, you'll find it all coming back to you when you go out on Christmas eve to fill those stockings. And the delusion of selfishness will depart forthwith.

13,400 Stockings.

The Good Fellows of Chicago have 13,400 stockings yet to fill. Yesterday's mail provided for only 600. If the rate doesn't improve, 6,200 children are going to find themselves overlooked on Christmas. This has never before happened in the history of the Good Fellows. Don't let it happen this year. The blank is below. Fill it in. It won't bring you a prospectus of Sir Walter Raleigh's life and memoirs in twenty volumes, 12 mo., 50-cents-down-and-50-cents-a-week-until-the-book-agent-calls-for-them, but it will save the writing of such letters as the one which follows:

THE OTHER GIRLS.

Dear Good Fellow: I would like for you to send me something. There are two children in our family, myself and my sister. She is only seven years old and I am ten. My sister is young and don't know the cause and is sad because she won't get anything. All of the other girls are talking of what they are going to have, but, say, I don't think I can have anything this Christmas. Papa works but he cannot spare the money. Last year he did not get me anything. And he is worried bad. Three years ago this Christmas is the last time I had anything. I am saving my pennies to get my sister something. I want to get her a doll with real hair. So that she can comb it. I have a doll which is only about six inches and the hair is all off it. Your little friend, ARRILA F.

Read it? Then read this and see if you think it's worth while:

Good Fellow: Please send me the names of three children. I have had the happiness of taking part in your happy thought for two Christmases, and I wouldn't miss it for any cause. The joy of the little ones on receiving what we brought always has much more than repaid us for long tramps through the snow, lost numbers, and difficult places to find. I want to add my thanks for the thought that has made it possible for people to do in this quiet way a little for the children of our great city. A very Merry Christmas to you. V. C.

TRIAL OF SUFFRAGETS STARTS IN LONDON SESSIONS COURT.

All Prisoners Plead Not Guilty to the Charge of Maliciously Damaging Property—Four Sentenced.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Twenty-two of the suffragets arrested in connection with the demonstration at the house of commons on Nov. 21 were indicted at the London Sessions today. Nearly 200 had been summarily sentenced by the police magistrate at Bow street police court on minor charges.

The accused who appeared today had to answer serious charges of maliciously damaging property.

All the prisoners pleaded not guilty. They were brought up in squads of four.

The first group was found guilty, refused to undertake to refrain from similar lawlessness in the future, and were sentenced to two months in jail.

LORDS VOTE DOWN NAVAL BILL; SLAP AT U. S. SUPREME COURT.

Election Taken After Lord Selborne Calls Attention to Fact That There Is No Appeal from Judgment.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The house of lords tonight rejected the naval prize bill by a vote of 140 to 53.

The Earl of Selborne pointed out that the constitution of the proposed international prize court gave the British empire only the same representation as that accorded petty Central American republics. Furthermore, he said, the bill permitted an appeal from the British privy council to the prize court, but no corresponding appeal from the United States Supreme court.

It was therefore possible, Lord Selborne argued, to get two sets of conflicting judgments.

START NEW THROUGH ROUTES.

Cars Operate Today Between Seventy-ninth and Halsted and Archer Limits to Grace.

Through route No. 8 starts at Seventy-ninth and Halsted streets and runs north to Grace street. Through route No. 13 starts at the Archer avenue limits and runs northeast to Halsted street and north to Grace street.

Complaints of the service furnished on the Madison street car line were taken up yesterday by company officials and immediate improvements promised. James B. Hogarth, general superintendent of the Chicago Railways company, said more cars had been placed on the line and additional ones would be added if needed.

Any one who receives as a holiday gift a piece of bronze from McClurg's will possess something of great and permanent value, and a gift that will bring them genuine congratulations. ALFONSO HIT IN JOURNAL'S ATTACK

Humanite Accuses King of Attempt to Restore Manuel in Portugal.

GERMANS WERE HIS AIDS?

Charges Made That Empire Was to Get Angola as a Reward for Interference.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Today's Humanite, the paper edited by Jules Jaures, continues its revelations of the alleged attempt by King Alfonso to interfere at the time of the dethronement of King Manuel of Portugal.

In yesterday's story the Humanite stated that, after King Manuel's flight, King Alfonso hurriedly summoned a meeting of the Spanish cabinet and asked that a fleet be sent to bombard Lisbon. Prime Minister Canalejas timidly objected and requested permission to consult the powers. England and France made decided objections to the scheme.

Tried to Restore Manuel.

Today the Humanite says the center of the movement to restore King Manuel is the Infanta Maria de la Paz, one of King Alfonso's aunts, who is the wife of Prince Louis Ferdinand of Bavaria, a nephew of the regent of Bavaria. She lives in the royal chateau at Nymphenburg, near Munich. Her husband acts as intermediary between the kaiser and King Alfonso when he is not occupied in pursuing actresses or dodging his creditors.

The principal habitues of the palace include men like Herr Rathbach, who married one of Baron Krupp's daughters, Herr Henkel, Prince Guido Von Donnersmarck, the Mannesmann brothers, who are greatly interested in the Sus country in Morocco, and Count Von Radowitz, the former German ambassador to Spain.

Two Ships for Royalists.

Through the assistance of these men, the Humanite says, two ships were loaded with arms and ammunition for the Portuguese royalists, and were only prevented from leaving Hamburg early in October by the protests of two great powers.

The general scheme, according to M. Jaures, is for Germany to take Portuguese Angola as payment for its support of King Alfonso in his effort to restore King Manuel, after which the Infanta Maria de la Paz will secure the marriage of her daughter, the Princess Maria Del Pilar, to King Manuel.

HEARS OF REVOLT IN ALBANIA.

Twelve Thousand Men Reported to Be Under Arms and Insurrection Is Likely to Spread.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A news agency dispatch from Vienna says that, according to official advices received from Cattinje, Montenegro, a dangerous insurrection has broken out in Albania. Twelve thousand men are under arms and an extension of the movement is probable.

SHUSTER TO KEEP HIS POST?

Berlin Hears Czar Will Withdraw Demand for Dismissal.

PARLIAMENT REMAINS FIRM.

Refuses to Accept Cabinet That Would Yield to Russia.

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—A Russo-Persian compromise is probable, according to a telegram from Teheran to the German cable company.

It is reported that Russia is satisfied with Persia's apology and that the Russian government will withdraw its demand for the dismissal of W. Morgan Shuster, the American acting as treasurer general in Persia, and also that it will not ask for an indemnity.

There will, however, in future be an Anglo-Russian control over appointments of officials by the Persian government.

Parliament Rejects Cabinet.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Dec. 13, 3 a. m.—A dispatch from Teheran to the Times says Premier Samsam today filled the various cabinet posts. He told the parliament that before presenting the names of the ministers he must announce that the cabinet would yield to Russia's demands. The parliament thereupon refused to accept the cabinet.

The opposition in the parliament to the dismissal of Mr. Shuster, the American treasurer general, is stronger than ever.

There has been much talk recently of Turkey interposing in Persia. The Times' Teheran correspondent confirms the report that serious trouble between Russia and Turkey is possible. He believes Turkey is mobilizing an army in Asia Minor as a reply to the action of Russia in sending troops to Khoi, in northwest Persia, which turns Turkey's western flank.

The matter is vital to Turkey, and is declared to be more important than Tripoli. It is believed, however, that Turkey wishes to straighten it out by diplomatic negotiations.

Resolution in Congress.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—Congress has taken notice of the troubles of W. Morgan Shuster Jr., the American treasurer-general of Persia. Representative Levy of New York today introduced a resolution, which was referred to the committee on foreign affairs, calling upon the secretary of state to inform the house of the nature of Shuster's contract with Persia and to say if any provision had been made for Shuster's protection as an American citizen.

JOHNSON FORGETS DAWSON'S ADVICE

Lorimer Witness Says He Can Remember Nothing About Talk with Lawyer.

TELLS OF WHITE'S VISIT.

Hotel Clerk Closely Questioned by Jones Upon His Memory of Events.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The activities of lawyers connected with the Lorimer defense were made clear to the senate investigating committee today.

Johnson Lawrence, a member of the Forty-sixth general assembly, who deserted Hopkins for Lorimer, and William C. Ellerhof, chief clerk of a hotel in East St. Louis, told of conferences with Thomas J. Dawson and Attorney Erbstein, both of whom have been identified with the defense of men charged with bribery. Besides these two witnesses, the committee examined William H. Dillman, a banker of Louisville, Ill., and B. D. Monroe, a lawyer at Springfield.

The most interesting testimony of the day was that of Mr. Lawrence. This man, it will be recalled, was described as one of the regulars at the Hopkins "apple barrel." It was believed by the Hopkins supporters almost up to the last minute that he would stand by the ex-senator. He said today that Mr. Lorimer came to him the day before the election and asked for his vote.

Denies Payment for Vote.

He denied he received any consideration for his ballot, claiming he was actuated solely by his desire to break the deadlock. Recently he applied to Mr. Lorimer for an appointment as federal pension agent, but said neither this nor any other place was offered him in compensation for his vote.

When the Helm committee was in session Mr. Johnson was subpœnaed as a witness. He said he went to Springfield and talked with members of the committee personally, but left for his farm in South Dakota without appearing before the committee.

He also told the committee that while the Sangamon county grand jury was in session investigating the bribery scandal, he refused to answer certain questions relating to his conversations with Dawson, and upon the advice of his lawyer persisted in his refusal. He said he was introduced to Dawson, who represented himself as "one of Mr. Lorimer's friends," by Messrs. Donahue and Perkins, who were members of the legislature.

Cannot Remember Conversation.

The day after the introduction he had a conversation with Dawson, but he could not remember what was discussed.

MR. HEALY—You haven't told us anything about that conversation yet.

MR. JOHNSON—I don't intend to.

MR. HEALY—Why?

MR. JOHNSON—Because I don't recollect.

MR. HEALY—Your memory is not good?

MR. JOHNSON—It isn't? Perhaps you can help me. Perhaps some of these old men [with a wave of his hand toward the committee]—some of these old fellows over here can help me.

MR. HEALY—Did Dawson suggest to you how you should testify before the grand jury?

MR. JOHNSON—I don't think so. Maybe he did. I think he was trying, perhaps, to get a job; that is all I can think about.

Johnson testified he employed former Judge J. G. Murray as his attorney. He did not remember whether he paid him a fee or not, but finally thought he did.

Tells of White Visit.

Ellerhof told the committee how Charles A. White, who made the original confession that he sold his vote for Lorimer, came to his hotel one night without funds and demanded a room. He was refused accommodations, and then called up Mr. Hammer of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who subsequently telephoned the hotel saying THE TRIBUNE would be responsible for the bill. Whilte boasted of his influence with everybody, from the governor down.

Ellerhof's statement of details was so explicit as apparently to arouse the suspicion of members of the committee, for Senator Jones asked how he recalled the circumstances so well. He replied that Attorney Erbstein, who was connected with the defense of Lee O'Neil Browne, came to see him and talked about White's visit.

Mr. Dillman and Mr. Monroe testified to conversations with George P. Gillespie, who at the dictation of State Senator Daniel W. Holstlaw wrote the latter's confession in connection with the sale of his vote for Lorimer. They claimed Gillespie told them he had been employed by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

UPHOLDS STOKES CASE PLEA

Ethel Conrad Supports Friend's Plea of Self-Defense.

VICTIM UNDER A KNIFE.

Witness Admits She Threatened Another Man with Revolver.

New York, Dec. 12.—While W. E. D. Stokes was under a surgeon's knife, Ethel Conrad, charged, with Lillian Graham, with attempting to murder him last June, testified today corroborating the testimony of her chum that they shot the millionaire in self-defense.

Late tonight it was said that Mr. Stokes' condition since the operation had become serious and that it had been thought advisable to telegraph his son in Andover academy to hasten home. It was not indicated, however, that his condition was critical.

Miss Conrad was more self-contained than Miss Graham as she succeeded the latter on the witness stand.

Miss Graham's ordeal had lasted through two and a half days of steady examination and her pale and almost haggard face showed today that she had felt the strain severely. However, she stuck to every material point of her story, particularly as to the shooting, and likewise denied every material charge that Stokes had made against her.

Miss Conrad, on the other hand, was smiling much of the time and convulsed the court by several of her sharp replies.

Admits She Threatened Man.

Buckner questioned the witness closely as to her life, particularly as to a visit she made in 1910 to Plattsburg, N. Y., where she occupied, she said, the house of a friend, "Mr. Farley," who was away for the summer.

While there she admitted that she had drawn a revolver upon a man named Louis Miller while on an automobile ride with him. She forced him to write a statement, she said, of what took place on the automobile trip, and then told a sheriff that she had attempted to kill a man and wanted to be arrested. This statement she promised to have in court tomorrow.

The girl explained her friendship to Miss Graham by saying that the latter had nursed her so devotedly during an illness that she decided never to leave her.

Says Stokes Accused Friend.

Miss Conrad said she told Stokes of her friendship with Miss Graham. She said Stokes replied, "Miss Conrad, she is a dangerous woman. You are a beautiful young girl and you must get away from her influence. Now, Miss Conrad, you go home and nurse her."

"I suggested that he send her to a sanitarium," went on the witness, "but he said, 'O, no, I can't be mixed up in this thing.'

"Then he said, 'She has some letters of mine, Miss Conrad. For God's sake, get me back those letters.'

"When I left," Miss Conrad said, "Mr. Stokes told me not to let anybody know I had been to see him. 'The Baltic of the White Star line,' he said, 'sails tomorrow morning. She must be sent away on that boat. I'll give you $200 for her expenses. I'd give you more, only she might commit suicide on the way over and the money would be lost.'

"Before I left Mr. Stokes put his hand on my shoulder and said: 'I'm doing all this for you, because you are young and beautiful. By the way, what is your business?'

"I was afraid to tell him I was an actress, so I said I was an illustrator. Then he promised to get me a position."

Says Stokes Told of Boy.

Then she said Stokes spoke of his boy and how proud he was of him.

"'Do you know, Miss Conrad, I'd give $100,000 to a young girl like you to have a son like that for me,'" Stokes said, testified the girl.

"I thought it pretty queer of him to talk like that," she remarked.

The following day Miss Conrad said she called up Stokes. "Has that party gone?" asked Stokes.

"I am sorry I had called him up then," she said, "but I told him yes. He asked me if I had those letters he had asked me to get from Miss Graham, and when I told him I had he said he was coming for them the next evening. I told him not to, because I did not want him to see Lillian, but he said he was coming anyway."

Miss Conrad then gave her story of the shooting. She corroborated Miss Graham's version of Stokes' alleged attack, the struggle for the gun, and the wounding of Stokes.

"I struck at the gun in Mr. Stokes' hand with a chair and it went off. Then I got my own pistol and cried, 'Drop that gun or I'll shoot.' He fired again and the gun I held went off."

BARTZEN HAS ROW WITH 'OLD GUARD'

Commissioners Accuse President of Conducting Medical "School" at Hospital.

NINE INTERNES OUSTED.

"Hire Skilled Men at $5,000 a Year," Commissioner Suggests to Chief.

The "old combination" of county commissioners opposed President Peter Bartzen yesterday and adopted resolutions indorsing the county civil service commission's recommendation that the usual number of internes at the county hospital be not increased. It decided also to instruct the warden of the hospital to dismiss nine of the internes recently assigned on Bartzen's instruction.

In heated discussions at the board meeting, the president's only supporter was Commissioner Lawrence J. Coffey. Among his ten opponents were the four Republican members, William Busse, William C. Hartray, Alfred Van Steenberg, and Joseph Carolan. Dr. Sultan was one who had hard words with Bartzen.

Accused of Partiality.

Sultan charged that physicians had been assigned as internes who have scored less than 50 per cent in civil service examinations. Carolan suggested that all internes be dismissed and that twenty high grade medical men be hired at salaries of $5,000 each.

"We are not here to run a medical school," said Bartzen.

"Then why don't you go to work and hire twenty high grade doctors and pay them $5,000 a year each and throw all of the others out, instead of catering to medical schools?" asked Carolan. "We would have no more experimenting on patients."

"I am in favor of that," said Sultan. "You have men at the hospital who stood less than 50 per cent in the examination. Think of it—less than 50. And I am told one doctor stood only 20."

Resents Bartzen's "Insult."

"There are some doctors walking about Chicago who couldn't pass 15," said President Bartzen resentfully, looking sharply at Dr. Sultan.

"Mr. Bartzen, an insult is no argument," replied Dr. Sultan. "You should have consulted the hospital committee before you made the appointments. I am willing to admit that I made a mistake when I recommended that the interne staff be increased. You won't admit if you make a mistake."

Dr. Sultan is chairman of the hospital committee. He said he had been deceived when he was told that the consulting staff had recommended the interne appointments be increased from twenty to thirty semi-annually.

HOLDS HYDE JURY FOR A WEEK WAITING FOR MISSING MEMBER

Judge Hopes Escaped Juror May Return Competent to Resume Duties—Woman Says She Saw Him.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 12.—The jury hearing the case of Dr. B. Clarke Hyde, accused of murdering Col. Thomas H. Swope, was not dismissed tonight, although Harry Waldron, the missing juror, has not been located.

Judge Porterfield decided that he would hold the eleven jurymen for another week in the hope Waldon may be discovered and found competent to resume his duty.

Waldron has been missing since Monday morning when he escaped from the jury's hotel. Mrs. Reidy Werby, who lives a short distance from the Waldrons, said she saw him in her pasture yesterday. The police place little confidence in the clew.

"It is possible," said Judge Porterfield, "that Waldon may wander for a week in a demented state, then come to his right mind and return a competent juror. Such things have happened. I do not desire to discharge these men now when there is a possibility of Waldron being found. If he returns in his right mind the case can go ahead."

That is why investigation of all makes so often leads to the selection of a Chalmers "Thirty-Six" Limousine. This chassis is ideal for town car use—compact, well designed, with plenty of power but without vibration and waste. There are heavier cars than the Chalmers, but none stronger or more reliable.

The four speed transmission insures greatest flexibility of control—a feature much to be desired on city streets. The self-starting device and Continental demountable rims save annoyance and delay.

The Chalmers Berlin and Cab Side Limousines are the roomiest made. They are big inside where size counts so much in roominess and comfort to those who ride in them. They are also big and handsome from the outside. They afford eye-delight.

SEES MENACE IN ANTI-TRUST LAW

Speaker at Business Congress Scores Supreme Court Decisions and Taft.

Urges Prohibition of Holding Companies; Kirby Attacks Gompers and Labor.

The Sherman anti-trust law was held up as an example of bad legislation yesterday before the National Business congress, in session at the Congress hotel. President Taft's defense of the Supreme court decisions under the law, and Theodore Roosevelt's commission plan for the enforcement of the law were alike ridiculed. That was after Samuel Gompers had been called a liar, John Mitchell described as an oily deceiver, and the American Federation of Labor compared unfavorably to the Ku Klux Klan and the Black Hand.

Frank D. Pavey of New York was the man who dissected the Sherman act. He offered an amendment under the title of "Proposed federal anti-trust law; an act to promote trade and commerce.'

Calls Sherman Law Menace.

"The [Sherman] law as it stands is unjust and injurious to public interests, and its general enforcement is a menace to present prosperity and may be a permanent injury to the trade and commerce of the country," declared Mr. Pavey. "The answer may be made that the Supreme court, in the recent decisions in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases, has laid down a safe rule for the guidance of business. This idea has been advanced by President Taft, who is reported to have challenged 'any person to cite a case that he would condemn as a violation of the anti-trust law that would not be condemned under the decision of the Supreme court.'

"The correct reply is that no person can cite a case that would not be condemned as a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law under the decision of the Supreme court, because the court has not defined any case that would not be condemned.

"Much confusion in the reasoning and decision of cases has grown out of the failure of the courts to distinguish between restraints of trade and restraints of competition. The Sherman anti-trust law prohibits restraints of trade and does not prohibit restraint of competition. The reasoning of the courts has been that inasmuch as competition is the life of trade anything which restrains competition must necessarily restrain trade. But when applied to the conditions of modern industry unrestrained competition may be the death of trade.

Condemns Holding Companies.

"The prohibition of holding companies will tend to prevent the centralized control of allied industries. It will prevent the permanent control of a string of important enterprises by a small number of men whoses entire investment is only a small percentage of the total capitalization of the combined industry. Another means of checking the concentrated control of industries is the prohibition of interlocking directors in companies which have business relations with each other of a character which ought to call for antagonistic or at least independent judgment.

"The type of unionism represented by the American Federation of Labor, and advocated by Gompers and Mitchell, is as great if not a greater menace to society than the Ku Klux klan, the Molly McGuires, the mafias, and the Black Hand societies," Mr. Kirby said. "When Gompers, upon being advised of the confessions of the McNamaras, declared, 'I am astounded,' I believe he spoke the truth. But when he said that his 'credulity had been grossly imposed upon' I believe he lied."

"FREE LUNCH" FOUNDER DIES

Frederick Glahe Expires; Owed Wealth to Innovation.

CAME TO CHICAGO POOR.

Conceived "Food with Beer" Idea; Saw Plan Spread Over Country.

Frederick Glahe, who was called by his friends the founder of the "free lunch," is dead at his residence, 7900 South Halsted street.

He came to Chicago an eighteen year old boy without money. He opened "Fred's Beer Tunnel" at 23 West Madison street in the basement of the McVicker theater building. On one side was the conventional bar; on the other was a counter. The counter was piled high with the materials of sandwiches. It was the first free lunch.

"I figure that I can offer every man something to eat with his beer and still make enough to keep the place going," he said. "I'll sell more beer and I'll give the fellow who hasn't the price of a meal a chance to eat. Beer and food go together. A man ought to have both."

Glahe's idea justified itself. The free lunch spread from coast to coast. In twenty years it became an American institution. And in that time Glahe acquired an estate worth $200,000.

IMPRISON TRUSTS; SETS FORTH PLAN

Donald Richberg Addresses Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

SAYS SEIZE CONCERNS.

Chicagoan Would Have Government Reform Offenders and Then Release Them.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Advocating a form of imprisonment for corporations which violate the anti-trust law, Donald Richberg of Chicago appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee today. Richberg, who is a member of the bar and who spoke at the invitation of Senator Cummins, suggested that the government take charge of offending concerns, benefit by their income, reform them, and after a time return them to their stockholders. This treatment, he held, would be more effective than the imposition of fines or the punishment of corporations' officers. He said:

"While the suggestion that a law breaking corporation should be imprisoned may have a somewhat radical sound, it may, on second thought, appear to be more conservative than the prevailing cry of the day that negligent directors and dummy officers should pay the penalty of imprisonment for wrongdoing, conceived for the benefit of, and worked out for the profit of stockholders who are not legally liable to punishment.

Measures Proved Ineffective.

"The whole tendency of modern penal legislation is toward finding and imposing penalties which shall be not merely deterrent punishments but measures of reform. To subject a corporation to a find has proved an ineffective measure. The punishment of individual officers can never be effective or satisfactory, for three reasons:

"First—The exceeding difficulty of locating what officers are personally responsible for illegal actions.

"Second—The probability, that is almost a certainty, that the only legally responsible parties will be mere scapegoat underlings.

"Third—Such a punishment is a purely deterrent penalty, simply encouraging men of courageous unscrupulousness to grow wealthy by taking a daily risk, and does not tend to the betterment of conditions.

"When it is suggested that the penalty for violations of anti-trust legislation should be imprisonment of the offending corporation, or all the offending corporations involved in a particular conspiracy in restraint of trade, the first inquiry will naturally be, How can a corporation be imprisoned?'

Method of Imprisonment.

"The imprisonment of a corporation would be accomplished by a process similar to a receivership. On a sentence of imprisonment being pronounced the court would place the corporation in the hands of those designated by the statute; perhaps, following the receivership analogy, persons chosen by the court as fitted to manage the business involved and made officers of the government for that purpose.

"Under the control of these receivers, whom I may designate marshal receivers, to distinguish them from civil receivers, the corporate entity would be kept alive just as an individual prisoner is fed, given a habitation and permitted to labor for the benefit of his health, and for the benefit of the state.

"The entire affairs of the corporation would be subject to the scrutiny of the federal officers; illegal contracts, in violation of the anti-trust law or the interstate commerce law, would be exposed and could be abrogated, and during the term of imprisonment, suited not to the offense but to the proper amount of time necessary to reform a concern, the entire organization could be put on a basis of healthy business so that it might at the end be turned back to its stockholders as a legitimate enterprise.

"To some it may seem reasonable that a proportion of the legitimate earnings of such a concern should be returned to the stockholders, though in accordance with the treatment of individuals convicts the entire amount might be appropriated by the state."

DISSOLUTION OF UNITED SHOE ASKED BY U. S. GOVERNMENT.

Bill Filed Against Company Includes Charges of Restraint of Trade and Conspiracy.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 12.—A suit asking for the dissolution of the United Shoe Machinery company was instituted this afternoon by the federal government in the United States Circuit court. The bill is brought against the United Shoe Machinery corporation, the United Shoe Machinery Company of New Jersey, eighteen subsidiary corporations, and twenty-three individuals, to restrain the defendants from "maintaining and engaging in unlawful combinations, contracts, and conspiracies in restraint of interstate and foreign trade and commerce, in violation of the Sherman act, in the manufacture, sale, and lease of machines, mechanisms, tools, and devices used in the manufacture of boots and shoes."

The court is asked to order the dissolution of the defendant corporations into such parts that no one of them will constitute a monopoly or can become a monopoly of the shoe machinery business.

The bill is brought by United States District Attorney French, acting under the direction of Attorney General Wickersham. The defendants include President Sidney W. Winslow, Henry B. Endicott, John H. Hanan, Elmer P. Howe, George E. Keith, and others prominent in the shoe machinery and shoe trade.

President Winslow and other officials of the United Shoe Machinery company were indicted by the federal grand jury last summer for alleged violation of the Sherman law. The cases have not yet come to trial.

NEW HARBOR WORK BEGUN BY COUNCIL

Committee Orders Specifications for Two Piers North of River Mouth.

LEGAL FIGHT PREDICTED.

Corporation Counsel Asked for an Opinion as to Pugh Riparian Claims.

Plans for the construction of two big piers north of the mouth of the river, as the initial unit of Chicago's outer harbor were begun yesterday.

Instructions on this work were given by the council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges to the city's engineers and legal representatives and procedure was adopted which, it was hoped, will complete final plans before next March. It is proposed to submit to the voters at the April election a bond issue—probably $5,000,000—for the construction of the harbor, and it is considered advisable to have definite plans ready beforehand.

The committee by a resolution went on record as favoring a site immediately north of the river mouth for the first two piers. This strip is claimed by the Pugh Terminal company through an old charter of the Chicago Dock and Canal company and a final decision will be a court battle.

Legal Fight Contemplated.

On a motion of Ald. T. K. Long, chairman of the subcommittee on harbors, on whose report the council now is proceeding, the committee requested the board of harbor and subway engineers yesterday to prepare specifications for two piers, each 2,500 feet long and 250 feet wide, with an open strip of water 250 feet wide between them.

It also requested Maclay Hoyne, first assistant corporation counsel, to give an opinion on the legal steps necessary to build the piers directly north of the river, one of them jutting out from the Pugh claim, involving riparian rights, title to submerged lands, and the method of obtaining rights of way for street car and railroad lines and the opening of Illinois and Indiana streets to the shore line.

To Build Northern Pier First.

The engineers—City Engineer Ericson, E. C. Shankland, and J. J. Reynolds—presented plans for piers, one touching the Pugh claim and another north of that claim. They suggested that the northern pier might be the more advisable for beginning because of the legal battle connected with the other. A decision will be made after Hoyne's opinion is given.

Procedure planned by Ald. Long contemplates six steps:

Adoption of detailed plans and specifications for initial piers with railroad terminals and equipment, and the estimation of the cost of this work and the necessary rights of way and riparian rights.

Provision in the 1912 budget of an adequate appropriation for this and general harbor purposes.

Preparation of proper ordinance providing for bond issue as recommended in the report of the subcommittee, to be submitted to the voters at the April election.

Tunnel Ready for Extension.

Arrangement by amicable adjustment with the Northwestern railroad for use of its tracks connecting the harbor with other lines, or, if suitable terms cannot be agreed upon, the condemnation of Northwestern trackage.

Planning of immediate condemnation proceedings for riparian rights and rights of way across private lands.

Action in conjunction with the interlakes traffic commission to urge upon congress the granting of an adequate appropriation for a proper breakwater for Chicago.

Ald. Long announced that the Illinois Tunnel company is ready to extend its bores to the harbor and transfer freight to the railroads, the charges being absorbed by the lines without charge upon the shipper.

WASTE $4,000,000 IN POSTAL WORK?

House Committee Hopes to Cut Off Yearly Profits of Express Concerns.

OPPOSE RAISE IN RATES.

Hitchcock May Be Asked to Enforce Shipping Monopoly Given by Law.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Evidence that the postoffice department is losing $4,000,000 of revenue annually on second class matter to the express companies by not enforcing the postal monopoly created by statute is in the hands of the house committee on expenditures in the postoffice department.

This disclosure will be used to combat Postmaster General Hitchcock's proposal to double the 1 cent a pound rate on periodicals in order to reduce the alleged deficit of $64,000,000 which Hitchcock says is incurred by the handling of second class matter. The postmaster general already has eliminated $1,000,000 by shipping magazines by freight, and it is contended that other reforms would wipe out the alleged deficit without increasing the rates.

Get Data from Publishers.

The house committee obtained from more than 10,000 publications detailed figures showing the number of copies sent by mail, by express, by freight, and by private carrier. These publications, including monthlies, weeklies, and dailies, represent an annual output of 6,500,000 copies, the weight of which is about 1,750,000,000 pounds, or about two-thirds of the total tonnage of second class matter.

The figures made public by the committee today show that the publications circulate 653,012,902 pounds by mail, 840,466,574 pounds by carrier, 202,720,510 pounds by express, and 121,491,748 pounds by other rail shipments. An unascertained proportion of the carrier circulation is transported by express. On the mail copies the publications pay 1 cent a pound to the government. The bulk of the shipments by express cost from ¼c to ½c a pound.

Could Get All Business.

Under the law the postoffice department could compel the circulation of all second class matter by mail, thus adding an estimated $4,000,000 to the postal revenue. It is contended that the department has permitted the express companies to carry not only mailable parcels, but periodicals, to the great profit of the express trust and loss to the government.

When the questron comes up in congress the administration will be met with the demand that the government exercise its monopoly and compel the express companies to relinquish this profitable business. If this is done, it is claimed that letter postage can be reduced to 1 cent without raising any other rates.

The Best Treatment for Itching Scalps and Falling Hair

To allay itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and economical. On retiring, comb the hair out straight all around, then begin at the side and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura ointment into the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. Anoint additional partings about half an inch apart until the whole scalp has been treated, the purpose being to get the Cuticura ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. It is well to place a light covering over the hair to protect the pillow from possible stain. The next morning, shampoo with Cuticura soap and hot water. Shampoos alone may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair. Notwithstanding Cuticura soap and ointment are sold everywhere, those wishing to try this treatment may do so without expense by sending to 'Cuticura,' Dept. 5D, Boston, Mass., for a free sample of Cuticura soap and ointment, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp.

INVESTIGATE NEED OF PENSION AID

Advisory Board Will Help Judge Pinckney Find Deserving Mothers.

200 APPLICATIONS ON FILE

Committee Meets with Jurist and Outlines Plans for Future Work.

Poor mothers' needs are to be investigated fully hereafter before pensions are granted by Judge Pinckney of the Juvenile court in an administration of the funds to parents act, or mothers' pension law, as it is commonly known.

It will be determined if the family or the child's circumstances warrant money aid, how long the pension shall continue in effect, and if the money is being properly used as a relief.

Investigation will be by an ex-officio board composed of representatives of most of the charitable and civic organizations in the city. The board was outlined at a meeting in Judge Pinckney's chambers yesterday of a citizens' advisory committee that he recently created to suggest a more efficient administration of the new law.

Members of Committee.

The committee, which met last Thursday and Saturday, has these members:

Charles H. Wacker, president of the United Charities of Chicago.
Sol Sulsberger, president Jewish Aid society.
The Rev. C. J. Quille, Catholic Charities.
James F. Kennedy, St. Vincent de Paul society.
Mrs. Arthur T. Aldis, president Visiting Nurse association.
Mrs. Mary H. Wilmarth, president Woman's City club.
Dr. Henry B. Favill, President City club.
Miss Julia Lathrop—Federation of Settlements.
Gustave T. Fischer, Industrial club of Chicago.
A. A. McCormick, president Immigrant Protective league.
Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, president Juvenile Protective association.
Mrs. L. L. Funk, president Children's Day association.
Sherman C. Kingsley, director Elizabeth McCormick Memorial fund.
Adolph Kurz, Jewish Home Finding association.
Miss Minnie F. Low, superintendent Bureau of Personal Service.
Miss Jane Addams, Hull house.

Sees Need of Investigation.

Judge Pinckney was asked to make the citizens' advisory committee permanent. He also was asked that a board of five investigators be named.

The board, it is asked, be supported by these institutions: The Roman Catholic Charities, United Charities of Chicago, United Jewish Charities, St. Vincent de Paul society, Juvenile Protective association, Children's Day association, Visiting Nurses' association, Woman's City club, Elizabeth McCormick memorial fund, Association of Commerce, Industrial club, Immigrants' Protective league, Council of Chicago Settlements, City club, and the German society.

Judge Pinckney was in harmony with all the recommendations. As soon as the Association of Commerce suggests its representative he will name the executive committee.

"There is no doubt of the great efficiency of the fund," said Judge Pinckney after the conference. "But the court knew there were many chances for mistakes.

"We now have 200 applications for pensions pending and 400 others have been canceled or postponed.'"

STATE CUTS OFF ANTITOXIN

Dr. Egan Says "Needless and Lavish Use" Ate Up Fund.

CITY TO GIVE IT, HOWEVER.

Health Board Will Supply Diphtheria Remedy When Needed.

Although the free supply of antitoxin furnished by the state has been ordered cut off, the anti-diphtheria treatment will be administered by the city health department free of charge.

Dr. James A. Egan, secretary of the state board of health, announced yesterday that the appropriation for antitoxin had been exhausted. The legislature voted $8,000 for this purpose and it was expected to last until July 1, 1912. In announcing that it had failed to do so Dr. Egan declared the shortage due to "unnecessary and lavish" use of the product in Chicago.

"He is getting into something that is not his business," asserted Health Commissioner Young. "We understand the use of the article and have employed care and judgment in administering it."

Dr. Young said he could not criticise the state board for cutting off the free supply if the appropriation for it had been exhausted. He said he had given orders for necessary purchases of it.

FIT UP TWO "D. T." HOSPITALS.

City Decides to Take Care of Its Own Drunks, Thus Relieving County.

The city council committee on county relations will recommend to the council that Chicago take care of its "drunks," according to report made at a meeting with the county board committee on city relations yesterday.

The subject of the care of delirium tremens cases has been a matter of discussion for several years, county officials contending that the city should care for them inasmuch as the city receives the license revenue from saloons.

It is expected that two buildings on the west side will be fitted up as "D. T." hospitals.

CITY GUILTY OF VIOLATING TEN HOUR LAW FOR WOMEN.

Judge Gemmill Gives Decision in "Nurses' Case"—Imposes Minimum Fines Aggregating $50.

The right of the city to employ women in its contagious disease hospital and other public institutions for periods longer than ten hours in a single day was denied in a decision made by Municipal Judge William N. Gemmill yesterday in the nurses' ten hour law case. A fine of $25 in each case brought by the state against the city will be imposed.

The prosecutions were brought under the recent amendment to the ten hour law which seeks to regulate the hours for the employment of females in public institutions in the state.

The defense of the city was that it was a municipal corporation and as such was an agent of the state in the exercise of the powers conferred upon it by the state. Judge Gemmill held that the state had the right to cause the city of Chicago to be indicted and prosecuted if it either failed or refused to observe the law of the state.

It is impossible to select a Christmas Present that would be more welcomed and appreciated than a pair of the world-famed, genuine

FOR CHRISTMAS—THE PIANOLA PIANO
A Gift That the Entire Family Will Enjoy

THE head of the family is often puzzled to know what his wife and children most desire for Christmas—what gift above all others they would select if they had their free, untrammeled choice. Sometimes he solves the problem by giving money and letting them select their own presents.

It is most significant that in former years it has sometimes happened that the sale of the Pianola Piano has been greater the week following Christmas, than the week before. The Christmas checks have been used to purchase this instrument, showing conclusively the real preference of the recipients.

The Pianola Piano is an ideal gift, because each and every member of the family derives real personal pleasure from it. All can play it without any previous knowledge of music, and thus participate in one of the keenest forms of human enjoyment—the fascination of personally producing music.

For the Wife
The Pianola Piano gives the wife the pleasure of renewing her acquaintance with the pieces "she used to play", and also of performing many compositions that were beyond her ability even when her technique was at its best.

For the Daughters
If there are daughters in the family taking music lessons, the Pianola Piano is a perfect piano for hand playing. It is the highest type of piano for keyboard playing and in addition, they have the incomparable enjoyment of immediate access to all music.

For the Sons
The Pianola Piano provides a new and powerful interest in the home. Evenings which might otherwise be less profitably spent will be occupied in playing over the latest and brightest of the current music—the light opera hits, college songs and newest dance music.

For the Children
A real educational force can easily be made of the Pianola Piano. Children can be given a taste for the best composers and a broad familiarity with the great art of music which will be of inestimable value to them all their lives.

THE PIANOLA PIANO
The Only Instrument Containing The Genuine Pianola

Success has always called forth imitation. In view of the world-wide prominence of the Pianola Piano and the rapidity of its adoption by music-loving people in every quarter of the globe, it is not remarkable to find many other instruments upon the market claiming to produce similar results.

It is important, therefore, to remember that no Player-Piano save only the Pianola Piano has successfully passed the critical tests of leading musicians or been endorsed by the foremost musical educators of the world. The world's five leading pianofortes in their respective grades may be obtained as Pianola Pianos. These are:—

The Steinway, the Weber, the Steck, the Wheelock and the Stuyvesant Pianola Pianos

Genuine Pianola Pianos are obtainable (in Chicago) only at Aeolian Hall. Prices $550 up On easy terms. And a liberal allowance on your old piano in exchange.

CHICAGO, THE CONVENTION CITY.

The heavy majority—42 to 8—by which Chicago won the Republican convention—let us say it with all due modesty—is merely in the ratio of Chicago's advantages as a convention city over its rivals'. June, the month of the convention, is one of our very best months; the lake breezes may be counted upon; our hotels are better than ever—the Blackstone, the La Salle, and the new Hotel Sherman, to name the chief, having been opened since the last convention—and all our resources of convenience and entertainment have been increased.

In location, climate, and equipment no city compares with Chicago as a general convention city. The Democrats would do well to keep that in mind.

NO DETERRENT.

Four young rowdies, joined by chance and in possession of an automobile by theft, yield to a criminal impulse as thoughtlessly as boys in the country might turn off the road to raid an orchard, and in their attempt to rob a citizen on the streets they kill his wife.

It was the first theory formed regarding the murder of Mrs. Kaufman that it had been committed by some swaggering, irresponsible, street corner toughs. That theory is substantiated by the confession of one of the four, who has revealed the details of the crime to the police.

These young imps undertook highway robbery seemingly with no thought that there might be consequences disastrous to them. In their case the law had failed to make any impression as a possible deterrent. They went out in a stolen car, decided it was "a good night for a stickup," found that they had a couple of revolvers, and looked about for victims.

The murder resulted because they were cowards, and as cowards they were frightened when they saw what they had done, but what will cause citizens to consider the crime with apprehension was the thoughtlessness with which it was undertaken. These rowdies were typical of an element which the community is not disciplining to a thought of consequences. It does not present itself to this class as powerful and punishing, so when an impulse turns to crime there is no deterrent.

This class must be dealt with in the making.

THE SECURITIES REPORT.

Public opinion is in a better condition to assimilate the important conclusions of the Hadley commission on railroad securities than it has been for some years.

That is to say, it is neither indifferent, as it was for many years, to corporate financing, nor is it, as it finally and naturally became, greatly inflamed and overviolent.

In short, it is being realized by the American people, or by that portion which formulates opinion and effects legislation, that the problem of the relations of the great corporations to the public weal is a complex, delicate, and difficult one, the solution of which touches eventually every class and every individual. This, indeed, is a platitude, frequently repeated even during the utmost rigors of the crusade against corporate wrongs, but not sufficiently appreciated to check excesses of feeling and distortion of judgment. Its appreciation is more definite today, with the result that all save the more fanatical and visionary concede that rough and ready measures, simple and sweeping or so-called drastic remedies, will not solve our difficulties, remove the evils existing, or replace them with beneficial conditions.

The confusion existing in the anti-trust situation has helped greatly to check our disposition to jump at cure-alls, and we are now more willing to criticise and hear criticism of plausible remedies.

The character of the commission on railroad securities is high. Its head is the distinguished president of Yale university, himself a leading economist. Another member is the secretary of the interior, Walter L. Fisher, a progressive of the best type and an able, practical student of the public service corporation problem. The other three members are Interstate Commerce Commissioner Meyer, Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis, and Frederick Strauss of New York, men of high standing. The report carries great weight, therefore, as embodying the results of honest, public spirited, and thoroughly competent study of the question of security issues and their proposed regulation.

The report presents, besides its definite recommendations, one timely observation which experience has exemplified often but never more conspicuously than during the struggle to control the trusts. The commission sensibly reminds us that to make a law more drastic than conditions really justify is to defeat the purpose of the law. "If full publicity be given, we shall lessen the fraudulent creation of debt," says the commission. "It is the degree of publicity, rather than the stringency of the law, which gives to the people any real protection. A stringent law, inadequately enforced and secretly evaded, is the worst thing that can possibly be offered to the public, because it gives color to claims which have no foundation in fact."

As to the control of security issues the commission, having taken account of the constitutional difficulties and the present complications arising out of the ill defined limits of federal and state powers, falls back upon full publicity requirements and federal incorporation as the most effective and immediately available remedies. The states also should harmonize their laws affecting stock issues, at least until such time as the federal control may be made exclusive.

As to the importance of physical valuation, the commission believes that it has been greatly overestimated, and also that the relation of valuation and of capitalization to ratemaking is slight.

The commission, in short, favors empowering the interstate commerce commission to enforce publicity and to make physical valuation. It also recommends the proposition of a federal incorporation act which shall permit the exchange of state charters for federal ones. But it does not favor requiring the official assent of the interstate commission for future stock issues, as such assent might be mistaken for a government guaranty by a considerable part of the public.

The report will repay careful study and should serve as a guide for those of our representatives who are not disposed to play politics with the railroad question.

ARMY REFORM AND POLITICS.

In cases of national peril congress is rather proud of its patriotic unity. When we were about to war with Spain the house voted as one man the appropriation for that extraordinary occasion.

There is a better way for congressmen to prove their patriotism, and that is to approach with common sense and public spirit the problem of military preparedness in these piping days of peace.

THE TRIBUNE is not militant. It believes in the trend toward international peace not because of millennial hopes of man's perfection but because war is waste and will be supplanted by less costly methods of adjustment, as force has been replaced by legal justice in the affairs of the individual. But the era of international peace is not yet, and the United States, fortunate as it is in its location, in its comparative freedom from perilous complications, and in its possession of those nonmilitary powers and resources which more and more shackle the dogs of war, still must be prepared.

There are, of course, extremists, usually military professionals, who, failing to appreciate the nonmilitary elements of our strength, demand a greater establishment and a more advanced state of preparedness than need be. These extremists balance the extreme pacifists who believe we may bring about peace by rendering ourselves helpless in respect to armed force. Between the theories of these extremes, which are not really dangerous, because they are held by so few, there is to be found a theory that is dangerous—namely: that modern war can be fought effectually by amateurs and that a great army can be welded over night out of the excellent civil material of our population.

This theory draws its vitality not from our national history, which disproves it, but from our national democratic superstition that one man's opinion is as good as another's. An inheritance of the pioneer, individualist period, it still serves to check progress in an age of highly organized collective effort.

Against this theory or prejudice the intelligent military student has charged again and again with small effect. His knowledge of the facts, his scientific estimate of conditions, count for little, and he is compelled to retreat. It is in such encounters that the moral discipline of the soldier in patience and obedience must serve him well.

But these critics are fighting our battles now as they will be expected to fight them in time of war. It is time that they were given better support. The position they take is logically unassailable. They point out that since we are spending millions on our military establishment we should see to it that those millions are well spent, that we get the maximum for our money.

That is a business proposition that ought to approve itself to a business nation. It is common sense, and the best of our military critics back it with more than common sense—with expert sense and expert knowledge.

Unfortunately, the demands of military reformers become entangled in politics. One of the most disgusting and notorious, if not the most serious, example of this is the opposition encountered by the proposal to reduce the number of army posts, a most desirable thing not merely for economical but also, and chiefly, for tactical reasons. In the navy the closing of unnecessary navy yards or stations is postponed year in and year out for the same reason, the objection of local pride and petty profit. The post or station brings some money or distinction to the district, therefore the congressman, probably under pressure of his constituents, uses his vote and his influence against its abolition.

The recommendations of the secretary of war will be met by the same opposition unless congress will remember, first, that patriotism is as acceptable now as at any other time, and, second, that the ostrich is not the national bird.

As to the recommendations of the war department and the army situation, THE TRIBUNE will have something to say another day.

WILL 1,000 more Good Fellows kindly enroll themselves today?

THAT new arrangement, we are sure, would have been highly satisfactory to the late Marshall Field.

CARPING critics, if the phrase, "curious to know," gets on your nerves, you can use "at a loss to know" for a while.

AS WE glissade to press this morning the "opportunities" are slightly in excess, numerically, of the Good Fellows. Old Santa Claus reports that he needs more assistants.

NOW COMES another kicker, who insists that "Dawson, '11, out of regard for his alma mater, should not permit himself to split his infinitives." Check. Next!

SANITATION IN THE CLOAK INDUSTRY.

[From the bulletin of the joint board of sanitary control in the cloak, suit, and skirt industry.]

HUMAN ENGINEERING for 1911 quotes as follows:

"Workmen in safe and sanitary shops are not only more healthy; they are more efficient. Efficiency is the very soul of industry. Ours is the first attempt in the history of industry in this and other countries of a trade to control its own destiny. This is the first common ground upon which organized labor and organized capital may peacefully meet, and consists in safe and sanitary shops."

Proceeding on these basic principles, the joint board of sanitary control of the cloak, suit, and skirt industry conducted "a shop to shop sanitary inspection of the cloak making industry in Greater New York."

The board consisted of two inspectors, one office secretary, and one messenger. On May 1 they had made a total of 1,093 inspections, had appointed twenty-five shop committees, given twenty-four noon lectures, and distributed 58,500 bulletins and cards. They circulated this notice:

"To Shop Owners: Our sanitary certificates are ready. All owners of shops which conform to the following standards are entitled to a certificate, which will be granted upon application and inspection. The possession of our sanitary certificate will be a positive indication that your shop is safe and sanitary."

There follow twenty-eight sanitary requirements. Among them are such as:

"No shops to be allowed in a cellar.

"Sufficient window space to be provided so that all parts of the shop will be well lighted from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

"At least 400 cubic feet of space, exclusive of bulky furniture and materials should be provided for every person within the shop.

"The shop should be thoroughly aired before and after working hours, and during lunch hours, by opening windows and doors.

"All seats to have backs."

Some of the remaining twenty-three requirements are quite as important as these which have been cited. Some requirements of great consequence are not found, but the leaven is there, and it will continue to work until things become as they should be. When that time comes Ghetto consumption will rapidly diminish, and the workers, relieved of this great burden, will be more contented and happier. Inevitably business will be more secure.

The movement is emphatically right. No better business policy could be conceived than for manufacturers engaged in other lines to follow this example. Workingmen have a right to demand safe and sanitary shops. Employers have a right to demand of workingmen personal cleanliness, help in keeping the shop clean, and good home hygiene.

TUBERCULAR GLANDS.

G. T. D. writes: "What is the treatment for tubercular glands in the first stages of the ailment?"

REPLY.

Proper cleaning of the tonsils, mouth, and teeth.
Tuberculin properly given.
Abundant feeding, good ventilation, proper rest.

RHEUMATISM AND CLIMATE.

P. P. writes: "Will you kindly answer the following questions: (1) What climate in the United States is best for one afflicted with rheumatism? What climate is worst? Is the rate of rheumatic cases high at and near Chicago? (2) If a person had inflammatory rheumatism during the winter of 1910-'11 and had now about recovered from the effects, would he be apt to have another attack this winter? (3) What is the vallue of 'medicated' woolen underclothing which is recommended by some doctors for rheumatism? What is the best underwear for a person subject to rheumatism to wear? (4) Should a person bothered with rheumatism wear rubbers during the winter months? (5) Should a person who has had two bad attacks of inflammatory rheumatism during the last five years have his tonsils removed? Both cases of inflammatory rheumatism were preceded by tonsilitis. (6) Is not the percentage of the cases of rheumatism in this section of the country on the increase? (7) Is rheumatism hereditary? (8) What is the benefit of mineral baths for rheumatism? (9) What is the best diet for a person troubled with rheumatism?"

REPLY.

1. There is but little rheumatism in the tropics. A warm, moist climate such as that of Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi has some advantages, particularly during the late winter and for northern people. But climate is of secondary importance. As rheumatism is not a reportable disease it is impossible to do more than guess whether Chicago's rate is high or not.
2. Yes.
3. The "medicated" part is rank foolishness. Woolen underwear is proper.
4. Yes.
5. Yes.
6. There is no way to tell. The statistics from army posts give information as to the amount of rheumatism amongst soldiers in different parts of the country and in different years. Conclusions from this as to conditions amongst the general population would be valuable.
7. No.
8. Mineral baths such as Benton Harbor, Mount Clemens, and Martinsville will benefit certain kinds of so-called rheumatism and be of no service in others. I should say that what you call rheumatism is an infection of your joints by a germ which gets in through your tonsils. Baths will not help you any during an attack. They will help the soreness that stays after.
9. A good nutritious diet containing meat is proper between attacks in the kind of trouble indicated by your letter. Muscular rheumatism, noninflammatory rheumatism, rheumatic pains—the gouty type—do better on a low protein diet.

CAUSE OF NIGHT SWEATS.

E. A. O. writes: "Will you kindly advise as to the cause of night sweats? Is there any harm in eating food quite salty if a person likes salt? Is there any harm in eating the skins of grapes or apples?"

REPLY.

1. Debility causes night sweats, but night sweats do not cause debility. Back of debility there is a cause of night sweats. One cause is as follows: When fever leaves a patient he is apt to sweat. Most fevers are highest in the afternoon and go down at night, whereupon the patient sweats. Many people think the weakness which they feel is due to the sweat. It is due to the same cause that the sweat is due to, namely, physical depression. Night sweats and weakness are coincidences.
2. There is some reason for believing that an excess of salt harms those who have Bright's disease. A moderate amount is needed for food purposes.
3. If grapes and apples are well washed the skins and hulls should be eaten. In eating grapes, the skins and seeds should be chewed and swallowed.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1911: By the Brentwood Company.]

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S transfer from the secretaryship of state of the home department to the office of first lord of the admiralty has naturally served to revive the rumors of his return, sooner or later, to the Unionist camp, and it is expected that by carrying out an imperialist policy in naval matters, rather than the too economical one of the radical element, and by thus fulfilling the Unionist views in connection with the navy, he will render himself so popular with the Unionists that they will welcome his return to their fold.

It is no secret that within the last year he has caused approaches to be made to the Unionist party, offering to return if some compromise could be effected on the question of tariff reform. But at that time Arthur Balfour had not retired; people, even his political associates, did not contemplate his resignation, and Winston Churchill was given to understand that he would not be received at any price.

Since then the situation has changed. Churchill realizes that Lloyd-George, the chancellor of the exchequer, instead of himself, will be chosen premier when Herbert Asquith, in the near future, retires from the too onerous burdens of his present office to the comparative retirement of the house of lords. Frankly speaking, the Liberals do not trust Winston Churchill enough to confide the leadership of their party to him, either in or out of office, at any rate as long as they have Lloyd-George to take the place of Asquith.

On the other hand, through the retirement of Balfour and the jealousies of Austen Chamberlain and of Walter Long, the Unionists have been so hard put to find a leader that they have had to fall back upon the relatively unknown Bonar Law, a forceful speaker, but without the requisite experience of either parliamentary procedure or of cabinet office, and who, when the Unionists return to power, must necessarily allow some one better equipped in this respect to take up the position of premier.

This lack of available timber for a premier, from which the Unionists are suffering, Winston Churchill regards as his opportunity, and there are many who are convinced that his chieftainship of the admiralty in the present administration is merely a prelude to his premiership of a Unionist cabinet. If his radical associates in the Liberal administration refuse to comply with his demands for the large credits which he will consider necessary in order to put the naval defenses on a satisfactory footing he will be able to throw up his office on the score of patriotism, and return once more to the Unionists, who have never shown any disposition to stint regarding the money needed for the navy.

Hongkong is the point from which Great Britain is not only watching the present troubles in China, but likewise exercising the keenest sort of supervision of its vast interests, political and commercial, in the celestial empire. It is the one great naval stronghold possessed by a European power in the China seas, and not only its defenses but likewise its garrison have been considerably strengthened of late, without attracting much notice.

It is fortunate that the governor of Hongkong in this time of crisis should be not a civilian, but a resourceful and energetic soldier, accustomed to deal with the yellow and dusky races, and also to turn all available material to the best account. He is Gen. Sir Frederick Lugard, and while on the one hand the rebels are allowed to come and go between Hongkong and the mainland, providing they do not break the laws of the colony, on the other hand the governor is affording hospitality, under his own roof, to Chang-Ming-Chi, the fugitive imperialist viceroy of Canton, who has sought refuge there.

To Gen. Sir Frederick Lugard, more than to any one else, Great Britain is indebted for its great colonial empire in West Africa known as Nigeria. Tall, gaunt, angular, dark as a Spaniard, he has the yellow skin, the hollow cheeks, the sunken eyes, and the indented temples which mark the man who has struggled with the tropical fever. Square jawed, with a forehead like a cliff, ferocious mustache, and keen black eyes, he can nevertheless be as gentle as a woman, and under the austerity and gravity of his manner a wealth of kind heartedness, in spite of his effort to conceal it, constantly crops out, and is also shown in the pages of the numerous books which he has written on the subject of his astonishing exploring expeditions.

A nephew of Sir Edward Lugard, who served with so much distinction in India, where he is remembered as the victor of the battle of Judgesboro, Sir Frederick was born at Madras, the younger son of a fine old English family. At college he was renowned as a football player, and soon after joining the army had the opportunity of seeing fighting, first in Afghanistan, under Lord Roberts, taking part in the historic march from Cabul to Candahar, and afterward in the conquest of Burmah.

Invalided home in consequence of overwork and climatic unpleasantness, he selected equatorial Africa, of all places in the world, as a sanitarium. The fates led him to Uganda, in central Africa, where he remained for some years, schooling, chiding and chastising in turn its turbulent king, and contributing more, alone and single handed, to the foundation of civilized life there than could have been achieved by an army of missionaries.

It is entirely due to him that Nyassaland and Uganda were preserved to the British flag, and when he was transferred to western Africa he conducted a number of wars, and won many brilliant victories, over tremendous odds, with native troops commanded by a mere handful of carefully picked white officers, men of the same type as himself.

With them he managed to break the power of those great central and western African native empires which were the strongholds of the slave trade and of barbarism.

Sir Frederick is married to Miss Flora Shaw, who for years was the correspondent of the London Times in South Africa, for which paper she likewise visited the Klondike when it was first opened up. No more fitting helpmate could be found for such a man than this brilliant woman, whose testimony at the parliamentary investigation into the Jameson raid, preceding the Boer war, excited unbounded admiration at Westminster among legislators of every shade of political opinion.

Sir Frederick, I may add, was criticised when in Africa, before his appointment to the governorship of Hongkong, for favoring Islam as much as Christianity in the dark continent. He shares, however, the views of Canon Isaac Taylor that Mohammedanism may be regarded as the stepping stone from paganism to Christianity. At any rate, in Africa. But he is quite as much opposed to the fanaticism of the Moslems as to the premature proselytism of the Christian missionaries.

A LINE-O'-TYPE OR TWO.

A JINGLE OF LIMITATIONS.

[Second edition.]

Geraldine, Georgia, Grayce,
Rosamond, Rosalind, Rose,
Others who tearfully trace
Daily their amorous woes—
Whose every billet-doux shows
Life is but wormwood and gall—
List! I'll a secret disclose:
Girls, I'm in love with you all.

Had I the time and the space,
Did not this jingle impose
Limits one may not efface,
Were I but writing in prose,
I should be glad to depose
Just the extent of my thrall;
Haply, I can't be verbose;—
Girls, I'm in love with you all.

Not that I dream to displace
Hearts that you long ago chose;
One heart could hardly embrace
Arrows from so many bows.
Take—all I dare to propose—
Each an allotment. Tho' small,
Maybe 'twill help some. Who knows?
Girls, I'm in love with you all.

Dry, then, each tear-spattered nose;
If you need sympathy, call.
Take this assurance to close—
Girls, I'm in love with you all.

"IT seems almost too good to be true," is Mr. Hutchinson's comment on the Lake Front Plan; and that voices the general opinion. Nothing is more astonishing than the news that something is to be done that ought to be done, that ought to have been done before.

TOO good to be true indeed! Whenever selfishness, shortsightedness, unenlightenment, stupidity, greed, politics, and other obstacles are suddenly surmounted, the result can be ascribed only to an incredibly fortuitous concatenation of circumstances.

ANOTHER thing almost t. g. t. b. t. is the report that the invincible T. R. may be the candidate in 1912. He had nothing to lose with the Wall street crowd, and he has gained favor there, while those who were for him are for him still.

HOWEVER—dash—the meeting of the Republican committee yesterday was pro-Taft, which is not especially startling.

Mrs. Mary Conrad Jones and her son four years of age left Decatur on the early morning train November 16 for Tacoma, Washington, where she arrived the 20th. She was very cordially received by her friend Mr. C. B. Jolly, who took her and the son to a restaurant for a supper. She was then united in marriage to Mr. Jolly and left for a small town nearby.

Sir: Speaking of the "City Beautiful," why not commence operations by having the council pass an ordinance changing his name to "Maison du Bain Jean"? That would not require a referendum, nor a bond issue, and could take effect at once.

FAMILY TIES.

Christmas time will soon be here,
Filled with gladness and good cheer.
The time when father, son, and brother
Receive a tie from every other
Member of the family true.

Will they wear those neckties bright?
Well, yes, I think they might Appear in them just 'round home,
When the family is alone.
As a rule (the brutes!) they do.

The Friend of the People.

YES, BUT HOW ABOUT THE "EXPERT"?

Chicago, Dec. 9.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I have read with interest the reply handed you by the Chicago Railways company relative to route 21 that appeared in your issue of Dec. 8. And it amounts to as much as route 21—viz.: nothing. It seems that the wise man who answered you simply said: "We handed the northwest siders a gold brick through route and slipped it through in the settlement ordinance, and the people not only get no through route from the northwest side to the south side but they also lose the right of transferring from fake through route 21, in the loop district." Isn't it up to our traction expert to have the fake through route signs removed and issue ordinary transfers from this line, the same as on all other lines terminating in the loop? Also, would you kindly look up your data on through routes and see if this route 21 was actually intended to terminate at State and Randolph streets, or was it supposed to go south to Sixty-third street on State? How many more years will it be before the northwest side has an actual through route to the far south side? H. M.

TO HEAT WITH ELECTRICITY.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Is there not some way in which you can prevail upon the Metropolitan Elevated Railroad company or the health department to investigate the heating systems, especially the hot water, and obtain some measure of relief from the overheated and unventilated cars used on this line? One of the worst features in connection with this complaint is the seriousness of escaping gas from the furnaces. The attendants are prevented, I am informed, from regulating ventilation by the use of windows, and during the last two weeks the temperature has been too high to permit heated cars and maintain any reasonable degree of comfort to the passengers who are wrapped in winter clothing fit for zero weather.

WILLIAM MCGUINEAS,
2911 West Van Buren street.

COMPLAINS OF EARLY BELLS.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Among the many complaints that are registered in your column I have not noticed that the ringing of bells early in the morning has been mentioned. There are a great many convents or schools of that nature which, for some reason or other, ring bells loudly as early as 5:30 and 6 o'clock in the morning. Persons living within four or five blocks of such institutions can hear these bells distinctly.

If these bells are rung for the purpose of awakening the inmates, that purpose could as well be accomplished with gongs on the inside of the buildings, and not disturb the neighbors, who, robbed of sleep by the clanging bells, rightly come to regard the practice as a nuisance.

The fact is that if persons wish to go to church as early as 6 o'clock in the morning the ringing of church bells would not bring them there any sooner nor arouse them in time.

In New York City there is a strong law not alone against the ringing of church bells early in the morning but the unnecessary ringing of any bells, even on Sunday. J. J. COHEN.

PROSPECTS FOR ELEVATION ORDINANCE.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I am informed by a real estate man that next spring the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company is going to elevate its tracks on the Desplaines division, from Hunting avenue past Milwaukee avenue, in Jefferson. Is this true? C. R. DONALDSON.

I beg leave to state that there is no ordinance at present requiring the elevation of the Desplaines division of the Chicago and Northwestern railway at Maytair, but there are prospects of an ordinance being introduced in the near future.

FRANCIS J. OWENS,
Commissioner of track elevation.

NORTHWESTERN "L" SERVICE.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Having noted the almost universal success which attends your efforts toward the improvement of public service, and having seen what you have accomplished in the way of improvement of rush hour service on the Northwestern elevated trains for points north of Wilson avenue, I would like to ask if you will not do something more to secure further and sorely needed improvements in this service?

Why do north bound Evanston trains after the rush hour period run local north of Belmont avenue? The number of passengers leaving or entering trains at stations between Wilson and Belmont avenues is not sufficient to justify these stops.

Why do south bound Evanston trains make all stops from the originating station to Belmont avenue? These south bound trains, particularly during the earlier hours of the evening, when the theaters and other places of social amusement are drawing people toward the loop, are always so crowded that by the time the trains reach North Edgewater even standing room has begun to be difficult to secure.

Why are the trains from the North Water street terminal allowed to follow immediately after the Evanston trains from the loop? Would not much better service be given if this schedule were so arranged so that terminal trains for the city limits or Evanston would follow the Evanston trains from the loop by an interval equivalent to half the time supposed to elapse between the times of running of such loop trains? H. D. NICHOLSON.

Returning the attached with reference to Evanston trains stopping at stations between Wilson and Belmont avenues, we are arranging schedules that undoubtedly will improve the condition. With reference to the North Water terminal trains following closely loop trains, the schedule now is so arranged as to equally divide the interval, but loop trains often fall behind the schedule by reason of congestion, bringing the trains close together. It would be inconsistent to hold the North Water street trains to again equalize the time.

B. I. BUDD, president.

QUICK RESULTS.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Thank you very much for so promptly taking care of my complaint of Dec. 8. To my great delight, this morning I found that a load of cinders had been spread four or five inches thick over the entrance to the alley, thus making a nice, dry crossing. L. G.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

PERHAPS "SCADS" IS HER IDEAL.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—That Dawson '11 is an impossible milksop we all know, but even then he ought not to split his infinitives when writing his gruelly drivel. He is as vapid as your Mme. Qui Vive is vulgar. EDITH VERNON.

IT DOES NOT.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I may be very stupid, but I cannot understand Mr. Percival Baldwin's letter in today's TRIBUNE. He says "it seems a grievous wrong to impose the burden of the ballot upon women," etc. The California law does not compel women to vote, does it?

GEO. H. WILSON, 296 La Salle.

PUNISHMENT FOR CRIME.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I wonder how many people saw McCutcheon's cartoon of Saturday, Dec. 9? It is in my estimation, as well as a great many others, the best cartoon that has ever been published. If punishment could only be given like that. The only thing is, the clock should be turned so that the criminal could see the hour approaching when he would go the same way he so coldbloodedly sent so many to their doom. Life term and fifteen years is not fit punishment for those men—the self-confessed McNamara brothers.

L. M.

BETTER THAN TEN SERMONS.

La Grange, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Mr. McCutcheon's cartoon in Saturday's TRIBUNE entitled "If the Punishment Were as Cruel as the Crime" will do more good than ten sermons on the same subject.

JOHN H. CARSTENS,
First Baptist church.

TOO FAR DISTANT.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Mr. Bell in today's TRIBUNE explains the way to Socialism by quite a rational short cut scheme of purchasing all private business by the government from the present owners, pay off in bonds, which are to be redeemed out of the profits derived thereby.

This is all very nice, if it would be possible to change from individualism to socialism in one week, which no doubt Mr. Bell's desire is. But as all good things that have come in the past were subdued to the law of natural development of conditions, the same as the trusts grew out of the cutthroat condition of competition, so Socialism will be the child of the trusts when the conditions are ripe for the birth of the child and then it will come naturally; without forcing, without jarring it will carry us into the brighter, into the happier days of universal love and universal brotherhood. But until then we will have to wait and prepare for the expected new era. Our present conditions and even our present people are still too far away from higher ideals. The egoism is still too great in the hearts of all people and altruism holds too narrow a space therein.

HERMAN OLSCHNER,
663 East Forty-first street.

WOMEN AND CIVIC DUTIES.

Oak Park, Dec. 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In Monday's Voice of the People Palmer Baldwin writes that it seems to him a grievous wrong to impose the burden of the ballot upon women. Does he not think responsibility is educative? The Lord gives to the most ignorant woman the charge of a child. She learns to be a good mother by taking the responsibility. Every speaker at the last mothers' congress urged giving the child responsibility to develop its character; so in the same way will the women develop their civic ability by taking up this burden, as he calls it. He must not be afraid to have women take this responsibility. It has been good for men; it has made thinkers of them. It will be good to have women think, too, and the responsibility will seem nothing to them compared to that which they have taken on their shoulders already if they have many little ones to raise. ANNA JONES CLAYBERG.

SOCIALISM AND DIRECT ACTION.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The policy of "Direct Action" as is, from all appearances, the policy of the American Federation of Labor, as evidenced by the confession of the McNamara brothers, is diametrically opposed to the theories held by the Socialist party, the latter being that results can be obtained only by political action, the only way out of the present chaotic condition being by the ballot and not by dynamite bombs and other media of destroying property, and many times life.

It is a lamentable condition that the trades unions are struggling along with policies that have been discarded by the unions of England and other European countries twenty years ago, and the sooner they understand that "direct action" or force has been a failure the world over, and the sooner they unite for political action and get their representatives on the floors of congress and the state legislatures, then and only then can they expect legislation that will benefit their condition. L. J RICE, 5620 Drexel.

GETTING ANXIOUS.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—"Present fears are less than terrible imaginings"—and you voice them utterly in your editorial of "Dawson '11" this morning. If John gives Dawson a cigaret and he takes it I'll forgive both of 'em, but if he doesn't draw a picture very soon of festooned smilax and bride roses in the foreground and mother in a new silk dress in the middle distance—not to mention Dawson and Nell rightly cast—there will be trouble in my family and I will have to discontinue your paper, and I never will. W. C. W.

EARLY SHOPPING AND PAY DAY.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Do those people who harp upon the "Do your shopping early" idea ever consider that the majority of Christmas shoppers never get their Christmas money until Christmas days are here? Wages are not so high that working people are able to lay aside money for Christmas gifts far in advance; it is usually the last month's or week's salary that is used for Christmas shopping. If those who believe in "shopping early" will advance the December wages it would help greatly to facilitate matters. There is nothing on earth which the average man, woman, or child enjoys more than shopping, selecting from a full line of goods and doing it early. Thus this joy might be gratified by many if those who intend to give money to their employés would do so now and not wait until the insane rush is on.

The truant officer must know the laws pertaining to education in particular. The probation officer must know the Juvenile court laws in particular. Copies of previous examinations and definite printed information may be had through the Juvenile court and board of education.

Duties of the probation officer: Visiting and advising the wards of the Juvenile court. Investigating cases referred to the court. To help in the care, custody, and discipline of the child whose parents for any reason are not so doing.

Duties of the truant officer: Investigating all conditions that tend to keep children from school, homes and any outside influence that has this tendency.—Ed. Tribune.]

M'GOORTY DENIES TALK TO BARTZEN

Contradicts County Board Head's Testimony They Discussed Murray Selection.

BURKE HALTS EVIDENCE.

Judge Will Not Let Official Tell Why He Ousted the Former Merit Commissioner.

Judge John P. McGoorty contradicted President Bartzen of the county board yesterday in the suit brought to test the legality of the appointment of P. J. (Fish) Murray as chief food examiner for the county. The suit, brought by the Civil Service Reform association, is being heard before Judge Richard E. Burke.

Herbert E. Fleming, secretary of the reform body, who filed the suit as a taxpayer, charges the appointment of Murray was illegal and irregular and the payment of a political debt by Mr. Bartzen.

Mr. Bartzen appeared as a witness for Murray. He clashed with Attorney William B. Hale, counsel for the reform body, when the subject of ousting Mr. McGoorty from the county civil service commission was brought up.

Says He Talked with McGoorty.

Mr. Bartzen said he had discussed the appointment of a chief food examiner with Mr. McGoorty and had learned that no eligible list existed from which appointments could be filled, as it was a newly created position.

"McGoorty also said some reformers were 'snooping' around and objecting to the appointment of Mr. Murray," Mr. Bartzen declared.

"Then you 'fired' McGoorty, didn't you?" Mr. Hale asked.

"You read the papers, don't you?" Mr. Bartzen replied. "But he was not 'fired' on that account. I would just as soon tell you why I 'fired' Mr. McGoorty——"

At this point Judge Burke stopped Mr. Bartzen's testimony along this line.

"Was it your personal desire to create a position for Mr. Murray just out of friendship?" asked Attorney F. G. Burkhiser, for the county civil service commission.

"No, it was not," Mr. Bartzen replied. "Mr. Murray had a good position, and we had to coax him to come into the service of the county. He was offered $3,000 less than his position was paying him."

McGoorty Denies Talk.

Judge McGoorty in the afternoon denied he ever had any such conversation regarding Murray as Mr. Bartzen described. B. S. Larkin, secretary to Mr. Bartzen, had testified he presented a requisition providing for the temporary appointment of Murray to Mr. McGoorty in December. Judge McGoorty said he distinctly remembered that the requisition was presented to him in the middle of February.

Murray in his testimony said:

"The food at the Blackstone isn't any better than that supplied at the county institutions right now."

RATE ISSUE SPLITS WOODMEN

"Insurgents" in Fraternal Order Hold First Convention.

FIGHT HIGHER INSURANCE.

Charge Officials Have Banded with "Old Line" Risk Companies.

An insurgent party has sprung up in the ranks of the Modern Woodmen of America. It is called the National Layman's association of the Modern Woodmen of America, and it closed its first convention yesterday at the Hotel Sherman. The first steps were taken yesterday at the convention to fight the readjustment of rates on insurance which is said to be planned by the head camp at its meeting at the Hotel Sherman next month.

The "insurgents" claim that some of the head officers are in league with the "old line" insurance companies, and that the latter are attempting to put the fraternal organizations out of business. According to some of the delegates, the contemplated raise in the rates would mean the end of the Woodmen order.

Before the convention closed the 800 delegates, said to represent over 500,000 members of the Woodmen organization, adopted a constitution and bylaws. The officers of the new organization are: E. E. Whipple, Marion, Ind., president, and F. S. Jameson, Vinton, Ia., secretary. The states represented in the convention were Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Missouri, Minnesota, Montana, Iowa, and Nebraska.

Chicago Women Arrange for Twelfth Night Revel.

CHICAGO is to have a "Twelfth Night" revel—the first in its history, according to those who are to manage the affair. Moreover it is to be modeled as nearly as possible—with the northern setting—after the revels which have made New Orleans famous. It is to come on the evening of Jan. 4 in the shape of a ball in the twin ballrooms of Hotel La Salle for the benefit of the Bonnie Hame association.

The Bonnie Hame is an organization of women founded for the purpose of establishing homes whereby a business woman, who must care for her children, may not find it necessary to farm her children out by the day to chance helpers while she is making their living downtown.

The idea appeals not only to women who may find themselves at any time in a similar position, but to the men upon whose wives the reverses of fortune or health may place a sudden responsibility. Therefore the ball and revel has attracted the interest of the men and women of society and club life alike. There is a list of patrons and patronesses—not just patronesses—containing an array of important names.

The nature of the evening's plans is due to the efforts—or the memories—of two New Orleans women, now residing in Chicago—Mrs. Francis Kauffman Von Ficht (Katherine Cooney Abbott) and Mrs. Harry Selfridge Standish, who as Lydia Winship, niece of the minister to France, was a widely known beauty of New Orleans a decade or so ago.

Mrs. Standish (or Lydia Winship) had the unusual honor in her debutante year of being chosen not only for queen of the "Twelfth Night" revels in New Orleans, but also for a maid of the court of Comus. These two southern women—Mrs. Von Ficht is chairman of the ball committee—have inspired their northern co-workers to arrange the revel.

Two score of the young people will open the ball as revelers, dancing unique figures under the guidance of A. E. Bournique. The crowning of the queen—a young woman to be chosen for her beauty—will be an interesting feature of the ball. She will be selected by the leader of the revelers, who will direct the coronation ceremonies. The queen's cake will be borne into the ballroom on the shoulders of four of the tallest men in the city, selected from among the eligible bachelors, who will perform the service en masque. After the cake is cut and the golden bean accepted by the queen she in turn will choose from among the revelers a youth to serve as a Knight of the Golden Bean with whom she will open the ball.

Mrs. Von Ficht as chairman will have as her assistants Mrs. Fred Hollister Harwood, first vice president of the Bonnie Hame association, and the following officers and members of the executive committee: President, Mrs. Frank L. Bellows; second vice president, Nathan B. Lewis; recording secretary, Mrs. Frank S. Graham; corresponding secretary, Mrs. James F. Presnell; treasurer, Mrs. George Francis Baker, and William S. Kenyon of Washington, D. C.; Albert N. Eastman, Fred H. Harwood, Dr. Albert Parker Hedges, Dr. James F. Presnell, Mrs. William H. Fahrney, Mrs. A. N. Marquis, and Mrs. Myron R. McKinnon.

The patrons and patronesses include Gov. and Mrs. Deneen, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. P. D. Armour, George Ade, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Bion Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Watson F. Blair, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Dr. and Mrs. Heman Brown, Mrs. T. B. Blackstone, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chickering, Mr. and Mrs. Secor Cunningham, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Leicht, Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCormick, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. McFatrich, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. McMullin, Dr. Julia Holmes Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Tracy, and Mme. Carolina White.

Miss Priscilla Carver of Highland Park will leave on Dec. 27 for Washington, where she will be the guest of Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh. Secretary and Mrs. MacVeagh will give a series of entertainments in their Washington residence in the holiday season. On Dec. 28 they will give a reception to the Economic, Scientific and Literary association, at which Miss Carver will assist. On New Year's afternoon Mrs. MacVeagh will keep open house between 2:30 and 7:30 o'clock at which Miss Carver will assist and in the afternoon will give a few piano selections. She will assist and play at a third reception on Jan. 3 and on Jan. 5 Secretary and Mrs. MacVeagh will give a dinner, the evening to close with a program by Miss Carver. The series will close with the dinner to the president and cabinet which Secretary and Mrs. MacVeagh will give on Jan. 11, at which again the Chicago girl is to have the honor of giving a program. While she is in the east Miss Carver will play at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York and before the Woman's club of Orange, N. J., returning in time for her appearance with the Thomas orchestra in February.

Miss Mary Grant will be presented by her mother, Mrs. John C. Grant, at a tea at the Metropole on Saturday from 4 to 6 o'clock. Mrs. Grant will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Albert J. Averill, Mrs. T. H. Bellas, the Misses Helena and Edith Bellas, and a number of the season's debutantes, including Miss Isabella Holt, Miss Evelyn Valentine, Miss Cornelia Chandler, Miss Harmon Bailey, Miss Mildred Magie, Miss Gwendolyn High, Miss Gwendolyn Mitchell, Miss Ellen Barker, and Miss Alice Buckingham.

Mrs. Ralph Emerson, Mrs. Norman Frederick Thompson, and Miss Adalyn Thompson of Rockford have issued cards for an afternoon musical in the rooms of the Fortnightly club on Dec. 29. Mrs. Emerson and Mrs. Thompson spend much of their time in Chicago and annually give an afternoon entertainment in Chicago.

This morning brings the last of the morning musicals in the series given by Miss Anne Shaw Faulkner and Marx E. Oberndorfer at the Woman's Athletic club. Among those who will give luncheons following the musical will be Mrs. J. C. Yager, Mrs. H. B. Clow, Mrs. W. G. Anderson, Mrs. Darius Miller, Mrs. Frank Pagin, Mrs. Tracy Turner, Mrs. F. W. Cushing, Mrs. Percival Palmer, and Mrs. A. C. Mowry.

The Italian Study class will meet in the Chicago club rooms at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Count Spagiari will give a talk on D'Annunzio's latest play, "The Martyrdom of St. Sebastian," and Signorina Zeppilli will sing. Signora Campanini and Signora Bassi will preside at the tea tables.

Mrs. M. S. Rapp has issued invitations to a children's dancing party for her 10 year old daughter, Catherine Rapp, on Saturday evening, Dec. 23, at 7 o'clock in Parish hall, 1143 East Forty-sixth street. One hundred children are invited.

Erection of a modern clubhouse for all of the state clubs and societies of Chicago, to be known as "The Associated States Clubs" home, was discussed at a meeting of the Hawkeye Fellowship club at the Auditorium yesterday. George C. Otto presided at the luncheon.

Chicago was pictured as the coming intellectual center of the world yesterday by William L. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education, at a meeting of the Chicago Woman's Aid at the Standard club. Ask Taft to Fight Saloons.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—A petition from the mothers of Lake county, Illinois, praying that President Taft interest himself in the betterment of the environment of the military and naval training schools throughout the country and asking his assurance that their sons be protected from the adverse influences of barrooms, clubs, and saloons, will be presented to the president tomorrow by Mrs. W. C. H. Keough, a former member of the Chicago board of education. Citing the instance that the naval training school at Lake Bluff, Ill., is within a five minutes walk of sixty saloons, the petition sets forth the desirability of isolating the schools and of devoting as much attention to the surroundings as to their academic advantages.

Representative Foss will introduce Mrs. Keough, who is a field lecturer for the Catholic Total Abstinence society of Illinois, and who also represents the Catholic women members of the National Anti-Saloon league, now in convention here.

Calls Mormon Church a "Trust."

"Mormonism is not a harmless fad," declared Dr. John F. Carson in an address before the Presbyterian Social union last night at its banquet at the Congress hotel. "In ten years that religion has grown in numbers from 18,000 to upwards of 330,000, and is growing every day."

Dr. Carson referred to the Mormon church as a gigantic political combination which was more of a restraint of trade than any commercial institution.

"It would be far better," he said, "if the politicians who are so anxious to attack the trusts would devote a little time to investigating the conditions in Utah. They are afraid to attack this trust."

Round About Chicago

Christmas, 1921.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

BJONES looked over his mail on the bright morning of Dec. 13, 1921, and sighed as he thought of all the Christmas presents he would have to buy before the twenty-fifth day of the month. It had been much easier ten years before. In that far off day precedent and usage had laid down hard and fast laws on the subject of Christmas presents.

They were implanted in every breast and one could not go wrong. If one had to buy presents for a little Jimmy, a small Clara, an Uncle Albert, a Cousin Amelia, or for a Mehetable, queen of hearts, who would some day be our bride, there was not a possibility of any doubt as to what would be most suitable.

A little Jimmie invariably received a drum, little Clara got a doll with hair that would comb. For the Uncle Alberts there was always the box of "El Fumigatoro" cigars, for the Cousin Amelias the sterling silver pendent earrings (like cut $5.00), and for Mehetable, queen of hearts, who would some day be our bride, the handsome diamond which one got for a $1 down and $1 a week up to the time of the filing of the last papers in the divorce case.

But Bjones found that times had changed—1921 was not 1911. New conditions, of which there was hardly more than a strong hint ten years before, had broken the old laws and rules as to what to buy for Christmas all into small pieces.

Bjones decided the best thing to do was to go to the shops and walk among the gay display of seasonable gifts for the holidays and wait for inspiration. So hurrying downtown on the subway from Wilson avenue he plunged into the first big store, near where he alighted in what was once the loop district.

Bjones went into the egg department.

"You know eggs are always suitable for Christmas presents," said Mrs. Jowser, whom he met there. "When in doubt buy an egg. Of course, they're a bit expensive, but when one gives a Christmas present one wants to give something worth while and shouldn't think of the money part of it."

"I know that," said Mr. Bjones. "Still why wouldn't it be better to buy an egg extract coupon from the grocers. It would cost only as much as two or three real eggs and yet would keep a person supplied with egg extract for several months. Nowadays we eat nothing but egg extract, and why give a real egg and arouse a false appetite which, after being once gratified, must thereafter be supplied only with a substitute."

"Well, of course, there's something in that," said Mrs. Jowser. "Still, there is so much distinction this year in being able to say that one has eaten a real egg that even if it does arouse the awful egg appetite which cannot be appeased until the following Christmas, well, it's something to have lived once, anyhow."

But Bjones couldn't quite make up his mind. He wanted to buy an egg for his little nephew Ferdinand and looked at several that were very beautiful.

"Eggs are the most desirable Christmas presents one can buy," said the clerk. "After the contents are carefully removed by making a small hole at each end of the egg and blowing out the yolk and the white, to be eaten, the memory of which will remain forever, the shell is left to be hung up over the mantel—if one is rich, or put away in a safe deposit vault if one is in more moderate circumstances—and preserved as an heirloom. I would advise you by all means to buy an egg for Christmas."

Bjones priced a dozen or more and finally bought an egg for little Ferdinand. Then he decided to buy something for his uncle and approached a clerk whom he recalled as having been in the store for many years.

"What is your uncle's name?" asked the clerk, and then, blushing deeply, said, "I beg your pardon; I associate you with the old days when it was highly important that the name of the uncle be known. You know that ten or twelve years ago they always bought a safety razor for the Uncle Johns and a pair of automobile goggles for the Uncle Williams."

"True," said Bjones, "I never could understand why."

"Probably," said the clerk, "because the Uncle Johns always had a heavy growth of spinach on their chins and had taken an oath never to shave until William Jennings Bryan became president. The automobile goggles always were sent at Christmas time to the Uncle Williams because the only speeding the Uncle Williams did was on the Indiana avenue trolley."

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Bjones. "Well, times have changed. What are we buying for uncles this Christmas?"

"I think the most acceptable present—at least to judge from the number we are selling for delivery Christmas morning—would be a nice porterhouse steak. Two or three years ago these were out of the reach of all except persons of great wealth."

"Well," said Mr. Bjones, "I had thought of buying a steak for Uncle Tom; it would remind him of his boyhood. But I have to buy quite a lot of presents this year and I didn't think I could afford anything so elaborate."

"You must examine our new plan of selling porterhouse steaks," said the clerk. "You are required to pay down only $5 and then a dollar a month until the full amount has been paid. If you keep the steak in a cold storage safety vault we will take it off your hands at any time for just what you paid for it."

"Splendid," said Bjones, "I may buy one. But now for a present for mother."

"How would a pound of nice, yellow, genuine butter do?" asked the clerk.

Bjones laughed scornfully. "There is no such thing," he said, "and you know it."

"With every pound package of our Christmas present butter," said the clerk solemnly, "we give a copy of the affidavit sworn to by the hired man who milked the cow, the hired girl who did the churning, and the farmer's wife who patted the butter into shape. We also furnish a photograph of the identical cow from whose milk the butter was made and one hair from her tail mounted in silver on a mahogany stand."

"Well, that ought to be proof enough," said Bjones, "if I can afford it I will buy a pound. I suppose I can get the pound of butter on the cash down and so much a week plan."

"O, yes," said the clerk, "we want to make it possible for every one to secure the most desirable present."

"And now there is another present I would like to buy," said Mr. Bjones, dropping his voice to a hushed whisper. "You see, this is the most important of all."

"What color eyes?" asked the clerk.

"A deep, wonderful sea gray," said Bjones.

"And hair?"

"Black as the great black night."

"Ah, yes, and——"

"Probably next spring," said Bjones, "only we haven't set the day yet."

"Well, of course," said the clerk, thinking hard, "I know that in this case money is no object. You are willing to go the limit?"

"Absolutely," said Bjones huskily.

"Then," said the clerk, "why not a nice big potato or a big red apple?"

"I'm willing to spend money," answered Bjones, "but you know I've got to keep in mind that I want to have a little cash in hand to commence housekeeping on."

"True," said the clerk, "but I can show you some potatoes that are as good as new, only they are not new and therefore we are selling them very cheap. These potatoes were taken by people who failed to keep up their weekly installments on them and so we had to seize the property and return it to the store. Just as good as new, only a little handled."

Bjones bought the idol of his dreams, a potato weighing fifty carats, and after seeing it was carefully wrapped in cotton and put into a great plush box, lined with green silk, called a special messenger and sent his Christmas present on its way.

But he had hardly reached his modest bachelor quarters that evening before a panting messenger reached him with a note that made him reel over to the drug store, where he would have purchased a small bottle of carbolic acid only it was so expensive the druggist demanded a dollar to permit him to even smell the cork.

For the note said, "You have spoiled our happiness forever with your Christmas present. Papa saw it and said I must declare our engagement at an end. 'My daughter,' said my father, and I think he was quite right, 'shall never marry a spendthrift.' Good-by forever. Mildred."

Little Girl Wishes Dolls.

"I am a little girl, 11 years old, and live in the country. I love paper dolls. I saw 'Mrs. J. V.'s' letter and would like some paper dolls very much. MIRIAM F."

You will get the dolls as soon as the kind ladies who have them see your nice little letter and write to me for your address. Twenty other girls have received paper dolls and patterns for dolls' clothes from us, but none of them is as young as you are. Your letter is well written for a child of your age, yet I can see that small fingers held the pen.

It reminds me of the time—a great many years ago—when I was 7 years old and wrote what we called then "coarse hand." What do your teachers call it?

More Cigar Band Offers.

"If 'Clara G.' hasn't succeeded in getting enough cigar bands I can give her some sixty or more. E."

"I read in your Corner of a girl, 'Clara G.', wanting cigar bands. If you (or she) will kindly tell me how many are required and send me the address where they are to go I shall forward them to her. I chanced to pick up some in Cuba and Florida. HATTIE J."

"The cry is still 'They come!'" I am sure that "Clara G." has all the cigar bands she can work up for years to come. May we hold yours in reserve against the time when other fancy workers call for them? Keep them until you receive such petitions.

Offers Legal Aid.

"Under another cover I have mailed you our last annual report and other literature of the Legal Aid society. I did not see the paper, but understand that in a question in your department as to whether or not there was a Legal Aid society in Chicago you asked the question.

"No doubt many questions come to you in which we can be of help to the inquirers, and as our society is for the benefit of those unable to engage attorneys, we are glad to offer our services to any who may need free legal aid.

"I should be glad to tell you all about our society, if it would be of any benefit, but knowing you are a busy woman, send the literature, and will be glad to have you call upon us at any time. M. P. S., Superintendent."

The faithful secretary who takes especial interest in this branch of our work has penciled upon this letter the thankful exclamation, "At last!" We have had numerous and pressing inquiries touching this Legal Aid society, and we are delighted to locate yours. It is of inestimable value to persons who cannot afford lawyers' fees and who have right on their side. The organization has done much good in other cities. We thank you for thinking of us in this connection.

It is a fact, the reverse of creditable to our civilization, that the poor man who is cheated or otherwise oppressed by his fellows must endure the wrong because justice is so expensive. We hear daily the remark: "Put up with anything sooner than go to law. It always costs more than the matter is worth. You will pay $10 to recover a just debt of half that amount."

To right this monstrous evil the Legal Aid society was formed and exists. It is a truly benevolent association, albeit incorporated under another name.

Has Chance to Learn Cello.

"As I have to make my own living and am a girl of 15 years, I should like some kind person to put me in touch with a violoncello. I have a chance to get lessons free and a position as soon as I can assist with the accompaniments.

"I have a lot of piano music that I shall gladly give to some music lover. M. C."

The address of the music lover is in our index. Anything that may be done to advance her in the studies she pursues under difficulties that would daunt a timid soul will be worthily bestowed.

I take this opportunity to say that we always prefer to put querist and respondent into direct communication rather than to take charge of money or other gifts.

Seeks Fisher Pictures.

"If some one has magazines in which pictures drawn by Harrison Fisher appear I should appreciate these pictures very much, as I am making a 'Harrison Fisher' book. If at any time I can return this favor I shall be happy to do so. MARGARET F."

The same request was made last week by another girl correspondent. The Harrison Fisher work is in great demand—and small wonder that it should be!

Will Give Baby Clothes.

"May I have the address of the woman who wrote the letter I have clipped from your Corner and enclose? I occasionally have baby clothes—not often—but as my little tots outgrow their garments without wearing them out I should be happy to send them to this woman at my expense, as we live in a suburb of the city.

"May I further ask if you personally, or collectively through your corner, know of a mending preparation for use on enameled wear? I intend to replace all my kitchen utensils with aluminum, but the expense of the latter forces me to make the process of replacing gradual. Meanwhile I positively fear to use the [illegible] basins and kettles that have begun to chip on the inside. A mending preparation that would withstand hot water and fire would be very valuable to me just now. O. A. E."

The address has gone to you by mail. Thank you for the donation.

I know of no preparation which will repair enamel ware. There is an impression abroad that the material exposed by the scaling of the outer surface of this ware is, as one woman declares to me, "just rank poison." I do not credit this for one moment. It is not pleasant to have one's cooking utensils chipped, but they are not therefore useless. Will members who can enlighten us on these matters let us hear from them?

Child Wants Tricycle.

"My little girl of 7 years of age is anxious to get a tricycle. As I cannot afford to buy her one I should be glad to hear of some one who will give her one and make her happy. There may be one stored away that is no longer in use. I shall gladly pay express charges. "LOUISE F."

Will our Providence, R. I., contingent look into this case for us, and if the coveted tricycle may be found in that portion of our territory report intelligently upon it to us?

Volunteers to Do Sewing.

"I read of the many wants of the Corner and wish I were able to supply every one. I can't. So I've been thinking and wondering if I could be of any use by offering to help any whom you know of who cannot find time to sew. I would ask for them to cut out and get ready the garments and I shall stitch them. I shall do any amount of stitching for those who are really worthy and needy, and will furnish thread, will call for and deliver the work. Do you suppose I could be of any help to a mother or working girl in this line? If so, my address is with you. MRS. C. E. A."

I "suppose" nothing! I am as sure as of my life that numbers of women, staggering under the burden of housework and child tending, not knowing where to buy new clothes, and unable to snatch time from the cruel pressure of daily toil to mend the old garments into respectability, will be thankful beyond expression for your most generous proposal.

And many who can manage to buy material for clothing, etc., cannot get time for making them up.

Your plan is most thoughtful and full of promise for weary mothers of young children. You tender what is more precious than money—your time, your strength—yourself!

Making Slumber Robe.

"I should like some silk pieces to finish a slumber robe. I come to you for help, for I know you will do what you can for me. I will pay postage or express, and be very glad to get them. MRS. E. H. R."

Since the slumber robe (we used to call it "afghan") is partly made, it would be a pity to leave it incomplete. I hold your address and will cheerfully pass it over to those who have silken bits to spare.

Laura Jean Libbey's Comment and Advice.

Outside Help Not Wanted.

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

(Copyright: 1911: By Laura Jean Libbey.)

FORTUNATE is the family who have neighbors that are constantly on the lookout to render them any little service in their power. Those who hardly know their next door neighbors do not know what they miss. Newcomers in a neighborhood ought to be grateful to be the recipients of friendly solicitude.

When the girl next door hints to the daughter of the house that she will be only too pleased to assist her in entertaining the young men who call upon her her father thinks that it is time to hoist up a sign: "No outside help is wanted." He believes that there is such a possibility as some neighbors getting too intimate, adding: The girl who has to call in some one else to entertain would be a single fixture in the family. The girl who does not know how to paddle her own canoe need never expect a bridegroom to sit at the helm of her lifeboat.

The girl who depends upon her friends to introduce her to an eligible young man, if her circle of acquaintances is limited, is apt to find that the friends in question have relations and near friends of their own for introduction. They don't want outside help to divert the attention of those young men, her uncle affirms.

A family may be glad of outside help in preserving season, or to help plan the making over of last year's gown, and a thousand and one little household matters. But when it comes to proffer assistance in helping on a love affair no one should expect his services to be wanted. No family can afford to shut the door in the face of courtesies proffered them, especially where there are a number of daughters to marry off. Not one father in ten thousand counts upon their remaining single and on his hands for all time to come. Nor does he need outside help to tell him whether the young man who is calling steadily upon Elizabeth is the right kind of a beau. He is quite able to judge of that for himself. He needs no outside help.

And, above all things, if husband and wife begin to bicker and to disagree, certainly no outside help is needed to patch up their differences. Let them make it up themselves. They will be obliged to do this if interference is not wedged in, for this usually widens instead of helps the breach. The wife is quite capable of making her own soft appeals as an overture to reconciliation even when the husband is most stubborn.

Again, there are times when outside help comes in well. If the head of the house loses his position, then friends can help him on his feet again. He finds that he cannot get along without friends. The widow, too, realizes that outside help may be a heaven-sent boon to comfort her. She is never the one to refuse outside help from her women friends. She knows that they pity her in her loneliness, and she appreciates all they do in her behalf to make her forget her lonely lot.

The question is for outsiders to determine just when their help would be a necessity and when it would be a bore. True friendship is sweet and no one is so independent that he or she can get along without it. But there is a delicate golden line over which even friendship of the closest kind should not venture to obtrude itself.

How to Get Started.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I have met a nice young man whom I should like to go with. I do not know how to get started, as he lives in another city. Will you please give me a little advice? "A READER."

I don't know how you are going to get started either, unless you know some one that he does.

* *

He Smiles at Her.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 16 and work in a downtown office. There is a young man about my own age who passes the door two or three times a day. He has always a smile for me, and I think he would like it if I should give him an invitation to come in and talk with me. My employer is out most of the time, and I am alone. As I am bashful, do you think it would be a wise thing to ask him? ANXIOUS."

No, certainly do not ask him in. If he is at all interested in you he will find a way to meet you in a conventional manner. In the meantime don't cheapen yourself by smiling at him.

* *

Her Father Doesn't Like Him.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 20, and I am in love with a man three years my senior. He loves me and has asked me to marry him, but I cannot consent on account of my father, who is much opposed to the match. He will not allow my friend to come to the house to see me. What shall I do? Shall I marry him? SORROW."

If you love the young man and you are sure he is worthy of your love, there is no reason why you should give him up. The difference in your ages does not count for anything.

Economical Housekeeping

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

A Women's Luncheon.

MANY a woman who feels quite equal to planning the home menus likes to get a little outside help when she proposes to give a party.

If she is going to cook and serve a luncheon, say, herself, and enjoy it with her guests, she has much more to face than the mere planning of a menu and the buying for it. She must order it so that it will be possible to have everything just as it ought to be, though there be but one pair of hands to do the work. She cannot have many dishes that require much attention at just the moment they are served, or things that will cause too long waits between the courses. It is no small task to get up a nice, pretty meal for eight or a dozen persons and do all the work one's self, but with good management and a timely start one person can do it with perfect success.

If the hostess have a hot soup it is almost necessary that she have a cold meat. The cold or iced soup of the summer is out of the question at this time of the year. The salad she should have ready and on ice or in a cool place two or three hours before it is to be served. If she choose some fruit dessert like a filled pineapple or a made cream, these, too, should be ready some time beforehand and placed where they will be as cool as possible. And the dishes for each course should be out on the sideboard or where they will keep hot for the hot things.

If she choose a hot soup she will have that, the vegetables, a hot bread, or toast—if she chooses these—and the coffee to watch. She cannot well choose soufflé of either meat or vegetables, unless she has her hot meat in a chafing dish over which one of her guests presides.

The following menu contains a new chafing dish viand, which, originating in a café, is now sought after by home cooks—Chicken à la King—a Chicago chef's invention which has not yet appeared in any cook book unless in one printed within the last month.

MENU.
Grape fruit.
Chicken à la King. Mashed potato.
Hubbard squash. Beet and lettuce salad.
Toasted bread or hot rolls.
Banana cream. Cake.
Coffee and bonbons.

Grape Fruit.—Although an oyster cocktail might be used with such a luncheon as this, the grape fruit seems more in keeping. An economical and satisfactory way is to cut the fruit in two, scoop out all the pulp, and sugar, and set it away till cool, and then serve it in tall glasses or even in sherbet cups with a bit of some other fruit for garnish. This is the way it is served in the land of grape fruit, instead of in the shell, and in this way one large shaddock is quite sufficient for three or four persons.

Chicken à la King (a chef's recipe).—Sliced meat of chicken, sliced mushrooms (fresh if procurable), sliced green peppers, sautéd together in butter. Add strips of pimentos or Spanish peppers, season with salt and paprika. While at simmering point add a mixture of cream and egg yolk. When at a creamy consistency serve in a chafing dish. A plate of toast is usually served with the order. (Some like a little sherry wine added to the cream and egg.) If served without a chafing dish then dish up in a border of duchesse potatoes.

Of course, this cream and egg mixture, especially with the sherry, is the same as for the lobster and other Newburgs, and it takes an experienced cook to manage it well or the egg will curdle. Heat the cream and add the egg when it is boiling hot, but off the stove. The hot cream will usually cook the egg sufficiently. Any such dish as this is good if the cream alone is used, not thickened with egg.

It is disagreeable to have the egg curdle with anything like chicken. The chicken breast of itself is most delicious and soft at the stage when it has begun to brown in the butter, which softens it through and through, and would be good, though not as sightly, prepared as above without any mixture.

Beet and Lettuce Salad.—If this luncheon should happen to be the accompaniment of a card party this salad may be made suitable to the occasion by slicing the beets and cutting them with those vegetable cutters shaped like hearts, clubs, spades, diamonds, which it is now easy to get in many sizes. Cover the lettuce leaves with these various shaped pieces, with the odd pieces chopped and formed into a little mound in the center under them.

Banana Cream.—Into one pint of sweetened scalding milk stir one tablespoonful of minute tapioca and cook until dissolved. Remove from fire and add the beaten yolks of two eggs, then set on the fire until it thickens. Remove, and when cool add the beaten whites of the eggs, folding in carefully a little at a time. In the serving dish have two bananas peeled and sliced thin and pour over them the tapioca cream.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets

The Christmas Face.

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

[Copyright: 1911: By Lillian Russell.]

I MET a friend of mine on the street yesterday morning and I was shocked. I thought she must have lost a near and dear friend or at least a great deal of her comfortable income, as she certainly "looked the part." Her eyes were red, her nose was pinched, her mouth set in most determined lines, there were wrinkles from its corners to her chin and a deep perpendicular furrow between her eyes; her hair was scraggly and unkempt, and her dress untidy.

"What's the matter?" I asked. "You look as if you had lost your last friend."

"I don't expect to do that," she answered, "until after Christmas; but when they see the gifts that I am sending them they will probably wish they had never known me."

"What's the matter with the gifts?" I asked.

"Well, I just cannot seem to find anything that suits anybody," she answered, "and I have about five hundred people to whom I must send some sort of a token at Christmas, and I am so tired that I am just buying things wholesale and trusting to luck in sending them."

"O, no, you mustn't send any one a gift because you think you have to," I answered. "Go home, take a hot bath, get into a pretty loose gown, comb your hair daintily, and take the latest 'best seller' and read all this afternoon. You will be happier than if you had bought a lot of people you don't particularly care for things they don't want, and I am sure when your husband comes home to dinner he will know you."

"It's a fact," she answered; "he has asked me two or three times lately if I were well, but to tell the truth I haven't had time to look in the glass, and I have been pulled and hauled about in stores until I wish there was no such thing as Christmas; and I am afraid that I have acquired one or two wrinkles in my face that I can never eradicate."

"You certainly have, if you keep up the mode of thought with which you started out to buy your Christmas gifts. In the first place, the practice of Christmas giving is not obligatory. The mere fact that you feel that you must send a token robs it of all its Christmas spirit, and your face while buying it of all the spirit of love and peace. Why not cut your gifts down to the friends that you really wish to remember? Do not feel that Christmas is the time to pay obligations—all you have to do is to remember that 'God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son.' He didn't have to do it. He did it because he 'so loved the world.' That is the whole secret of the joy of Christmas; and if you can only give because you so love, you will find that it will not only give you rest, repose, and content, but that furrow between your eyes will be smoothed out by the hand of Christmas and you will carry its beautifying influence far into the coming year."

We do too many things in this world because the other woman does them. We do not reason whether they are right for us to do, but follow blindly in the well worn path. We haven't the courage to do the thing that we think is right, regardless of whether it is conventional or not. Instead of allowing real sincerity to influence us, we keep up the appearance of generosity even while it is not only a bore but ofttimes a great effort.

Instead of worrying over gifts that you can not afford, that you feel you must give, put up a little pot of cream, perfume it with your friend's favorite scent, pack it in a tiny receptacle which can be purchased anywhere for from 10 cents to a quarter of a dollar, tie it with a bright red ribbon, and send it to your friend with the best wishes of the season.

Remember: When sending something to smooth out the wrinkles in your friend's face, be careful the effort which the gift involves does not bring furrows to your own.

Music and the Theaters.

"Samson and Delilah" Placidly Received.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

THE placid beauties of Saint-Saëns symphonic opera, "Samson et Dalila," were placidly received last night when that worthy work came to its second repetition by the forces of the Chicago Opera, before an audience that comfortably filled the main floor, but left many vacant places in the upper parts of the theater.

It must be confessed that the performance deserved a more cordial reception, not merely because of its many beauties of art and artifice but by reason of the distinction that marked the orchestral aspects of the performance and the splendid singing of Mme. Gerville-Reache, Mr. Dalmores, Mr. Dufranne, and Mr. Huberdeau in the principal parts.

Mr. Campanini frequently asserts that artistic sincerity which is characteristic of the man by entering into the repetitions of the more serious numbers in the not too trying repertory with evidence of greater enjoyment that the hearer receives on the occasion of a first performance. Last night one felt that he took particular delight in the remarkably sensitive and responsive reading which the orchestra gave the score. Aside from the admirable work of the principals, this element was the most significant which the evening developed, for the chorus, for the first time this season, made valueless a great amount of delicate dynamic effect by singing persistently off the key.

As excuse one may plead the long and trying rehearsals which are preparing the "Natoma" premiere for Friday evening. But "an excuse is a confession," and it was only by an effort of the will that one was able to find pleasure in the beauties disclosed in the first act by the orchestra, but burdened with choral dissonance none the less harrowing because subdued.

The entrance of Mr. Dalmores infused vocal vigor into the performance, an effect the magnetic French tenor usually accomplishes. The chorus forgot its mood of intermittent depression and sustained him admirably in the stirring climax of the battle song. Mr. Crabbe was not at all terrifying as Abimilech and after an ineffectual struggle with orchestral sonority permitted himself to be killed with operatic neatness and dispatch. But Mr. Dufranne, as the High Priest, reaffirmed the vocal authority of the scene.

Mr. Huberdeau, as the old Hebrew, did some of the most finished and impressive singing of the season and Mme. Gerville-Reache, in splendid voice and mood, added the note of sensuous beauty that was needed to round out and complete the abundant vocal brilliance sustained by her colleagues.

Mr. Campanini taught us early last season the emotional possibilities of the gorgeous orchestral envelopment which Saint Saëns has given the wonderful melody of the familiar aria, "My Heart, at Thy Sweet Voice." With the warm tones of Mme. Gerville-Reache's voice to announce that melody and the voluptuous color of the orchestra to support it, it became, for all genuine lovers of music, one of the great moments of the season.

The stage management and the mechanical department repeated the successes of opening night. The lighting was tastefully subdued in the first two acts and the difficult transformation scene in the finale was handled with skill. The ballet again contributed to the attractiveness of the evening.

Tonight Massenet's "Cendrillon" will be given with Miss Teyte, Miss Garden, Mme. [illegible] and Mr. Dufranne in the principal roles.

Theatrical News Notes.

George C. Tyler, the executive of Liebler & Co., came to Chicago long enough for a conference with his representative here and with the management of the Grand opera house, as a result of which the complexion of the season's bookings in that theater has been importantly changed. The schedule whereby "Alias Jimmy Valentine" was to have come for the holiday weeks was altered to bring "Pomander Walk" to Chicago for the first time on the afternoon of Christmas day. This play, by Louis N. Parker, the author of "Disraeli," was first acted a year ago in Montreal, and was promptly transferred to New York City, where it not only ran through last season but was successfully revived for some weeks not long ago. It has been indorsed by the McDowell club there. Some good English actors are in its cast, including George Giddens, and a prominent character is played by Miss Dorothea Parker, daughter of the author, who made her stage debut at the premiere of this comedy.

It is not at all likely that "Alias Jimmy Valentine" will ever again be performed in Chicago, at least in the theaters of the "first class." The star, Mr. H. B. Warner, is to go soon into a new comedy. "Alias Jimmy Valentine" prospered hardly at all when first revealed here two years ago in the Studebaker, but has since been very successful. Its ancestry was not at all bad. Paul Armstrong, who is down in the bills as the "author," and Hugh Ford, the general stage director for Liebler & Co., fashioned the play from Tom Taylor's famous old melodrama called "The Ticket-o'-Leave Man," devising a new last act on a basis of the late O. Henry's short story called "A Retrieved Reformation."

Mme. Simone will, after Saturday, suspend her public appearances long enough to get ready an English version of Maurice Donnay's famous pro-Semite play, "Le Retour de Jerusalem," which will be acted here as "The Return from Jerusalem." This play created a decided sensation when first acted in Paris ten years ago, at which time it was regarded as severe criticism of the official attitude in the Dreyfus affair. Mr. Charles Frohman at the time acquired the American rights with a view of having Miss Maude Adams act as the apostate Jewess, but never produced the play here. Mme. Simone will, in this rôle, make her first appearance in a play not written by Henri Bernstein, if exception be made of her season as the Hen-Pheasant in Rostand's "Chantecler."

When the second cast of "Louisiana Lou" takes to the road on Jan. 1, the title part will be sung by Miss Angelina Rosa Novasio, who was sometimes known as Miss Leonora Novasio. That was when she sang and danced and acted blithely in "The Girl I Love," in October last in the Auditorium.

MISS ISABEL RICHARDS
In "EXCUSE ME," At the Studebaker

Miss Richards is one of the travelers on the Pullman car where so many amusing things happen to divert the spectators of Mr. Rupert Hughes' play.

"Lena Rivers" at the Marlowe Theater.

At the Marlowe theater a brand new dramatic version of "Lena Rivers" is being given this week by Charles B. Marvin's players. It is pleasing its audiences, which are gratifying in size, even though Sixty-third street is a shopping district and lots of folks are saving up for Christmas. In Englewood the audiences are not only on neighborly terms with the management and the artists but they have mostly read the novels from which the "book plays" are converted. This, perhaps, accounts for much of the interest manifested in "Lena Rivers."

There isn't any downright villainy in this play. One who waited through the third act to see if some of those high and mighty society persons would attempt personal injury on demure, countrified Lena Rivers has to own up he was disappointed, and isn't quite sure he got his money's worth. But the plurality of applause after that act showed that most everybody thought that the stuck up society women had been black hearted enough simply by trying to start scandal about Lena Rivers and by letting her know they thought themselves better than she.

Miss Leila Shaw, the popular leading woman of the Marlowe stock company, doesn't deceive anybody a minute when she comes out in the first act as a gawky country lass. Although she wears a flaxen wig and a torn dress and shoes without heels, all of her admirers know from experience that she was destined for the drawing room, and that it will not take long for her to lose the Sis Hopkins outfit. Little Lena Rivers, in whose life there is a mystery, is vastly admired by a handsome chap of wealthy family, who isn't afraid to risk his white flannel suit while drinking from the old gourd dipper.

In the second act Lena and her grandmother are ensconced in the home of their rich relatives. There the handsome hero presses his wooing, but is interrupted for a time by those hateful, sneering society ladies, who have nothing to do but stare through lorgnettes and stumble across false evidence of wrong doing in other folks. But naturally, in the end, innocence and rural refinement win the day.

Miss Dora Lombard as "Granny Nichols" is delightful as a nice old lady. G. M.

The engagement of John Mason in "As a Man Thinks" will end Saturday, Dec. 23. On the following evening "The Kiss Waltz" will be presented, with Miss Adele Rowland, Miss Eva Vincent, Miss Elsa Ryan, Miss Flora Zabelle, Charles Bigelow, Robert Warwick, Martin Browne, William Pruette, and George Pauncefort in the cast. The American version of the piece is by Edgar Smith. C. M. Ziehrer, who wrote the music of "Mlle. Mischief," is the composer.

Henry Kolker has been engaged for the leading rôle of "The Greyhound," the new melodrama by Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner. Three of the four acts of the piece occur on an Atlantic steamship, and there are three scenes in one of the acts. "The Greyhound" will be produced in five weeks.

Thomas Orchestra Applauded in Boston.

[BY A BOSTON CRITIC.]

Boston, Mass., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The Theodore Thomas orchestra, Frederick A. Stock, conductor, gave a concert at Symphony hall tonight. Albert Spalding, violinist, was soloist. A fair sized audience showed keen appreciation of the following program:

Beethoven "Coriolanus" overture; Elgar, concerto for violin and orchestra, for the first time; Brahm's second symphony.

Stock, although offering a program which was not in all regards grateful, proved himself comparable with the notable European conductors who have been heard in this country. His quiet authority, his sympathy, his plasticity, and his fine poetic tastes are not unlike the style of Toscanini.

It was the "Don Juan" which published eloquently the virtuosity of the conductor and his orchestra. The tone poem has not been played in this city within recent years as it was played tonight.

Louise Homer a Mother.

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Louise Homer, for some years the leading contralto of the Metropolitan opera house, and who has been out of the cast this season, this morning presented to her husband, Sidney Homer, the composer, a daughter. The young lady has been named Hester Makepeace Homer. Hester Makepeace was the name of Mrs. Homer's first American ancestor, who was born in New England in 1682.

London Likes American Singer.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Felice Lyne, the American singer who created a sensation at Hammerstein's opera house a short time ago as Gilda in "Rigoletto," had a great reception tonight when she appeared in the title part of Lucia di Lammermoor. The part did not suit her so well as that of Gilda, but the audience applauded her enthusiastically. Orville Harrold, the American tenor, gave a brilliant performance as Edgardo.

BASEBALL EDICT AS WAR SPECTER

American League Slaps a Rival by Severing Amicable Relations.

O'DAY TO MANAGE REDS.

Manager Jimmy Callahan of the White Sox Signs "Kid" Gleason to Act as Coacher.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The American league's reply to the sarcastic attack on President Johnson, made yesterday by C. Webb Murphy of the Cubs, and to the attitude of the National league toward ticket scalping, took the form today of a resolution severing amicable relations with the veteran organization and giving the National league an opening to declare a baseball war, if it wants one.

The resolution which precipitated near chaos out of a clear sky was adopted just before the close of the American league's annual meeting, which lasted a little more than three hours, this afternoon.

Resolution Refers to Scandal.

The text of the resolution follows.

"Resolved, That the American league will continue to exercise its privileges and observe its obligations under the national agreement, but will decline to have further official intercourse with the National league except so far as may be requisite for the safeguarding of its territorial and player rights.

"Be it further resolved, That the American league will not be represented in another series for the championship of the world or in any other interleague event unless accorded sole charge of the sale of tickets to games played on its grounds, under an agreement and with the understanding that it shall not assume responsibility for the conduct of the business department of games at the park of the other contesting club."

This resolution, according to the official announcement, was adopted unanimously and copies of it were ordered sent to President Lynch of the National league and to Secretary Farrell of the minor league association.

According to various club owners of the American league the resolution is simply to make each major league club solely responsible for the handling of world's series tickets at the game played on its own grounds. In other words, the Philadelphia Athletic club is willing to take the blame for whatever scalping of tickets occurred in connection with the games in Philadelphia last October, but is unwilling to share the blame for what happened in this city. To make each club responsible for its own scandals is the avowed purpose of the move.

May Cause Baseball War.

On the face of the resolution it is more far reaching than that, and if it does not lead to immediate severance of all relations between the big leagues, an increasing amount of friction is bound to follow, with only two alternatives—eventual war or a backdown on one side or the other.

If the American league lives up to the letter of its resolution it will refuse to have official intercourse with the National league on the schedule committees and on the playing rules committees. Conflicting schedules and different playing codes will [illegible] from such action.

The National league will be able to force the American league to act on these committees, which are provided for in the national agreement, or to withdraw from that agreement altogether. That is what the old league can do if it wants to. Will it try to compel the American league to back down, or will it try to suppress the belligerent members of its own circuit and permit the American league to live up to that part of the national agreement which it chooses to observe? On the answer to that question depends war or peace in baseball.

The National league itself probably will be welded together by this defiance. It was pretty well split up today and held only a brief and stormy session, which was adjourned for twenty-four hours under pretext of paying respect to the memories of the late William Hepburn Russell and Stanley Robison. The adjournment was not effected unanimously, but President Murphy of the Cubs, who made the move, mustered sufficient strength to carry his point just before the time came for election of a president.

O'Day Appointment a Surprise.

While all this magnetic friction was coming off, the name of the new manager of the Cincinnati Reds was disclosed and it was found to belong to none other than Henry O'Day, native of Chicago and veteran pitcher-umpire of the National league. Shortly after this surprise party was pulled, Manager Callahan of the White Sox threw his mitt into the ring at the Hotel Astor and started bidding for a first baseman and a catcher.

Callahan first went after Hal Chase, the Yankee star, who tried his hand at managing and resigned recently. Owner Farrell waved Callahan away and declared he would not part with Chase on any terms. Next Callahan turned his attention to Stovall, and President Somers of Cleveland consented to listen. After the listening, Somers offered to trade Stovall for Rollie Zeider, and Callahan backed away. The Cleveland man stood firm on his demand for the former coast third baseman and the conference terminated right there.

"I would not listen to giving Zeider for Stovall," said Callahan, "and they would not listen to anything I offered. Zeider is too valuable a man to be traded. He is versatile and can fill in almost anywhere that the team needs him, and he can go out and get the runs for us. I don't know where I will play him, probably on first if I fail to land Chase or Stovall, but I'll not trade Zeider for Stovall."

Cal and Griffith Talk Trade.

Callahan's overtures for one of the Washington catchers were repulsed by Griffith, who replied by asking Cal if he would sell Walter Johnson for $25,000 if he had him. Eddie Sweeney was equally out of all reach, according to President Farrell.

Manager O'Day arrived at noon today and started his career as Red manager by receiving congratulations from every baseball man present in whatever capacity. He said he was unaware that he had been chosen until four days ago and did not know it was announced until his arrival here. O'Day said he would don a baseball uniform once more and be out there coaching the players instead of benching them for kicking, but he did not say how he would take it if one of his old pals in the arbitrating business ordered him off the field for kicking.

The new Red manager is a native of Chicago and played ball almost as many years as he umpired. He knows the game, therefore, from every possible angle. O'Day began his baseball career as a pitcher in Toledo and developed into a major leaguer in the box (there was a pitcher's box in those days), his greatest fame being won in this city. He also pitched in Washington and Pittsburg of the National league and in Lincoln, Savannah, and Columbus, his pitching days ending in the last named city. He has been a member of the National league umpire staff for fourteen or fifteen years. He was picked to manage the St. Louis Cardinals when McCloskey had the job, but President Pulliam refused to release the umpire from his contract.

Cal Signs Gleason's Brains.

Undeterred by his failure to pull off a trade, Manager Callahan of the Sox signed Kid Gleason, the former star infielder, to act as utility man, scout, coach, and "buffer." In other words, Callahan explained he had signed Gleason's brains and intended to give the kid opportunity to use them to help the Sox in every possible way. Gleason always was known as a heady player and has pitched as well as played the infield. His coaching of youngsters and his judgment on the coaching lines will be worth every cent his contract calls for, according to Callahan.

Horace Fogel repeated his numerous offers to trade Charley Dooin to different clubs in exchange for one or more of their stars, and in one or two instances offered to throw in Earl Moore for good measure. No one took Fogel seriously, remembering the big deal of last winter which Fogel tried to declare off after it had been closed.

Aside from its bomb explosion the American league had little business to attend to. The directors went over the business affairs of the league and audited the accounts of the treasurer. The Athletics were declared champions of the league.

A resolution was also passed awarding to Umpire Sheridan a medal of honor for past services, and the veteran arbitrator was placed upon the pension list.

At the league meeting John I. Taylor represented the Boston club, as the reorganization of that company will not be completed until its annual meeting. The club owners passed a vote of thanks to the Athletics for winning the world's pennant. The matter of gambling and pool selling was taken up and the clubs voted to the president the power to take what action he saw fit in an effort to curb outside pool selling.

The requests of the minor leagues for changes in the national agreement were discussed and referred to President Johnson for final action. This will be taken at the annual meeting of the national commission early in January if the fabric of organized baseball holds together until then.

The National league directors went through the formality of auditing its accounts and declaring New York the champion team. When the business meeting convened the regular order of routine business was followed until election of officers was reached, when a motion to adjourn was made and carried.

The veteran organization will have the local field alone tomorrow, as the American leaguers finished their business and many of them will leave for their homes. How long the National league will be able to drag out its meeting with the new developments of today no one can guess. It may last all winter.

Officials, club owners, and managers of both big leagues were guests of the owners of the world's champion Athletics tonight at a dinner given at the Hotel Astor in honor of the Baseball Writers' association.

THE REAL AND THE UNREAL.

WHAT BASEBALL MEN DID AT NEW YORK.

American league adopted drastic resolution declining further "official intercourse" with National league, except to fulfill its obligations under national agreement.

National league, after stormy session, adjourned until today.

Boston National league club sold to J. B. Gaffney of New York. John M. Ward named president and Ned Hanlon as manager.

Umpire Hank O'Day of Chicago appointed manager of Cincinnati club.

Manager Callahan of White Sox signed "Kid" Gleason, veteran player, as coach.

Manager Callahan of White Sox made offers for catcher and first baseman; refused to trade Zeider for Stovall.

GAFFNEY BUYS BOSTON CLUB; J. M. WARD MADE PRESIDENT.

Business Associate of Charles F. Murphy, Leader of Tammany Hall, Gets Stock from Russell Estate.

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The Boston National league baseball club, which has been on the market since the death of William Hepburn Russell, was sold tonight to James B. Gaffney, a business associate of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall. The amount paid for the stock owned by Mr. Russell's estate was $175,000.

Mr. Gaffney immediately appointed John M. Ward, the old shortstop of the Giants and now a lawyer in this city, as president of the club. Ed Hanlon of Baltimore was appointed manager.

Mr. Ward and Mr. Gaffney will represent the Boston club at the meeting of the National league tomorrow, when the deadlock on the vote for president may be broken. Mr. Gaffney wanted Mr. Ward to run for president of the league, but he decided to devote his time entirely to the Boston club.

BLAZE DESTROYS AMBITIONS.

Kling and Archer Might Have Been Partners in Billiard Business but for Recent Fire

Had not fire destroyed the palatial billiard room of Johnny Kling in Kansas City on Thanksgiving day, he and his former backstopping mate, Jimmy Archer, might have been partners in business before time to don the mask and protector next spring. Archer arrived yesterday from the west and will go on to Buffalo today to pass the winter. Since the season closed he has passed most of his time in Kansas City with Kling and said he had made up his mind to move there, even having a house picked out. He stated his intention of going there to stay after the season of 1912 is over, even hinting of a possible business alliance with Kling. During the absence of the latter for a few days last fall, Archer looked after the billiard hall. During the afternoon King Cole drove Archer about town in his new motor car. Eddie Sweeney, catcher for the New York Americans, also was in the party.

WANT KEARY TO LEAD LEAGUE.

Three Club Owners in the Wisconsin-Illinois Organization Ask Him to Take Presidency.

Jack Keary, one of the pioneer semi-pro baseball men of Chicago, is in line to become a magnate. He has been quietly approached by three club owners in the Wisconsin-Illinois baseball league and asked if he would accept the position as president of the organization. Charles F. Moll is the present holder of the job and is said to have designs on becoming leader of the American association. The three members who approached Keary said they believed five votes for him could be obtained if Jack would consent to take the job. Jack says money is no object to him as long as he is serving the baseball public, so he will be glad to accept the position if elected.

Indoor Ball Notes.

The A. C. McClurgs defeated the Windy Citys at indoor ball, 4 to 1, at Novotny's hall. On Saturday night the McClurgs will play at Dunning.

The Goodriches and Diamonds and Michelins and Republics will play tonight in the Auto Row league.

CURTIS FIVE BEATS U. HIGH

Jung's Free Throw in Last Minute Decides Rough Game.

FOUL RULE OUSTS 2 PLAYERS.

Champion Lane Quintet Adds to Record by Downing Lake View, 43-7.

BY PREP.

Center Jung's free throw in the last minute of play gave Curtis' heavyweight team of the Cook County High School league a victory over University High, 17 to 16, on the former's floor yesterday. The contest was marred by extreme roughness, Curtis being penalized sixteen times and University High fifteen. Each team lost a player through violation of the personal foul rule, Schmid of Curtis and Pinkerton of University High being ousted. Ability on the part of Jung to throw eleven of fifteen free throws practically decided the issue.

Lane Technical, champion of the major division, continued its march toward a second pennant by downing Lake View at Lane, 43 to 7, and winning its third straight game. At half time the count stood 20 to 4. Bruce starred for the losers, making all their scores. For the technical quintet, Feeney played the stellar game, shooting nineteen points. Scores:

FLYNN AGREES TO FIGHT KAUFMANN

Manager Accepts Terms for Twenty Round Bout at San Francisco on Jan. 26.

SEEKS JOHNSON MATCH.

Pugilist's Agent Will Await Return of Champion to Chicago to Learn Plans.

BY KNOCKOUT.

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, will meet Al Kaufmann again, according to Jack Curley, Flynn's manager. The rivals for heavyweight honors will hook up in San Francisco on Jan. 26, in a twenty round bout before Harry Foley's club.

Foley secured the January permit for the coast city and immediately wired Curley if the fight between his protégé and Kaufmann would be acceptable, Kaufman already having agreed to meet Flynn, according to Foley. Curley shot back the reply that he would be glad to match Flynn against the Californian.

Flynn will receive $2,500 for his end, with a privilege of a percentage of the gate. On a percentage basis Flynn will receive 65 per cent if victorious. The Colorado battler and aspirant for the heavyweight honors is on his way to Salt Lake City, where he is scheduled to meet Tony Caponi the latter part of this month.

If Flynn is successful against the Italian he will go to the coast immediately, where he will start training for the Kaufmann bout. Curley will remain in Chicago awaiting the return of Champion Jack Johnson, who is on his way back from Europe. Curley then will make efforts to induce the negro title holder to meet his charge for the heavyweight championship.

Dr. Roller, the wrestler, also under the managerial wing of Curley, passed a restless night as the result of the slamming and banging he received at the hands of Jess Pederson in the mat bout at Riverview rink Monday night. He will be forced to remain in Chicago for several days and then will continue his tour of the west. On his arrival in Denver Roller will start work for his match with Zbyszko scheduled for the latter part of January.

Packey McFarland and his manager, Emil Thiry, who were to have started for New York tomorrow, have decided to await the arrival of Willie Ritchie, who started yesterday from San Francisco. Thiry has taken the young coast boxer under his wing, believing he has a great future. Ritchie lost a twenty round decision to Fred Welsh, but gave the English lightweight a hard game after going into the match with little preparation. Thiry hopes to get Ritchie several matches in the east.

CARL MORRIS FLOORS WILLIAMS

Fight at Cleveland Stopped in Third Round When Oklahoman Has Foe Helpless.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 12.—Carl Morris, the "Oklahoma giant," made short work of Al Williams of Cleveland tonight. The fight was stopped in the third round, when Williams was practically helpless.

Morris weighed 228 pounds and the local man 205. Morris towered above his opponent and seemed to receive the two or three blows that were landed by Williams with complete indifference.

Morris did little leading, but in the in-fighting got in short arm jabs that did their work quite effectually. In the second round Williams went to the floor for the count and twice more in the third round.

FIGHT PRINCIPALS FINED $50.

Promoters of Kelly-Shaughnessy Bout and Boxers Hit by Court Ruling—Case to Be Appealed.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Officials of Windsor Athletic club were convicted of promoting prize fights and "Spike" Kelly and Pete Shaughnessy, fighters, were fined $50 each today. The club will appeal the case to the Canadian Supreme court. Two weeks ago Kelly put Shaughnessy down for the count three times in the second round, the last clip being a clean knockout. Then the police and the legal ceremonies followed.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS.

BY HEK.

A TENTATIVE WELCOME TO JACK JOHNSON.

And so you're coming home, Jack, to settle down for life,
Resolved forever to eschew the pugilistic strife.
Your title we suppose, Jack, you mean to let it lapse,
Or pass it on to Langford, or to Fireman Flynn, perhaps.
O. well, you're twenty-one, Jack, and free—and though not white,
We're not inclined to interfere—do what you think is right.
You'll find when you return, Jack, no prejudice obtains
Against the colored person with a normal set of brains,
Who picks his line of going, understanding all the while
That a stingy inch of license does not contemplate a mile.
If you will cut the pace, Jack, below the second speed
We'll try to get ourselves to think your presence here we need.
But if you come it strong, Jack, the way you used to come,
You'll find you'll be as welcome as a crutch or as a bum.
If you will flaunt again, Jack, the garish and bizarre
As if you do not realize just where and what you are;
If ever you repeat, Jack, the things you used to do,
We'll try to make it plain, Jack, this is no place for you.

Kiss your hand and say adieu to the "scalping scandal" of 1911. Not that there was not considerable scalping of a more or less cold blooded nature, but it was found just after Mr. Johnson made his unstudied belch and threatened to start things drastic, that "local political conditions" were involved, and far be it from the National commission to rush in where even presidential candidates fear to tread.

What boots it, pretty gentleman, to break an envenomed lance on the hide of President Johnson? You can't wound him in the job.

Up to this stage of our diurnal six furlong journey we have had nothing but "Johnson," blanche et noir. Let's stow it.

GET IN LINE! ONE AT A TIME, PLEASE.

"The appended list of twenty greats (male) I will stack up against anybody's," declares P. A. W. and then he goes on:

1—Adam,	11—I. O. U.,
2—Sam T. Jack,	12—Ty Cobb,
3—One Eyed Connelly,	13—Jesse James,
4—Dan Cupid,	14—General Coxey,
5—Uncle Sam,	15—Bathhouse John,
6—Boni de Castellane,	16—Easy Steve,
7—Kelly Pool,	17—Nick Carter,
8—B. L. T.,	18—Munyon,
9—Coal Oil Johnny,	19—Steve Brodie,
10—Mennen,	20—Big Dick.

WHERE WOULD HE GET THE OTHER NINETEEN?

Dear Hek: Why don't you get Walter Camp to take a try at selecting the twenty greatest men? Isn't he the accepted authority on those matters?
C. F. F.

THE PORTUGUESE CRISIS.

Dear Sir: Without wishing to qualify as a gink with a Portugezo dictionario, I wish to say from the standpoint of the innocent rubberer that in the discussion now waging in the Wake between Manoel and Mack, the Ex-Rei puts it all over the tropical trotter. The king's stuff is a model of high chested, low hipped Lisbon straight front, while Mack's must have been acquired in the neighborhood of Goa, evidence his familiarity with the swatties and the nautch dancers. I suppose this will lay me open to a smash of Mack's billingsgate, but the truth must out. I want further to say that when Mack needs a word to eke out he transfers it bodily from the dic. without the intervention of a grammar. This should be horribly galling to one so grammatically pure in his English. Well, we deposed rulers must stick together, anyhow.
DOM PEDRO.

(Porforio Diaz, please come in.)

AS LONG AS YOUR HEART'S IN THE RIGHT FIX.

This is a song of regret from me,
A song that I hate to sing.
Last year I posed as a Christmas tree,
This year I can't do a thing.
I spent some bones on some homeless kids,
And the pleasure it gave was great.
But since that time I have hit the skids
And they landed me out the gate.
Outside of the gate of prosperity
Out in the slush and smear,
But take it from me in sincerity,
A Good Fellow—me—next year.

SMITH TOO FAST FOR ROLFE.

Skill and craft alike were employed by Jimmy Smith, the eastern bowler, when he defeated Bob Rolfe at Bensinger's new alleys in his second successful local match yesterday. Smith won six out of eight games after losing the first two, an enforced rest that Smith imposed on Rolfe after the third game changing the local man's form so that he fell an easy victim. The men rested fifteen minutes after the third game and then Rolfe shot an entirely different ball and stopped at 135 for his fourth count. It was not until the sixth that he again caught his stride. Scores:

Smith	.200	190	224	191	179	221	218	224—1,642
Rolfe	.218	214	180	135	166	220	204	206—1,543

SPORT FACTOR IN NATIONAL PEACE

Racing Leads to More Friendly Feeling Between England and Russia.

OLD STRIFE FORGOTTEN.

Adoption of Athletics by France Has Tended to Soften Old Enmities.

BY THE MARQUIS OF QUEENSBERRY.

In view of the fact that several people may think that I have overexaggerated the effect of sport on international good feeling, I feel tempted by way of emphasis to give a further example, which is not of my own invention but purely a matter of history.

During the Crimean war between Russia and England, and while armistices were in operation, the Russian and English officers fraternized openly, as did the men of both armies. At the close of the war some of the Russian officers became so enamored with the sportsmanlike qualities of their British foes that several of them emigrated to England, and lived and died there solely to be able to go in for that most glorious of sports—racing.

A notable emigré was Prince Solkytoff, a rich Russian nobleman, who came over and got together a magnificent stable, training his horses at Newmarket. His name became a household word in the annals of the British turf, and when he died a few years ago, no man was missed more, nor more lamented as a sportsman than this Russian. Even today some of our principal racing stakes are named after him.

I have a friend in Russia who is chamberlain to one of the grand dukes, and is the moving spirit of trotting in Russia, which is a sport in that country of great magnitude. In fact, Russia easily leads Europe in trotting meetings and trotting as a pastime. He was quite indignant with me at a dinner party, because I did not know the first, second, and third of our horses that had won the English Derby in different years, and seemed to think that my education had been sorely neglected. As far as he was concerned one had only to name any particular year, and he would tell them to you, and what is more, he would name the sire and dam of nine out of ten. How is that for keenness on sporting matters!

Russia is a great country indeed for both racing and trotting. I saw a good deal of the track trotting in St. Petersburg, owing to my friendship with the court officials. Nearly all the trainers and drivers in the trotting races are Americans, as are also quite a number of the flat race trainers and jockeys. Moscow is the principal center of horse racing. It has one big meeting in the summer lasting three weeks, where good racing is always certain, and the Russians having purchased such great English Derby winners as Galtee More and St. Patrick, the stock is the most "fashionable" possible. These two horses cost the Russian government about $300,000.

France has gone ahead so much in every branch of sport, that to this can be partly attributed that entente cordiale, which seems permanent. Who would have thought, say twenty years ago, there would have existed such firm friendship between the two hereditary foes? I will not touch on the point, how the union was an inevitable one, and will be content to say that it was accelerated as I explained the other day by sport.

SHORTS COVERING ADVANCES WHEAT

Unfavorable Weather in Argentina Stimulates Active Buying of Futures.

CASH INQUIRY IMPROVES.

Coarse Grains Have Rally; Corn Pit Offerings Are Small and Prices Firm.

Responding to moderate buying induced by higher foreign cables, due to continued unfavorable weather in Argentina, wheat prices yesterday closed at a net gain of [illegible]c. The trade inclined to dullness, and responsiveness of prices was due largely to the fact that the market was oversold and offerings were slow in coming forward. A better domestic cash situation stimulated the movement to cover shorts and added to the buoyancy of the market for futures.

Receipts in the northwest were again heavy, but this was robbed of significance by higher prices at both Duluth and Minneapolis, and a firmer market at Winnipeg. Southwestern movement was light. Another bearish influence which was completely ignored was Bradstreet's compilation of the world's available supply of wheat, making stocks show an increase of 3,727,000 bu, against a decrease of 3,926,000 bu last week, and a falling off of 2,157,000 bu for the corresponding week a year ago.

Cash Wheat Trade Expands.

Cash wheat trade was broader than on any previous day in a long time, and the aggregate business reported at the close was 220,000 bu, with charters taken for an additional [illegible] bu. Sales by samples consisted of 100,000 bu of new No. 2 red winter wheat at [illegible] under May and 100,000 bu old No. 2 red at [illegible] under May, both to go to mills. A car of No. 1 northern spring wheat sold for seed at $1.10, which was said to be the highest price of the crop year to date. Minneapolis reported heavy sales of flour, but these sales were denied later.

Local receipts were 30 cars, with 39 cars expected today. The aggregate at primary points was 717,283 bu, against 618,173 bu a year ago. Northwest cars were 511, against [illegible] a week ago, and 355 a year ago. Winnipeg received 672 cars, against 200 cars a year ago. Southwest receipts were 37,000 bu, against 105,000 bu a year ago. Chicago contract stocks in public elevators last week decreased 30,000 bu and totaled 9,868,000 bu.

World's Available 198,490,000 Bushels

The world's available supply of wheat was reported at 198,490,000 bu, which compared to a total of [illegible] bu a year ago. According to this report, the European available this week was 88,252,000 bu, against 116,400,000 bu a year ago, being 28,148,000 smaller than at the corresponding time last year, although showing an increase of 672,000 bu for the week, while a year ago it decreased 2,800,000 bu during the same week.

Liverpool cables were ¼d lower to ¼d higher for spot wheat and ⅛@⅜d up for futures. Paris wheat was unchanged to ¼c higher; flour, ¼c up to ½c lower. Antwerp wheat was ⅝c lower; Berlin, 1⅛c lower; Budapest 1⅛c lower. Clearances for the day were 174,000 bu.

[illegible]-Bryan, Lamson, Gardner-Paddleford, and [illegible]-Barrell led the early buying and were followed by Lowitz and Bartlett-Frazier, who were [illegible] early sellers. Prominent pit traders sold at the start and covered later. Large professional [illegible] furnished most of the offerings and there was some more selling by southwestern [illegible].

Corn Closes at an Advance.

Corn closed near the top for the day at an advance of [illegible]c, with continued bad weather over the corn belt again the chief bull factor. The trade was narrow, with an absence of promiscuous selling and comparatively little buying was needed to [illegible] values. Local receipts, 666 cars, were in [illegible] of expectations, but lighter arrivals are [illegible] for in the near future as a result of the wet, [illegible] weather, which has made country roads almost impassable and checked delivery of corn at loading stations.

Advices from several points in Illinois said shellers had been forced to suspend operations on account of the lack of corn, due to bad country roads. Local contract stocks in public elevators increased [illegible] bu last week. World's available supply increased 2,169,000 bu against an increase of 1,142,000 in the same week last year. Cash trade was fair, with sales of 80,000 bu, including 15,000 bu for export. Cash premiums were ½@1c higher. Liverpool spot corn was ¼d higher and futures ⅛d higher. Primary receipts for the day were 1,227,360 bu, against 1,166,810 bu a year ago. Southwest receipts, 251,000 bu, against 123,000 bu a year ago.

Commission Houses Buy Oats.

Oats closed at an advance of ¼@⅜c on good buying by commission houses and further covering by shorts. A better feeling pervaded the trade and business in the futures and in cash sample was of increased volume. Cables reported Argentine harvest general and a large crop assured. World's available supply decreased 835,000 bu this week, against an increase of 1,288,000 bu for the corresponding week last year. Cash prices were [illegible] higher, with sales of 200,000 bu. Local receipts were 223 cars, against 318 cars a year ago. Contract stocks in public elevators decreased 356,000 bu and were 1,685,000 bu.

Provisions Strong at Upturn.

With limited offerings on the market and steady buying of lard by commission houses, the provision market showed decided firmness and closed 10@22½c higher for pork and 7½@10c up for lard and short ribs. Shorts were liberal buyers and there was only scattered selling on the extreme bulges, while most of the big local speculators were heavily oversold. Hogs in the west totaled 110,400 head, against 128,900 a week ago, and 123,300 a year ago. Hogs at the local stockyards were steady.

Rye Active and Higher.

Rye met with a brisk inquiry and sold at an advance of 1c. No. 2 made 94c; No. 3, 89@90c; No. 4 was quoted at 80@87c nominal. Receipts were estimated at 8 cars.

Barley was quiet. Malting closed at 95c@$1.22; feed, 70@80c; mixing, 80@90c; screenings, 50@65c. Receipts, 57 cars.

Timothy seed closed steady at $12.50@15.00 for cash lots. Clover seed was unchanged at $13.50@20.00 for country offerings.

Duluth flax closed steady to ½c higher, with cash on track at $2.03; December, January, and May, $2.01. Receipts were 64 cars. Minneapolis flax was ½c higher at $2.03 for cash on track. Receipts, 68 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

Broomhall's weekly foreign crop summary says: "United Kingdom—Wheat already seeded has a good outlook. There are some complaints regarding thrashing returns from the old crop. France—Outlook for the new crop favorable. Germany—An official report for Dec. 1 gives the condition of wheat and rye as 62 per cent. On Nov. 15 last year wheat was 78 per cent and rye 76 per cent. Russia—Outlook in the south is satisfactory, it being cold, with some snow. Arrivals at the ports are smaller and stocks show a decrease. Roumania—Outlook for the new crop is favorable, with the weather mild. Arrivals are light. Argentina—Some private reports are being received here of an unfavorable character. Some estimates place the yield in the north at from 5 to 9 bu, but the increased acreage, the surplus figures as given indicate about as we estimated—namely: 124,800,000 bu."

Bennett had the following reports on corn conditions: "Litchfield, Ill.: Country roads bad, farmers cannot deliver much on this acount; think would sell rather freely if roads were good. Nokomis, Ill.: Country roads not good; think farmers would sell freely if could deliver; some of the elevators have quit buying on account of poor condition of corn. Decatur, Ill.: Roads not good; little corn being delivered that was already sold, but not selling much now. Taylorville, Ill.: Country roads bad, but the farmers do not seem anxious to sell, as they think they will get higher prices for their corn. Gibson City, Ill.: Country roads in bad condition; no corn coming in, and what has been coming was sold; farmers inclined to hold."

The seed improvement committee of the council of American grain exchanges is doing a large amount of publicity work in connection with the movement looking towards seed improvement conditions. Bert Ball is secretary of the committee, with offices on the balcony floor of the board of trade. Recently he has issued bulletins on seed barley, which have been distributed by some of the cash men on the floor. Farmers are daily becoming more impressed with the idea of having good seed if they wish to raise good crops of grain, and the council of grain exchanges is doing good work in the line of stimulating inquiry on the part of grain growers as to the best methods to follow.

Argentine news was conflicting, as usual. A late Broomhall cable said the Buenos Aires market was 1½c higher at the opening owing to heavy rains in the northwest. Yesterday the market there closed 1⅝@2⅜c lower. Liverpool was influenced a little by the Argentine news being ¼@⅜d higher, but continental markets were generally weak.

The cash demand was better, judging from the amount sold. Templeton reported the sale of 100,00 bu new No. 2 red at 4½c under May and 100,000 bu old No. 2 red at 5c under May free on board. He also reported the sale of a car of No. 1 northern for seed at $1.10. Outside cash markets were a shade firmer in sympathy with futures.

Cash corn was firm and about ½c higher. Country deliveries were moderate. The sales here included a little for export. Oats were in a little better demand with prices ½c up. Total sales were 210,000 bu wheat, 80,000 bu corn, and 200,000 bu oats.

Directors of the board of trade, at their regular weekly meeting, took up the case of Abe Goldstein, a member charged with uncommercial conduct, and continued it for one week upon the plea of Mr. Goldstein that he had had no time to prepare a defense against the charge. The case of J. S. Templeton was also postponed. The directors elected Robert H. Langdon to membership and bid $2,000 each for two more memberships. They also made the third floor of H. Boore & Co.'s warehouse "B" regular for storage of provisions until June 1, 1912.

Bradstreet's report of the available supply last week shows the following increases:

	1911.	1910.
Wheat, east of Rockies	424,000	*253,000
Canada	2,606,000	896,000
U. S. and Canada	3,037,000	643,000
Europe and afloat	700,000	*2,800,000
Total world's stock	3,727,000	*2,157,000
Corn	2,169,000	40,000
Oats	*835,000	*1,796,000

*Decrease.

Ware-Leland: "For a long pull we feel that corn is a purchase, but at the moment receipts are somewhat heavy, and are likely to continue so for some time to come. The cash article, however, is being fairly well taken and after the first movement is over we believe purchases may be safely made."

Crighton-Lasier had a car of corn in yesterday containing 2,468 bu, or 138,210 lbs. This is believed to be the largest carload of corn ever received here.

Quincy, Ill., wired: "Roads bad, and this and the price has checked selling of corn. Farmers want 50c and the shippers cannot pay it."

Minneapolis reported fair sales of flour for export yesterday. Sales were by country mills, which were buying wheat against the sales.

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were steady to ¼c higher; corn, steady to 1c higher; oats, ¼@⅜c higher; rye, ½@1c higher.

SHIPPERS AND ROADS AGREE TO END SWITCHING FIGHTS.

Plan Joint Conference Committee to Adjust Disputes—Two Fast Trains Added to Coast Service.

After nearly three years of effort the railroads terminating in Chicago and local shippers have agreed on a joint conference committee to settle future disputes over switching charges in the Chicago district, extending from Gary, Ind., on the south to Mayfar and North Evanston on the north, Franklin on the west, and the lake on the east. The personnel of the commttee will be announced soon.

Prior to recent years, when the railroads and shippers first held "get together" meetings but had no regular committees, every railroad had different switching tariffs.

The joint committee will not have authority to establish tariffs, and any shipper or railroad will still have recourse to the interstate commerce commission or some other body for complaints. But it is understood that what is decided by the committee will be generally acceptable to the majority of railroads and shippers.

Last August, after weeks of conference, a uniform minimum was first established. It provides for a charge of $15 per car for every incoming or outgoing car, with excess on a basis of 2½ cents per hundred pounds. For cars switched from one point to another within the switching zone a minimum charge of $0 for 60,000 pounds and 1½ cents per hundred pounds excess of that will be made.

There will be trains de luxe in plenty between Chicago and the Pacific coast after this week. Last night the Santa Fé inaugurated a new fast train leaving Chicago every Tuesday evening out of the Polk street station at 8 o'clock. On Sunday the North Coast Limited, which for years has been running out of St. Paul for Portland, Tacoma, and Seattle, will be run out of the Chicago and Northwestern station from Chicago in the inauguration of a regular service from this city through an arrangement between the Chicago and Northwestern and the Northern Pacific railroads.

The Santa Fé train will be an extra fare train. It will arrive in Los Angeles at 9 a. m. on the third morning.

MICHIGAN AV. SITE SOLD FOR $83,000

Field Estate Buys Premises at 1925-27, Which Is Under 99 Year Lease.

STANDARD OIL IN DEAL.

Indiana Branch Gets Fifteen Acre Tract Along the Harbor Canal.

Chauncey Keep, Arthur B. Jones, and the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, trustees of the estate of Marshall Field, have purchased from Silas P. Hubbell and Augustus W. Wheeler the ground at 1925-27 Michigan avenue, 55½x160 feet, for $83,250.

The property, which adjoins the Calumet club on the north, is under a lease for ninety-nine years to Ferdinand W. Peck, at an annual ground rent of $4,162.50, making the sale on a 5 per cent basis.

The property is being improved with a modern four story building, to cost about $70,000, which Mr. Peck has leased to the B. F. Goodrich company of Akron, O., for ten years at a term rent of $120,000. The sale to the Field estate was negotiated by Albert J. Allen.

"Winnipeg Block" Leased.

A notable long term lease has been closed in South Chicago involving the Winnipeg block at the northeast corner of Commercial avenue and Ninety-second street. The lot fronts 125 feet on the avenue and 250 feet on Ninety-second street and the building is a three story structure with stores on the ground floor, offices on the second floor, and a busines college on the upper floors.

The property has been leased by Lamson Bros. board of trade men to Montague Bros., who conduct a buffet at Cottage Grove avenue and Thirty-ninth street, for a term of ninety-nine years at an annual ground rent of $10,800. Capitalized on a 5 per cent basis this gives a leasing value of $216,000, which is at the rate of $1,728 a front foot.

The lessees expect to expend about $25,000 in improving the property. The transaction, which is said to be the largest of its kind in South Chicago, was negotiated by John Herne & Co.

Oil Company Buys Fifteen Acres.

The Standard Oil company of Indiana appears as the purchaser in an interesting transaction just closed in the Indiana harbor canal. It comprises fifteen acres at the intersection of the northeast and west branches of the canal, which was sold by the East Chicago company, John A. Chapman, and William Jenkins through W. A. Merigold & Co., for $55,000.

It is distant about a mile from the lake and has a frontage of 900 feet, extending back 1,200 feet to the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad tracks. The channel has been accepted by the federal government and will be maintained as a navigable waterway 200 feet wide and 21 feet deep, from the lake to the Grand Calumet river.

Strauss Homestead Sold.

The estate of Leopold Strauss has sold to J. Russell Jones the old Strauss homestead at 1838 Michigan avenue for $40,000. The property is midway in the block between Eighteenth and Twentieth streets, east front, with a frontage of 30 feet and depth of about 170 feet to an alley.

The dwelling was given no value in the transaction. Mr. Jones was represented by Oliver & Co. and the sellers by Albert L. Strauss.

Western Electric Site in New Deal.

The former plant of the Western Electric company, bounded by Van Buren, Congress, Clinton, and Jefferson streets, comprising twenty-three lots in all, with a number of buildings, and which was purchased about a year ago for about $2,000,000 by R. P. Lamont, John Barton Payne, William V. Kelley, and George E. Scott, title being taken by Mr. Lamont, has been conveyed by the latter to the others, including himself, as trustees of the Clinton Realty Trust Association Trust agreement, with power to manage.

The property was at one time considered in connection with the west side postoffice site, but the present transaction is said to have no connection with the other project. It is said that about 70 per cent of the space in the various buildings has been rented by Alex. Friend & Co., who have charge of the property.

Goodfriend & Co., men's furnishing goods, have rented from Katharine Isham the four story and basement building at 262-266 State street, old numbers, for three years from May 1 next, at a term rent of $30,000.

Indorses "Utility Galleries."

"What Chicago needs is the so-called 'Utility Galleries,'" said August Gatzert, speaking before the Cook county real estate board at their weekly luncheon at Hotel La Salle yesterday.

"They are being successfully operated in London and there is no reason why they shouldn't be here."

"These galleries," continued the speaker, "are built directly under the streets from curb to curb and carry all of the pipes and other mains of the public service corporations leaving plenty of room underneath for the proposed subway."

Mr. Gatzert added that there galleries also would insure good pavements and do away with the extra traffic congestion caused by torn up streets. He said the gas companies and other corporations would be able to do their work at less cost and without causing the city extra trouble and money by working from above instead of below the pavement.

Opposition was shown to the high buildings being erected at all times in some part of the loop district by Mr. Gatzert, who said that he thought they added to the congestion of streets every time one goes up. He hoped to see the time in Chicago when the high buildings would be limited to 100 feet.

PACKERS BID HIGH FOR FANCY VEALS

Pay Up to $8.50 for Christmas Stock; Cattle Trade Narrow and Steady.

HOG PRICES HOLD LEVEL.

Common Quality Lowers Top 5 Cents; Fat Lambs and Sheep Sell Firm.

Packers at Chicago yesterday were after fancy veal calves for their Christmas trade and paid up to $8.25@8.50 for a few loads of assorted animals, although the legitimate top for the day was $8.00. Cattle trade was narrow and barely steady at Monday's price range, with choice heavy beeves at $9.10. Most of the other steers on sale were of plain quality and sold at $6.25@7.00 for the bulk.

Hog values held at Monday's level, but the quality of the offerings was common and best sales at $6.30 were 5c lower than the foregoing day's top, while the average was off 1c, to $6.13. Packers expected a liberal Wednesday supply of prime fat hogs and bought sparingly, while eastern shippers took 3,000 hogs, leaving 6,000 head to be carried over unsold.

Prime fat lambs and sheep met with a ready outlet at unchanged prices, but the inferior grades were discriminated against and sold slowly at a decline of 10@15c. One lot of fancy western wethers reached $4.25, the best price made in several weeks, while choice lambs reached $6.25.

UNITED STATES LAND AND IRRIGATION EXPOSITION

BUSINESS, COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL SECTION

WABASH PREPARES TO PAY INTEREST

Committee on Reorganization Plans to Care for 4 Per Cent Bonds on Jan. 1.

LARGE FUND DEPOSITED.

Illinois Central Takes Georgia Central Issues; Title and Trust Earnings High.

Unless the members of the recently appointed reorganization committee for the Wabash railroad change their plans, the interest on the refunding and extension 4 per cent bonds will be paid Jan. 1. It is understood that already the company has deposited a large amount of money with the Equitable Trust company, to be used for that purpose. Further than this the committee has announced no definite plans with respect to the reorganization of the company's finances.

President Delano and the members of the committee will start west within a day or so to make an inspection of the main line of the system. This will take four or five days. In a short time the committee will probably ask for the deposit of securities as a preliminary step to the plan of readjustment, and announce some plans with respect to the company's obligation in connection with the Wabash Pittsburgh terminal and Wheeling and Lake Erie.

It is suggested that if these obligations were to be carried until there is a better situation in politics and business it would be possible for the railroad to realize considerably more from its interest in these properties than is possible under present conditions.

Chicago Title and Trust.

Estimates of the 1911 net earnings of the Chicago Title and Trust company run in the neighborhood of 15½ per cent on the $5,000,000 capital stock. This would compare with 14.16 per cent earned in 1910 and 13.53 per cent in 1909.

Central of Georgia Bonds.

The two committees representing a large amount of the three classes of income bonds of the Central of Georgia railroad have entered into an agreement with the Illinois Central railroad to sell it all of the bonds which members of the committee as individuals own and which the committee represents.

The purchasers of the bonds have agreed to pay 95, 92½, and 90, respectively, for the three classes of bonds, the interest heretofore unpaid, and a portion of the expenses of the committees. All the certificate holders who have not heretofore deposited their bonds, and who wish to avail themselves of the offer, will, in addition, be required to pay 2 per cent, 2½ per cent, and 3 per cent, respectively, on the first, second, and third income bonds.

Howard Elliott Optimistic.

Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific, is conservative regarding business conditions in the west. He says that while business in the territory of his road is quiet, still any changes there may be all for the better and not for the worse. November gross earnings of Northern Pacific were about the same as last year, but the net will probably show some increase. Barring unforeseen calamities, Mr. Elliott sees no reason to fear the discontinuance of the present dividend rate of 7 per cent on Northern Pacific. A month ago Mr. Elliott said that his company would do no financing this winter. No change in plans has been made since then.

Prices for local stocks ruled generally higher yesterday, with transactions in Boxboard reflecting considerable liquidation around 1 by holders who do not care to pay another assessment. Commonwealth Edison and Chicago Telephone were strong and active, the former advancing nearly two points. Trading elsewhere was evenly distributed in smaller proportion. Booth Fisheries stocks gained about three points each. Shipbuilding common was lifted 1¾, and Chicago Title and Trust set a new high record of 178. There was only a moderate business in bonds, with prices firm.

NEW YORK STOCKS LACK IN ACTIVITY

Market Does Not Show Effects of Lively Selling Session of Monday.

GERMANY SEEKS MONEY.

Bids Above 6 Per Cent for Use of American Funds in Marks for Thirty Years.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—The increase in trading of Monday was not maintained today. A few larger net gains were added to the previous day.

The market merely became dull, without showing much effect of the selling induced by the substantial rise with what the week opened. Union Pacific, which had shown the sharpest gain on Monday, was the only one of the most active stocks which today closed at a net decline, and its loss was limited to the barest fraction.

Bids a fraction above 6 per cent were reported today as being made from Berlin for the use of American money for the next thirty days, which would cover the end of the year settlement. It appears that the bids for loans were in marks, and not in dollars, and that the New York lender on such bids would have to take all of the risk of exchange.

Bids Must Be Favorable.

The difference of exchange is a much more important item in a short loan, of course, than in the case of long time loans, but some of the bankers who were most active in lending money in the German market earlier in the year, notably at the close of September, are not now accepting these bids of 6 per cent because of the conditions under which they are being made, which must be favorable.

So far as came to light today the highest bid made in this market by German bankers for loans in dollars was 4½ per cent. The explanation in well informed banking circles was that this rate was likely to be raised to a somewhat higher figure before the end of the month, but it seems clear that the bids for American money now being made by Berlin indicate no such expected strain as that market had to encounter at the close of the September quarter.

Carry Over Charges Up.

The carry over charges on American stocks in the London settlement went as high as 6 per cent, which was from 1 to 1½ per cent above the rate charged at the last fortnightly settlement. This advance in carry over rates in the face of an easier or almost a steady discount market clearly bore out the reference in the day's cable advices to a much enlarged position in American stocks in the London market.

Money on call easier, 2½@4 per cent; ruling rate, 4; closing bid, 3½; offered at 4. Time loans easier; 60 days and 90 days, 4@4¼ per cent; six months, 4@4¼. Prime mercantile paper, 4½@4½ per cent. Sterling exchange firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8275 for 60 day bills and at 4.8620 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.82. Bar silver, 55⅛c. Mexican dollars, 46½c. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Money was in strong demand and discount rates were steady today. Carryover rates for American shares ranged from 5 to 6 per cent. Mining and copper shares were strong, but Guayaquil bonds closed 2 points lower. American securities opened steady and closed steady. Underwriters have agreed to take up at 89 the $35,000,000 Canadian Northern railway debentures recently offered.

TURKEYS UP FOR CHRISTMAS

Dealers Make Second Advance of 1 Cent Within a Week.

BUTTER BUYERS HOLD OFF.

Demand Still Lower Prices; Eggs Easy; Potatoes Steady at Decline.

Another advance of 1c a pound was made in prices of turkeys at Chicago yesterday, making net gains of 2c a pound so far this week. Fowls and spring chickens sold at an upturn of ½c. The trade was active and receipts were closely taken at the advanced prices.

Butter market did not respond to the beneficial influence of a 2c cut made in prices Monday, and the trade continued sluggish and weak, with buyers asking for further reductions. Eggs were easy, but not quotably lower.

Potatoes held at the decline made Monday, the market being benefited by a falling off in arrivals, the aggregate for the day being only 73 cars. Sweet potatoes were easy, the market being depressed by excessive accumulations of common stock.

Fruit and vegetable trade was quiet, climatic conditions being unfavorable.

Money Making Business Lots.

An unparalleled growth in the population north has become so marked in the past few months that the Northwestern Elevated Railroad has been forced to put on forty-eight new trains, cut down running time and reduce the intervals between trains.

The intervals between trains on the Ravenswood day schedule have been reduced from five to four minutes, and the midnight schedule has been cut from thirty to twenty minutes.

The above is copied from a news item in the morning paper of Nov. 30. This means that Ravenswood Gardens and vicinity is growing so fast that the "L" road has been forced to increase its service.

Now is the time to buy Lawrence-av. business lots in Ravenswood Gardens. Lawrence-av. is the nearest business street paralleling the Ravenswood "L" road, and is the principal east and west business thoroughfare in Greater Ravenswood, the fastest growing district in Chicago.

FIRST PRICES.

Take advantage of the first prices on our Lawrence-av. business lots—$590 to $840 each. You have seen good business lots get away from you before, but you never had a chance the equal of this. Our regular and popular terms—$10 down, $7 to $10 per month.

Take "L" car marked Ravenswood and get off at the Rockwell-st. station. Our office is right there.

WEST & COMPANY.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or income from other sources], who, while not in a position to borrow money from a bank, realize that exorbitant interest charged by professional money lenders is high and extortionate. I am connected with the Indiana Loan, Credit and Trust Company of Chicago, co-partners, 4303 Grand-blvd., and having private means of my own, I am willing to loan money with or without security and at a consideration but a trifle above bank rates, and never more than the interest legalized by the states of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the precise rates being determined by the amount loaned and time assumed. My location [15 minutes from loop district via South Side elevated] assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where lenders congregate. Always best to telephone Drexel 84 for private appointment. Ask for MR. S.

State of Illinois, County of Cook, ss.: In the Probate Court of Cook County. In the Matter of the Estate of Charles T. Yerkes, Deceased.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Pursuant to an order of the Probate Court of Cook County, Illinois, entered November 25th, 1911, Louis S. Owsley, Executor of said estate, invites proposals or bids for the purchase for cash from the said estate of 400 Inter Ocean Newspaper Co. bonds of the face amount of Four Hundred Thousand Dollars [$400,000], together with interest coupons attached thereto, being a part of an outstanding issue of the face amount of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars [$600,000] of the first mortgage twenty year 5 per cent bonds of The Inter Ocean Newspaper Co., dated January 1, 1907, issued under a mortgage of the same date and executed by said company to the Central Trust Co. of Illinois as Trustee.

Said proposals or bids to be addressed to and received by the Judge of the Probate Court of Cook County, Illinois, in the room usually occupied by him as a courtroom in the County Building, Chicago, by or before 10 o'clock a. m. on the 27th day of December, 1911, which such bids or proposals must be accompanied by a certified check, or cashier's check, for the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars [$20,000], payable to the order of Louis S. Owsley, Executor of the Estate of Charles T. Yerkes, deceased; said proposals or bids to be either in bulk for the entire lot of said bonds or any portion thereof separately, the Court reserving to itself the right to reject or accept any bids.

Said proposals or bids to be opened by the said Court at the hour of 10 a. m. on the said 27th day of December, 1911, or as soon thereafter as shall be convenient to the Court. The Court further reserves the right at said time to offer said bonds or any part thereof to the highest bidder in open Court upon the opening of said bids or proposals as aforesaid; in the case of any bid so made in open Court the successful bidder shall deliver to the Judge of said Probate Court at the time his bid is accepted his certified check or cashier's check for the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars [$20,000], payable to the order of Louis S. Owsley, Executor of the Estate of Charles T. Yerkes, deceased.

In case any bid, whether made by written proposals or in open Court, shall be accepted by said Court, the check for $20,000 of such successful bidder shall be applied on account of the purchase price of said bonds at the time when the balance thereof is paid as directed by the Court, but if such successful bidder shall fail to make the payments at the time so directed, then the amount of said check shall be forfeited and shall be held by Louis S.
